ALPHA ZETA, established in 1846 at Columbia University, New York, N. Y., by William B. Ackley, Gookin Baker, Edward Payson Taylor, Charles E. Van Buren and Jonathan Edwards Leavitt. Gamma, Gilbert C. Briggs, M'49, and Zeta, Frederick D. Tappen, M'49.

THE history of Alpha Zeta is interwoven between two colleges, Columbia University and the New York University. The chartering of the New York alpha was due to the efforts of Frederick D. Tappen and Gilbert C. Briggs, two Chi Psis who transferred from Middlebury College to New York University. The charter as first given in 1846 was to students in New York University. The editors have been unable to discover the exact date of the establishment of the alpha. It was some time in the fall of 1846, as is evidenced by the following extract from a letter from Alpha Pi to Alpha Epsilon written October 3, 1846: "Have also to announce the establishment of a new chapter of Chi Psi in the University of New York. Consent was obtained before your chapter (Epsilon) was organized, but it was not carried into effect until this term." When the name "Zeta" was taken the writers have been unable to discover, perhaps at the very founding, although in all the correspondence during the early years it is referred to by no other name than the "New York Alpha." For some few years it seems as if the members of the alpha were taken from both New York University and Columbia.

In 1848 some students of Columbia College attempted to secure a charter of their own as is evidenced by the following petition:

"Whereas there are but two secret societies in our college (Psi U and Delta Phi), said college containing from one hundred and twenty-five to one hundred and thirty members, and the conduct of one of the above mentioned fraternities being for a long time past especially marked by a spirit of overbearance and an unwarranted assumption of power, and we whose names are hereunto annexed, by our hearty opposition of such measures, having incurred the hostility of a number of the members, and moreover deeming the introduction of the honorable order of the Chi Psis possible, needed and absolutely called for, and having every reason to suppose that in the event of its introduction it will be cordially supported (that is, if we can draw any just inference from the ardor and enthusiasm manifested on the subject by all those who are privy to our design), we the undersigned students of Columbia College do hereby pledge ourselves to the following effect:

"1. That we will cheerfully submit to all the rules and restrictions of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

"2. That in case of its introduction we will admit no person without a scrupulous observance of the laws of said society.

"3. That to the best of our ability we will advance the interests of the body into which we desire admission.

"All of which is Respectfully Submitted.

This petition was never granted, but most of the men whose names were signed to it afterward became Chi Psis. Shortly after this time, as New York University was declining in influence and as Columbia College was steadily advancing, it was thought best by the active men in New York City to transfer the alpha from New York University to Columbia College. This transfer is noted in a letter from Alpha Phi to Alpha Epsilon under date of December 7, 1848: "The New York Alpha has in truth been transferred to Columbia and this should be noticed in the 'Catalogue,'" and again in another letter from Phi to Epsilon under date of March 21, 1849, by the following query: "Have you ever recognized the Columbia Alpha? fewer the merrier say I, and the more concord there will be in our midst. Our chief opponents are the Delta Phis, a namby pamby set who owe their success mainly to the beauty of their pin and their long establishment in the college, but they are dwindling in fame, I can assure you, since the Chi Psi was founded.

"Yours ever,

"In the mystic ties,

"WM. H. TERRY, AΔ."

The alpha seemed to prosper and it was always her pride that she sifted the grain when she made her selections, and that the first characteristic which she demanded in her sons was the existence of those feelings which alone mark the true gentleman, coupled with unquestioned social standing. On her roll are such names as Gerry, Astor, Stuyvesant, Kingsland, Paulding, Kirkland and Tappen, all household words in the social circles of the metropolis. All, during their lives, contributed to the success of Alpha Zeta, and illustrated the wisdom of the eclectic principle laid down at the outset by her founders and rigorously adhered to by them, of care in the selection of their fellows, of loyalty to the Fraternity, and of fidelity to the discharge of duty in the various relations of life.

The alpha before its dormancy was never especially active in the affairs of the general Fraternity. Its life continued until 1857, when by action of the convention of that year (the minutes of which unfor-

The convention of 1858 after much struggle and debate rescinded the action of the convention of 1857 and rechartered Zeta, at which time the alumni of Zeta promised to start a thriving and most select alpha at their college in the course of one or two years. This promise remained unfulfilled for many years. Finally in 1882 the awakening occurred, one destined to be short

ELBRIDGE T. GERRY, Z'57, President of Chi Psi, 1882-1914, grandson of that Elbridge Gerry who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was the embodiment of Fraternity loyalty. Said a writer in The Purple and Gold in 1888: "His Chi Psi life has always been an active one. He declared the principle, that Chi Psi recognized no dividing line between college days and active life, that it never dies, and most steadfastly has he preached and practiced it. . . . He is a very mine of Fraternity symbolism and heraldry; and the historian of Chi Psi will find, stored away in his memory, a thousand and one facts not recorded and doubtless forgotten by others. . . . In his private relations with members of the Fraternity, the same great interest in the welfare of each integral part of our Brotherhood is manifest." Brother Gerry was learned in the law, but was best known to the world at large as a philanthropist, particularly through his connection with the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children. On the platform at Chi Psi conventions, he was always a dignified and impressive figure. Younger delegates in the 1900's long remembered such details as frock coat, side-whiskers, dossier of Fraternity documents—characteristics conserved from an earlier day.

lived. Untoward circumstances deprived the revived Zeta of the aid and counsel of her most loyal alumni and within a few years she again became inactive.

ALPHA DELTA, established on October 22, 1851, at Princeton University, Princeton, N. J., by William Algon Alston, Thomas Frisby Henderson, Calvin Douglass Mehaffey, Erskine Hazard Miles, Joseph Welch Texada, William B. Truman, Robert Bradley Tyler and Harry White. Gamma, Robert Talafree Johnson, II⁵², and Zeta, Andris Brant, II⁵³.

THE interval between the founding of Alpha Zeta and Alpha Delta, full five years, is testimony of the early conservatism of Chi Psi in establishment of alphas.

The idea of entering the great institution of learning in New Jersey seems, however, to have been early entertained. Old records tell of an attempt made by J. N. Richards, @'48, to start an alpha at Princeton in 1845. Ten men it seems were then pledged, and the movement heartily championed by Pi. But it failed of success, and it was not till 1851 that the alpha was chartered. Again was the movement championed by Pi as may be seen from the following letter:

"Union College, Sept. 6, 1851.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"The subject about which I am about to speak, was, in my eyes, so important, that unwilling to delay I determined to write to you, you being the only one whose name I remember in the entire chapter. By your leave I will therefore without further preliminary remarks plunge 'in medias res.' About six months ago one of our fellows left here and went to Princeton and entered there; now he is very anxious for us to establish a chapter of our glorious brotherhood there. Yesterday I received the letter from him stating the wish and all the concomitant intelligence necessary. He says that there is no secret society there at present, and that there is a glorious field for operations there. The students are just beginning to wake up upon the subject, and in all probability there will be some societies there ere long.

"He has sounded some of those whom he thought worthy to become Chi Psis and has found them favorable. Indeed, he has six or eight of the finest men in the institution pledged to go it if a consent and charter can be had. And he says that there are some twenty more who are willing to go it. He gave in their names but I do not think it would be necessary for me to go over them with you.

"I assure you that he can be relied upon in everything he says, and his judgment is good. Our chapter are in favor of granting his and their request.

"Wishing you to lay it before the chapter at the first opportunity, I have been thus hasty in writing, although it is a thing entirely out of my province.

"Yours in the Bonds,

"R. T. JOHNSON."

The petition was successful and the then No. 6 of the Fraternity, William G. David, @'52, appointed the Union alpha to conduct its organization, as is shown by the following letter to "J. Sterling Morton, AΔ of Alpha Epsilon":

"Williams College, October 13, 1851.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"The Princeton petition has been granted, and I have appointed the Union chapter to conduct its organization. You ask my opinion on the subject; I will say that I think if it is started right it will be an honor to the Fraternity; they have got men who are certainly fine fellows and who will (I think) take great interest in their Society.

"Wishing you all success,

"I am yours in the Bonds,

"WILLIAM G. DAVID, A. P.

"of Chi Psi Fraternity."

So Alpha Delta was in the fall established by Alpha Pi. Its eight charter members soon gathered around them a flourishing alpha and it acquired at an early date high rank in the Fraternity. Its membership was very largely recruited from the southern element that then patronized Princeton. This fact is of considerable interest as explaining our subsequent extension in the South.

The anti-fraternity laws of Princeton are too well known to need anything more

"Notwithstanding this seeming insuperable impediment (the pledge), nearly all of the fraternities continued to exist, and to flourish for a long time after it was interposed. Divers evasions were resorted to. A vast amount of casuistry was brought to bear to show that the pledge was not binding upon the consciences of the student because it was a 'forced pledge,' an 'oath under duress,' and the like.

"The question early pressed for solution upon the members of Chi Psi. It was the subject of long and earnest consideration and debate. The Chi Psis, then composing Alpha Delta, loved their Fraternity with all the fervor of youth. They knew that the influences of Chi Psi were all for good. They felt that the attacks of the faculty and their ill-advised and worse informed allies were unjust and scandalous. They hated to let the alpha die while in their keeping; but there stood that pledge and the casuistry of the hour did not and could not blind our brothers' eyes. They took this plain and solid stand. They wanted only high-toned gentlemen, and clear-minded, straight-acting men admitted to their Fraternity. They could not see how such men could take a pledge not to do a certain thing, and then go straightway and do it. They could not ask a man to do an immoral act. They despised a lie or an evasion of the truth, and consequently they determined to solicit no more members, and to let dear old Alpha Delta die; die as she had lived, in truth and honor."

than mention. In the middle of the fifties, the faculty of that institution passed a resolution declaring the existing secret societies unlawful, and requiring each student as a part of his matriculation vows to sign a pledge that he would not join any.

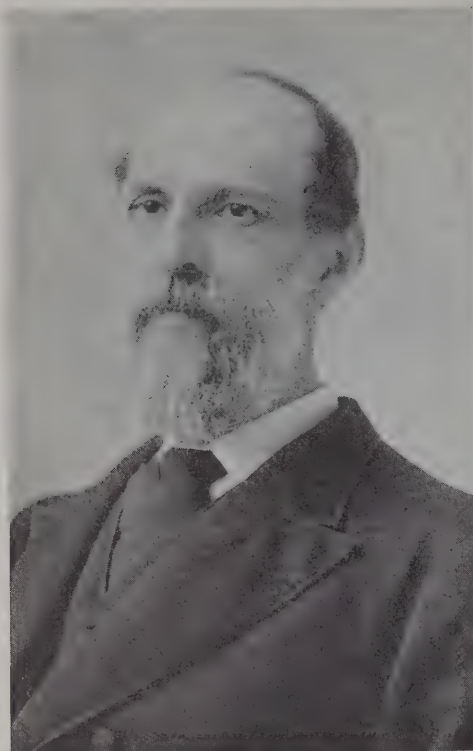

The result of this upon Alpha Delta cannot be better explained than in the words of one of the last of its members, an honored Chi Psi, Hon. Hugh L. Cole, in The Purple and Gold, Vol. VI, No. 1:

HAMLIN BEATTIE, Δ'56, on returning from Princeton to his home in Greenville, S. C., suggested to some of his friends in Furman University that they apply for a charter. This they did successfully and two of his brothers joined Alpha Upsilon at Furman. Brother Beattie established a bank that became the First National Bank of Greenville, the strongest in the two Carolinas. After it had been running for several years he paid his stockholders 100% dividend, remarking that they couldn't look askance at him if the bank broke, for they had gotten back all the money they had turned over to him. He was succeeded by his brother, J. E. Beattie, O'68, and he by his son, F. F. Beattie, Y'99, who is still (in 1941) president. This fine old institution has therefore been entirely under Chi Psi management for eighty years.

JOHN LAMBERT CADWALADER, Δ'56. After Brother Cadwalader died on March 11, 1914, the article from which excerpts follow appeared in Bench and Bar. It was written by George W. Wickersham, former Attorney-General of the United States, his partner in the famous legal firm of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft.

"Mr. Cadwalader was one of the best-known and most highly respected of New York lawyers; he was prominent in many quasi-public and benevolent institutions; he was a trustee of Princeton University, of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the New York Zoological Society, and the Carnegie Institution of Washington, and of the New York Public Library, of which he was president at the time of his death. . . . He was one of the first to conceive the project of combining the Astor and Lenox Libraries and the Tilden trust into one great library (the New York Public Library). . . . He thought he did not possess the qualities which make for personal popularity, but he had a rare capacity for unselfish and discriminating friendships, and his intimates included such widely varying characters as Philip Schuyler, J. Pierpont Morgan, Frank Millet, Samuel Spencer, Dr. Weir Mitchell, Elihu Root, James C. Carter, Dr. Charles McBurney, Dr. John S. Billings and Joseph H. Choate . . . and his epitaph may be written in the same words which Mr. Lowell applied to Mr. Quincy: 'I am glad to have the biography of one who, beginning as a gentleman, kept himself such to the end—who, with no necessity of labor, left behind him an amount of thoroughly done work such as few have accomplished with the mighty help of hunger. Some kind of pace may be got out of the veriest jade with the near prospect of oats, but the thoroughbred has the spur in his blood.'"

ALPHA SIGMA, established on November 16, 1855, at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C., by Nathaniel Macon Alston, James Leonidas Averitt, William Simpson Campbell, Gabriel Jones Davie, Richard Cross Gordon, John Calvin Jacobs, William Little, William Moring Sutton, Lewis Thomas Thompson and James Alves Walker. Gamma, Thomas Sterling Falconer, Δ'56, and Zeta, Robert Tarleton, Δ'59.

THE large proportion of Southern students in the mother alpha of the Fraternity, and more especially in Alpha Delta at Princeton, naturally caused Chi Psi to have many associations in that section of the country, and to extend in that direction rather than westward. In 1855, the Fraternity granted a petition of ten students of the University of North Carolina, and Alpha Sigma was founded.

J. M. Richmond, Σ'58, wrote of this as follows in 1894:

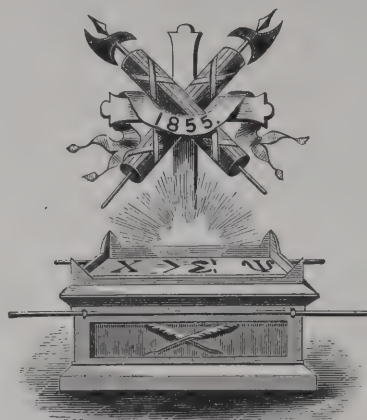

"During our stay at the university every matriculate was expected to join one of the two literary societies, the Dialectic or the Philanthropic, each of which can boast of a worthy record during the hundred years of its life, counting amongst their alumni men who have graced every honorable position from president of the country down. Until the 'fifties,' there were no Greek-letter fraternities there. In 1854 there were only Beta Theta Pi, Delta Psi and Delta Kappa Epsilon, unless it was some local club that existed but a short time. The faculty at that time did not look with favor upon these secret organizations.

"It was in the spring of '54 that one junior, two sophomores and three freshmen banded together for the purpose of founding a chapter of Chi Psi, having heard of it through friends at Princeton. After the summer vacation in the fall of '54 the six went to work in earnest and added five more matriculates to their number. Then the petition with one senior, two juniors, three sophomores and five freshmen went in and was rejected. The only reason we could learn was that the Fraternity was granting no new charters.

"But receiving encouragement of final success, and in order to remain organized as petitioners of Chi Psi or some other fraternity, they founded a local club, the main object of which was to wear a badge as a protection against solicitations. It answered its purpose, though our meetings were held in fence corners, by-ways, and on extra occasions at old Burnett's restaurant. So after patiently waiting and hoping for a year and a half the band of petitioners were not only intact but had added five to their number.

"And in the fall term of '55 came the joyful news that the pioneer Southern chapter of Chi Psi had been granted to the University of North Carolina. The meeting was held at Burnett's that night. Soon the news followed that our organization was to be conducted by Princetonians. I cannot give the dates, for everything was burned with the archives in '61; but six of us, yet living, who took part, well remember these incidents. So in the beautiful fall time of '55 came Brothers Falconer and Tarleton of Delta and lifted the mystic veil which separated fifteen earnest, anxious Sigma Gammas from the secrets, friendships and ennobling purposes of Chi Psi. Their labor was lightened because they found us already an organized body and in nice quarters. We entertained our visitors royally, they enjoyed their stay with us and pronounced us good Chi Psi material.

"Thus began the life and history of Alpha Sigma. Though the charter was cautiously granted, and her life of short duration, six years, it is such that none of us who helped to make it, or any others of the Fraternity, need blush to mention, for her record is excellent. Begun under such flattering promises, little did we dream that in six brief years the reverberations of the ten-inch columbiads would call every one of her members to the defense of his country and sound her death knell.

"John Puttick, '55, our first honor man, was never initiated because of his graduation too soon. The charter was granted to the following petitioners: Averitt and Thompson, '56; Davie, Jacobs, and Sutton, '57; Alston, Campbell, Gordon, Little and Walker, '58. From the petition until the organization we had received the following additions, who were initiated with the charter members: Polk, '57; Foreman and Richmond, '58; Cole, Costin, and Manly, '59.

"During Sigma's six years of life and prosperity, represented in six classes of alumni and three classes of undergraduates, she had fifty members, forty-nine of whom are known to have served in the Confederate Army. Nine were killed in the Army and one unaccounted for is said to have died in service. Eighteen have died since the war and twenty-one are living now. Of the eighteen who constituted the chap-

And well do I remember the morning the fifteen new badges appeared for the first time in the various classrooms in place of the Sigma Gammas. They were greatly admired, as they were the first badges of that style in the university.

"From that time on we were not only the equals and rivals of the first fraternities, but their friends; in every instance, save one, securing the men we solicited. After the organization, the membership was maintained at about sixteen to twenty. Each year new names were added to the roll.

"J. T. Richmond, '64, my only brother, five years my junior, was the last initiate of Sigma. As I took part in the organization's early life and can tell of it, so he was present at the last scene of the last act and witnessed it, thus completing the life of Sigma.

"He was one of the eighteen who left the halls of Sigma in 1861. In reply to a recent letter he says: 'In '61, before we went into the Army, we divided our hall furniture by lottery, the curtains falling to me, though I have no recollection as to what became of them. The last night before we went, we made a bonfire of the charter, constitution, by-laws, etc., in the street near "Possum Quarter" (in Ashland), then retired to our last banquet at Burnett's. Requiescat in pace.'"

For sixty odd years Chi Psi was dormant on the University of North Carolina campus. The revival of Sigma is told in the following story:

One afternoon in the early spring of 1923 two university students on a ramble through the beautiful woods which surround Chapel Hill talked over the formation of a new fraternity on the campus.

LODGE OF ALPHA SIGMA

ter, when the war began, every member volunteered. During our six years, valedictorian fell on us once and chief marshal twice.

"Thus was Sigma, the first Southern alpha of Chi Psi, launched into her brief but proud existence. Her membership composed of fifteen typical Southern boys, each conscious of his own integrity and that he had a character and a name to preserve unsullied for himself and his alpha, that she might be the peer of any in the university; that each had a stewardship for which he was accountable and to see that none of his acts should bring the slightest blush to his brother's check for the fair name of Chi Psi.

They were Pollock Irwin and Oliver Rowe. It is to them that credit is due for conceiving the idea which expanded with such unusual rapidity that just five years later, in the springtime, it culminated in the revival of Alpha Sigma of Chi Psi, dormant on the University of North Carolina campus since the call to arms by the Southern Confederacy in 1861.

By the time Irwin and Rowe had returned from their afternoon stroll through the woods, the idea had begun to germinate and definite plans were taking shape for the creation of a new fraternity on the university campus. Soon afterwards, the two originators took into their confidence the small, intimate circle of friends who were to become the charter members of the Alpha Chi Society. In addition to the two originators mentioned above, the founders were Walter Crissman, Joe Temple, Travis Thompson, Marvin Everett and Tom Lambeth. The group was indeed diminutive but thoroughly determined and earnest in its intentions.

A copy of "Baird's Manual" was procured immediately and a careful investigation was made of the description of all the national fraternities from cover to cover of the book. The unanimous choice of the group was Chi Psi. Its conservative nature, its consistently high ideals, its close bond of friendship, its strong organization, its national reputation, the high type of well-rounded manhood which the Chi Psis with whom the boys were acquainted embodied, the rich traditions of Alpha Sigma—these were the persuasions which led this small group of students to form themselves into a local fraternity intent upon petitioning Chi Psi above all others. The name of Alpha Chi was selected by the group in order that the nomen might contain the first word of Chi Psi. The sole purpose of the organization was the petitioning of Chi Psi for the revival of Alpha Sigma.

Though it took five years to bring the plan to consummation, and in spite of a number of rather serious deterrents, Alpha Chi flourished and developed both surely and swiftly.

The Alpha Chi Society was formally established on the first day of April, 1923. The first meetings of the group that spring were held in the pastor's study of the picturesque little Presbyterian Church of the village. A badge was designed and a number of replicas were ordered for the members. A meeting hall for the next year was secured in a building just off the campus. By June the organization was well under way and the foundations had been laid.

It was soon discovered that petitioning a strong national fraternity was no easy matter. Considerable investigation was made by various members, under the direction of Edward Patterson, the literary member of the group. At the start, these men made the acquaintance of three Chi Psi alumni who lived in Chapel Hill: Dr. Walter Dallam Toy, Dr. W. C. Coker and Dr. R. E. Coker, all of whom generously gave their advice and aid. The first communication with national headquarters of Chi Psi brought disheartening news. The brief reply to the letter was that due to its conservatism the national did not favor further expansion, could not consider the petition, and advised the group to set about petitioning some other fraternity.

In the fall of 1923 Alpha Chi established itself in the hall which had been rented, and began anew. Again it corresponded with Chi Psi headquarters, but again to no avail. It received no encouragement in this second attempt. Although outwardly failure seemed imminent, the group was absorbed in perfecting its internal organization, cementing the bond of friendship, and carrying on effective rushing. Six fine freshmen of great potentialities were finally pledged.

By a stroke of fortune, through the help of Drs. W. C. and R. E. Coker, Alpha Chi got in touch with Judge Frank Cooper, of Albany, N. Y., who immediately became interested in the petitioning group and soon gave his wholehearted support. The fraternity became imbued with hope when, soon afterwards, Nelson Levings and Clifford H. Williams began to encourage the group. A few months later Sam P. Blagden and Milton Smith added their support. Both in relations with Chi Psi and in the development of the internal organization Alpha Chi took on new life.

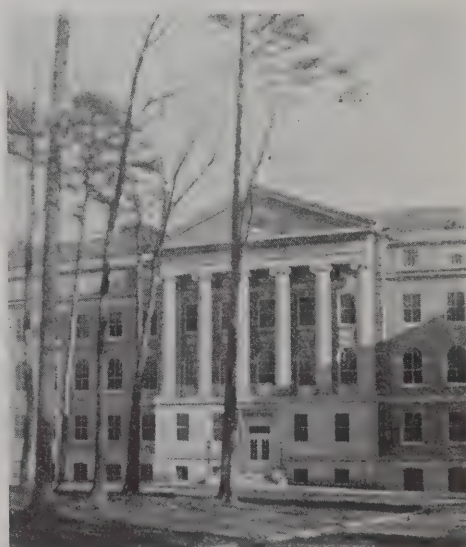

In the spring of this year a great stride forward occurred when the members of the group pooled enough money to purchase the Pi Kappa Alpha house, situated on Fraternity Row among some of the best national fraternities on the campus. In the handling of this project, the Chapel Hill Chi Psis gave the group invaluable aid. To pay for the house, a stock corporation was formed and a plan was worked out to distribute shares of the expense among members. Treasurer Everett Henley did a magnificent job of pouring out enthusiasm and bringing in funds!

The fall of 1925 saw Alpha Chi looming on the horizon of Greek-letter fraternities at the university as the strongest, most popular local on the campus. By this time it had established a friendship with some of the leading fraternities here, and frequent courtesies betokened the place of esteem which the group had won. In the rushing season that fall, Alpha Chi offered stiff competition not only to other locals but to several of the finest nationals. Six men were pledged.

As the months of 1926 passed, Alpha Chi, already in the ascendancy, progressed with such rapidity that, although receiving little encouragement from national headquarters of Chi Psi, the personnel of the local group made it one of the leading activity fraternities on the campus. It had members in practically every field of campus interest ranging from literary endeavor to athletics. Its rise was one of the most spectacular occurrences among fraternity circles during the year. Despite the obvious handicap of existing merely as a local, Alpha Chi ingratiated itself with the best nationals on the university campus. By the middle of the year every fraternity on the campus was taking notice and many encouraged the group in its petition to Chi Psi. At the end of the year, the group had risen to first place in scholarship, surpassing the thirty-three other fraternities on the campus. The only reason why Alpha Chi failed to win the silver loving cup for the best fraternity scholarship offered by the Panhellenic Council was that it did not possess a national charter and was consequently not a member of the council. Campus-wide recognition came to the group towards the end of the year when its president, Walter Crissman, was tapped by Golden Fleece and thereby acclaimed one of the four most outstanding students among the twenty-two hundred attending the university at that time. This is the highest honor attainable by a university student.

Evidence of this recognition was abundant. Before the year was over Alpha Chi received invitations from several nationals to petition them. One or two urged the group to accept charters from them. One of the best known national fraternities went so far as to offer the group a charter provided it would combine with another group petitioning them here. But Alpha Chi accepted none of these alluring offers. The minds of the members of the group were made up; it would be Chi Psi or nothing.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA, CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (View of the facade of the new Medical Building.) Founded in 1789. Of interest to parents and high school seniors is the fact that the University of North Carolina, the oldest state university, is the only Southern institution in the Association of American Universities, and that it costs less money to attend than any other of the thirty member universities. The university is organized into a general college (which offers the general academic work of the first two years), a college of arts and sciences, and eight schools offering degrees in arts, journalism, chemistry, geology, physics, law, commerce, engineering, medicine, pharmacy, and library science. Visitors to Chapel Hill sample a unique atmosphere of culture and liberality. It is plain why the senior class is always a dejected group, at leaving a college community dearer to them than could be any other. Said Ellery Sedgwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly: "... I am a Massachusetts man ... but I have a stake in North Carolina. ... I sent my son to the University of North Carolina because my friends at Harvard College assured me that the South has not another like it, and, in simple truth, it hasn't. A hundred years have gone into the making of your university, but the last two decades have brought it to a peculiar ripeness."—VOIT GILMORE, 2'39.

The continuous interest and zeal of the group were stimulated by frequent letters of encouragement from Judge Cooper and other proponents. The Judge was interested to the limit and gave proof shortly that there was nothing that he would not do to help. Nelson Levings, Clifford H. Williams, Sam P. Blagden, Milton Smith, Cornelius Van Leuven, Raymond Hunt and Edward C. Dwelle, all became ardent advocates of the revival of Alpha Sigma, for they believed that the time was ripe. They had been convinced by the earnest persistence of the group.

For several weeks work went forward towards the formulation of a petition. By Easter, petitions had been sent out to all alphas of Chi Psi, as well as to numerous individual alumni. Through the untiring efforts of Judge Cooper, Alpha Chi received a hearing. The proposition was first presented to the 1925 Convention.

During the course of the next year the Executive Council made a thorough investigation of all conditions. Clifford H. Williams and H. Seger Slifer visited the university and devoted quite a time to evaluating what the local group had to offer Chi Psi. The decision was that there appeared to be possibilities but that it still remained for Alpha Chi to prove that it could take its place as one of the leading fraternities at the university, before the granting of a national charter by Chi Psi could be given serious consideration.

There was only one thing to do, to set about accomplishing this. Though things looked dark on the outside, inwardly the morale of the group was not allowed to lag. The next two years were crucial.

During these years invaluable help was given Alpha Chi by various Chi Psis who transferred to the University of North Carolina from other colleges, including Eri B. Hulbert, III, Wex S. Malone, Parmelee Ward and Linn D. Garibaldi from the University of Chicago; J. Everett Henley from the University of Georgia, and Lindsey Gudger from Georgia Tech.

HISTORY OF THE SIGMA PROPERTY. Alpha Sigma is justifiably proud of its century-old boxwood circle and other evidences of antiquity on its lodge property. The boys at Alpha Sigma had the good judgment to take down verbatim an account of the property given them on March 7, 1934, by Basil Jones, "a very good old colored man living in Chapel Hill and now probably in the neighborhood of 90 years of age." We have the account through the courtesy of Linn D. Garibaldi, EA'28, of Charlotte, N. C., and the picture of Basil Jones through the courtesy of Samuel R. Leager, S'37.

"The fraternity property at Chapel Hill," writes Brother Garibaldi, "was part of the McCauley property and originally part of the old Lindsay plantation in Orange County, which I believe included about 2,000 acres. This plantation was thriving before the Civil War."

The remarks of Basil Jones, without any editing, are as follows:

"This property was first owned by Dr. John Jones. . . . Dr. Jones sold it to Paul Cameron, who sold it to Solomon Pool. . . . Pool sold it to Mr. McCauley. . . . When Pool owned it there was four acres in the property. . . . Charles Lindsay married McCauley's daughter, and he sold it to the Chi Psi Fraternity. . . .

"This building we are in now was a school house at the time of the war . . . was called 'Maria Spears' School House' . . . the boxwoods were not here then . . . the large oak trees were here, though. . . . Mr. Pool built the fence that is here now . . . that red house across the street, that used to be a real big lot. . . . Mr. Pendergraft used to own it . . . it is not nearly as old as this place is . . . when the railroad back here was built Charles Lindsay was living here. . . .

"When the war started I was about ten years old. . . . I don't know exactly how old I am. . . . I was driving for Dr. Jones. . . . I was not a slave . . . was always free . . . my father was a slave . . . he belonged to Dr. Jones. . . . I was here when Paul Cameron lived here. . . . I didn't do anything for the property. . . . Mr. Cameron was from Hillsboro. . . . I was here when Mr. McCauley was here. . . . I didn't work for Mr. Pool and Mr. Cameron. . . . Dr. Jones had two horses. . . . I drove for him . . . tended to the horses . . . did not work in the house . . . a lot of this property has been sold at different times. . . .

"A Yankee soldier named Col. Anderson stayed in a room on this property . . . the Yankees stayed here four or five months . . . they stayed right on this here property, and blew the bugle every morning . . . they drilled right here . . . they did not do any damage to this property. . . . Col. Anderson was in charge of the army here . . . there was about two or three thousand people here then . . . the Yankees did not do any damage at all around here . . . they did some damage at Hillsboro though . . . there was no fighting in Chapel Hill. . . . Wheeler's Cavalry was camped here for a while . . . they left when the Yankees got here . . . the college buildings were used to camp in during the war . . . they did not keep the horses in them. . . . Col. Wallace came through here with his army . . . they say Stonewall Jackson came through here, but I don't remember him. . . .

"All the boys around here went to the war. . . . Dr. Jones had a son killed in the war . . . he did not like the Yankees a bit . . . the white people did not care who ran the town after the war. . . . Will Scarwell, an ex-slave, was mayor of Chapel Hill . . . my brother, Henry, was a town councilman . . . lots of the Chapel Hill boys were killed in the war . . . some of the carpet baggers came through here after the war, but didn't stay long. . . .

"Dr. Jones was one of the biggest doctors we ever had in this town . . . unless it was Dr. Whitehead. . . . Dr. Jones had a lot of slaves . . . one hundred or more . . . they built his houses for him. . . . Dr. Jones treated his slaves right . . . he offered to set my father free, but my father told him he would rather belong to him than be free . . . my mother was free . . . the child took the condition of its mother, so I was free. . . . Dr. Jones had two other sons besides the one killed in the war . . . they studied to be doctors . . . one son, John Jones, went to Asheville. . . . Dr. Jones and all the others kept whiskey . . . it was no more than water then . . . some of it was made right around here. . . . Dr. Jones killed all his meat . . . he killed one hundred hogs at one time . . . we got ice from the creeks when they froze over . . . when the creeks didn't freeze we didn't have any ice. . . .

"Mr. Cameron owned five hundred slaves . . . he did not stay here all the time . . . it was just rented out . . . part of the time it was closed up . . . the road out here in front was here back then. . . . None of these men are buried here . . . all of them are buried in Pittsboro, except Dr. Jones . . . he is buried in Charlotte. . . . Solomon Pool was a president of the university . . . then came President Battle. . . . I used to travel a lot with 'Little' Graham . . . the president of the university was called 'Little' because he was the littlest Graham we ever saw. . . . I knew all the Grahams. . . .

"Governor Swain surrendered this town to the Yankees after the war . . . during the war Governor Swain lived here where Dr. Graham lives now. . . . Chapel Hill was a big social center back then. . . . Possum Quarter and Ashland were out towards Hillsboro. . . .

"Some of the slaves belonging to other masters got it mighty tough. . . . Dr. Jones would allow his slaves to go out and work for other people . . . some of the slaves stayed on after the war. . . . I got paid for driving Dr. Jones in money . . . there was no set price . . . some of the slaves ran away from Dr. Jones . . . he would just let them go . . . right after the war I went to farming . . . my mother bought her a place to live in. . . . Dick Ashe took my brother to war . . . his name was Henry . . . he built the tower at the penitentiary . . . he was older than I was. . . .

"The three small houses here . . . one was the smoke house . . . another was the ice house. . . . I do not remember these three homes being built . . . this land here was all a yard . . . in the back was only a garden . . . in front, where the boxwoods are now, was a lot of vines. . . .

"Arthur Barbee's mother was here during all that time . . . worked for Dr. Jones for ten or twelve years . . . if the slaves wanted to go to school, Dr. Jones would teach them to read and write. . . . I can't read nor write. . . . Bill McDade and Green McDade and myself are the only three people living here now that were here during the war. . . . I used to drink a little, but have not used any for fifty years, I reckon . . . there were about four or five hundred students in this college back then . . . they used hacks to get in town. . . .

"Abraham Lincoln was the greatest president that ever lived. . . . Dr. Purifoy was one of the best men around this part of the country. . . . Basil Manly* who graduated here in 1859, was the man I was named after . . . he gave me a dollar and named me. . . . I know George Martin* and James Polk.* . . . I know Col. Bill Sanders . . . he was Secretary of State when he died . . . the boys in them days were so much bigger and stronger than the ones are now. . . ."

most vigorous ever attempted. The eleven men pledged were wrested from numerous other fraternities, several of them from the strongest nationals on the campus. Alpha Chi was greatly gratified. Its reputation on the campus was steadily gaining.

The next step came when Alpha Chi formulated a proposition embodying what the group had to offer and presented it to the Executive Council of Chi Psi. The Council was authorized by the Convention to place the question before the alphas of Chi Psi for a vote as soon as these conditions had been completely fulfilled. In brief, the requirements agreed upon were that the petitioners should raise cash and equities amounting to $16,000, so that Chi Psi could be assured that Alpha Chi was a solid organization and could soon take a distinctive place among the university fraternities.

The whole of the next year was spent in vigorous efforts to comply with the stringent conditions which the group had set up for itself. Step by step, the conditions were met. The group exceeded the amount of money stipulated in the agreement and amassed a fund of $17,000.

The rushing this year climaxed all in the past history of Alpha Chi. The nine men pledged were won only after a hot battle with some of the strongest national fraternities and the result won strong commendation from many of our opponents. By the end of the year all requirements had been met.

The charter was at last granted and with the revival of Alpha Sigma on June 1 and 2, 1928, Chi Psi made its third entrance into the New South.

On May 31, Clifford H. Williams, '02, of Chicago, Albert S. Bard, X'88, of New York City, and H. Seger Slifer, E'12, of Ann Arbor, of the Executive Council, and Milton Smith, '87, of Denver were in Chapel Hill to take charge of the ceremonies. On June 1, twenty-one men of the upper classes were initiated, and on June 2, seven of the lower classes. A banquet on the evening of June 2 closed the ceremonies.

For some time previous to the granting of the charter and the installation, plans had been under way for the purchase of a site which was considered the most beautiful fraternity property available in Chapel Hill. On June 5, 1928, papers were signed for the purchase of this lot for $27,500. These grounds, the largest and finest owned by any fraternity at the university, measure 350 feet by 350 feet, with streets on three sides. They are considered by many who have seen them to be the most handsome fraternity site in the South.

The house is set back in a magnificent grove of ancient oaks. The entire grounds are laid out in an artistic style of gardening and planted with a profusion of Southern flowers and shrubbery. A rare collection of old-fashioned English boxwoods, some of them declared by expert gardeners to be two or three hundred years old, gives the place an atmosphere of Southern quaintness.

Although it is located two and a half blocks from the campus, it is in the neighborhood of Zeta Psi, Phi Kappa Sigma, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Phi Gamma Delta and Delta Psi.

During the Christmas holidays of 1929 the old white house on this lot was burned—and for the next several years the alpha had great difficulty in carrying on its work without benefit of a home. The small office in one corner of the grounds was used as a dining room, and a nearby apartment was rented by several of the boys to serve as general headquarters. Efforts were made to secure necessary funds for building a new lodge, but when these were unsuccessful, the morale of the members dropped dangerously low. This was in the midst of the Great Depression and Alpha Sigma's stock went as low as many other stocks in that period!

SIDELIGHTS ON THE REVIVAL OF ALPHA SIGMA. After Pollock Irwin, '26, read the Alpha Sigma history as revised by Walter S. Spearman, '29, in August, 1940, he wrote to the editors as follows: "To begin with, I never took that walk with Oliver Rowe in the woods around Chapel Hill. He was always much too busy. Joe Temple and I used to hike a lot around and over those hills, and it was on one of these hikes with him, on a Saturday morning in that spring of 1923, that he and I talked about clubs and fraternities in general. We were not being critical but discussed our own ideas of a fraternity. Both of us had refused chances to pledge the year before. On our return to the campus, and just before we separated in front of the post office, I made the remark that I would like to have the chance of selecting a small group and forming a local of our own. Nothing else was said; however, I thought quite a lot about it until ten o'clock that night. I had my mind made up by then, and started out on a rushing party of my own. Before going to bed I had pledged five men. We had our first meeting the next afternoon in the pastor's study in the Presbyterian Church. Before it was over with we had our meetings so often there that the janitor finally locked us out as a nuisance. . . . We decided we wanted not more than ten or twelve members to start with. There were other boys who I felt would be just the sort we needed. For a week or so I spent hours daily checking up and visiting several of these. Finally, I would have each of those I continued to think we wanted come to our meetings and see who we were and what were our aims and ideals. . . . Having lined the charter members up we had our election of officers. Oliver Rowe was elected president, I was given the job of vice-president and Marvin Everett was made both secretary and treasurer. . . . There were two other things we had to attend to before school was out in June. One was to design and order our pins. Oliver being the best designer, we finally decided on a finished copy and Alpha Chi came into final being. . . . Another task was to find and rent a place for a lodge room so that we would have a meeting place on returning in September. We rented a large hall in what was then the Pope Mattress building. We persuaded the owner to repaint it and place new shades. I was given the job of interior decorating. Each member paid his initial fee of fifty dollars and we set five dollars a month for our monthly fee. So we had something to work with. That first set up in furnishings we thought was a masterpiece. . . . By Christmas of the second year we were in our own lodge on Fraternity Row. Oliver Rowe had been working endlessly that last year for this move. I will never forget how he took care of the increasing correspondence and particularly that with Judge Frank Cooper. Often Oliver would leave a class to finish up some work for Alpha Chi or to write a letter to Judge Cooper. In those days, I took the walks with Oliver. He would get an idea or more likely another letter from Judge Cooper suggesting one to him. He would send me word to meet him in front of the Administration Building at a certain period when both of us were free from classes. The 'Presidents Walk' was near and there we would walk up and down and talk over the idea or the work in process. Judge Cooper was our great friend. We older members of Sigma who know how he worked for us feel that Sigma is his perhaps more than ours and in our hearts we can think of him in one way only—as one of us. . . . This takes us up to the time we moved into the old lodge. There are many things I could write about that first year. We had our difficulties, but I can remember no happier year in my life. We all worked. There was no friction. The group was conservative yet not Sunday-Schoolish. If it had not been what it was, I am sure we could not have done what we did nor gained the rating as a local we had on the campus for the five years we remained a local."

AT NORTH CAROLINA

Bob Avery '32 was No. 1 at this time and encouraged the boys themselves to erect a one-room house at the back of the lot for living room and meetings. This still stands and bears the affectionate name of "Avery Memorial."

But a new lodge was a definite need. And in February, 1933, several Sigma alumni met in Charlotte to start plans for financing the lodge and having plans drawn up. In June a building committee was named, including George Cavanaugh of Greensboro, Linn Garibaldi of Charlotte and Arthur Hollett of Chapel Hill.

It was chiefly through their strenuous and devoted efforts that the new lodge was made possible. First plans were for a rather modest building, but the national fraternity favored a more substantial lodge, had its Chicago architects provide the plans for a red brick Georgian, and lent the alpha sufficient funds to make possible erection of the present $32,000 structure, which is one of the handsomest on the campus. With Arthur Hollett on hand to supervise every detail of construction, and with Garibaldi and Cavanaugh and Dr. R. E. Coker devoting much of their time to it, the new lodge, started about Thanksgiving of 1933, was completed the following May.

The boys of Alpha Sigma moved in during September, 1934, overjoyed at having a home of their own once more. There were only eight actives, but they pledged four more during the fall—and Alpha Sigma was ready to begin the climb back to its rightful position on the campus.

Chi Psi alumni were most helpful in their relations with the alpha; and the Alpha Sigma Corporation, under the consecutive leadership of Dr. R. E. Coker, George Cavanaugh and Linn Garibaldi, cooperated in boosting the morale of the actives, ably assisted by Alumni Kennett Blair from Greensboro, Cheatham Coley from Raleigh and Bob Hovis and Everett Henley from Charlotte, who made frequent trips to Chapel Hill, where Alumni

W. G. Morgan, now on the staff of the University Infirmary, and Walter Spearman, resident counsellor in 1935-37, were in close touch with the alpha.

In June of 1938 the tenth anniversary of the re-establishment of Alpha Sigma was celebrated by an alumni reunion at Chapel Hill featuring a program arranged by Garibaldi and Blair and the visit to the alpha of many former Sigma leaders.

The five-year period from 1935 to 1940 was marked by rapid gains in strength and prestige on the part of the alpha. Paced by such men as Jack Atwood and John Foreman, both '38, and Voit Gilmore '39, members of the alpha began to take a much greater interest in campus activities, scholarship improved, and the standing of the Fraternity on the campus was immensely improved. Chi Psi forged ahead in all phases of intramural athletics. The Chi Psi house dances and faculty teas were popular social events.

Indications of this new spirit in the alpha were the choice of Atwood as national fraternity Visitor in 1938; the election of Gilmore to the senior honorary order of Golden Fleece in 1939 and his chairmanship of the Carolina Political Union, in which position he played host to the President of the United States when he visited Chapel Hill; and the selection of Ben Dilworth, '40, as captain of the University of North Carolina basketball team.

And in the fall of 1939 Alpha Sigma pledged the unprecedented number of 17 men—a far cry from the fall of 1934 when there were only eight actives to move into the new lodge!

ROBERT CHARLES DENISON, X'89. Reprinted in Amherst Graduates Quarterly is a tribute to Robert C. Denison, X'89, professor of philosophy in Pomona College, 1920-1936, from which the following excerpt is quoted: "A new generation of college students has come to these halls since the passing of Robert Charles Denison. Yet his presence pervades our life still, beckoning us to new endeavor and to new courage.

"In his philosophy, as in his poetry, Dr. Denison revealed both a sensible and a sensitive mind. He could wrest from dark experiences the truth that illumined life. When war was raging, what he envisaged of the world's evil in 'cities burning red,' in 'the silent pain,' in the bodies of the frozen dead,' and in 'children crying,' led him to say with greater urgency that the blest are only they whose humble choice is fixed on mercy, peace, and righteousness.' His philosophy communicated a discerning spirit of humor along with its wisdom. Thus he enlightened the effort to live even while he deepened its meaning, as when he wrote, "Full often there's a tired time, a burdened hour,

When science and philosophy are dry as chaff,
When poetry and eloquence have lost their power
And what we need's a laugh.'"

ALPHA KAPPA, established on November 27, 1857, at the College of the City of New York, New York, N. Y., by Charles Arthur James, William Henry Livingston, Francis Markoe, Jr., Samuel Maxwell, Jr., Edwin Bartlett Meeks and Charles Whiting Plyer. Gamma, John Williams Hoyt, A'58, and Zeta, Frederick Shepard Barnum, A'59.

THE College of the City of New York was for many years known as the Free Academy. It was, in fact, the highest grade of the public school system of the metropolis. Though it was collegiate in rank, with the power of conferring collegiate degrees, and furnished to its students a training unsurpassed in any other institution, yet unfortunately it was not collegiate in name and among college students there was a slight prejudice against it, due partly to its connection with the school system and partly to that absence of college life which is the inevitable fate of a city institution. Still, in 1857, the Free Academy was an institution in which wealthy and cultivated New Yorkers took pride, and to which they were accustomed to send their sons. In social polish and in the qualities of true manliness, her students ranked high.

The following correspondence shows very clearly the founding and early history of the alpha:

(To M. H. Goodrich, E'45)

"W. U., Middletown, October 13, 1857.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"Not knowing the AA of the AE and finding here a letter from you I concluded to write through you to him. You suggest that it would be well for us to acquaint your chapter with the circumstances of the case and the reputation, etc., of the institution where the establishment of a new chapter is in contemplation.

"We have received a petition from a number of the members of the Free Academy for a chapter there. We received it in July, I think, and soon after sent a committee down to look at them and report thereon. They brought back a very favorable report both as respects the petitioners and their institution and strongly recommended the favorable action of the Fraternity upon their petition. I have not the report, but will give you the substance of it.

"The institution is in everything but in name a college. It is chartered by the state, is largely endowed, has a regular collegiate course similar to other colleges, confers all the degrees of the highest literary institution in the land, and in fact enjoys all the privileges and immunities that any college can boast of, and what is also of moment with us, to satisfy some who are opposed to the name, in all probability it will be changed to 'Manhattan College,' within two years. In fact it is almost certain—the Professors do not hesitate to refer to it before the students, asserting that it will be so.

"The petitioners are as fine a set of fellows as can be picked out, taking the highest honors in their classes, and of a class well worthy to be initiated into the glorious brotherhood of the Chi Psi's 'ever faithful children.' There is every prospect that if established it will be one of our best chapters.

"The subject has been decided definitely by all but Alpha Phi, Alpha Pi, and your own alpha, and they all seem anxious that it should be successfully carried through. It seems as there can be no reasonable objection raised and we hope soon to hear that all have voted in favor of the petition. We would like to have you take action upon it as soon as possible, and inform us and the A.P., J. A. Walker, of Alpha Sigma, Chapel Hill, N. C., of your note. It ought to be hastened as much as is consistent with due deliberation. . . .

"Yours in the Chi Psi Bonds,

"FRED S. BARNUM, AA of AA."

"Union College, Sept. 12, 1857.

"DEAR BROTHER:

. . . "A petition for a chapter at the Free Academy, N. Y., our alpha voted down on the grounds that the institution was not a regularly established college. . . .

"In Chi Psi Bonds, sincerely yours,
"J. K. McLEAN."

"Williams College, Nov. 4, 1857.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"I have just received a letter from Brother Walker of Chapel Hill in which he tells me that your alpha has vetoed the Free Academy petition—don't you think you can reconsider your action? Union took the same ground with you, and because it is an academy they voted against it—they thought, however, afterwards, that al-

not have a finer opening than we have in the N. Y. Free Academy soon to be called Manhattan College. If your fellows are willing to reconsider their vote will they not do it immediately so that the fellows can be initiated by Thanksgiving? Do think over it again.

"Hoping to hear from you immediately, believe me

"Yours in the Bonds of Chi Psi,

"STEPHEN H. TYNG, JR."

(To L. M. O'Brien, E'58)

"Union College, Nov. 14, 1857.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"I to-day received a letter from J. A. Walker, No. 6, elect, relating to the granting of a charter to the former N. Y. Academy, now some university. He informs us that you are the only alpha now opposing the measure. We also gave a negative vote, deeming it inexpedient to violate the provision in our constitution restricting the Fraternity to college limits, and doubting also whether a third attempt in N. Y. City would prove more successful than the former.

"When the institution was converted into a university the former objection was removed, and those who have seen the petitioners—Chi Psis from Bowdoin, Middletown and Hamilton, also graduate residents in the city including the renowned Doesticks, of your alpha—are right in endorsing the character of the fellows and seem to consider it advisable to establish a chapter there.

"We, therefore, in deference to the opinion of all the other chapters and the urgent solicitations of same, waived our objections and have given our vote in the affirmative. You now, are the only alpha voting in the negative.

(From an old print)

COLLEGE OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK (Founded in 1847)

though in name 'Academy' it still possesses all the immunities of a college—it enjoys the same privileges as our own institution—they accordingly have promised to reconsider their vote—they will probably assent to it at their next meeting, so Brother McLean wrote a day or two since. All the other alphas have voted for it, moreover it behooves us to establish one or two good chapters as soon as possible to take the place of Columbia and Princeton. Coming as I do from New York City I should be opposed to the granting of a chapter were I not perfectly satisfied that it is for the best interest of the society. It appears to me that we could

"In view of all circumstances of the case can you not follow our example and reconsider your decision? The more we have heard and thought of the matter the more we incline to favor it and should rejoice to hear that you do the same. . . .

"In Chi Psi Bonds, yours truly,

"J. K. McLEAN, AA."

"Williams College, Feb. 8, 1858.

"DEAR BROTHERS:

. . . "Our Free Academy alpha is very flourishing. We have now ten men there and they write me that they have two or three more on the carpet. I hope they will do well although they have very strong opposition from both the Alpha Delta Phi and Delta Kappa Epsilon. . . .

"Yours in the Bonds of Chi Psi,

"STEPHEN H. TYNG, JR., AA of AO."

"Middletown, Wesleyan University,
"Feb. 3, 1858.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"When in New York a few weeks since for the purpose of initiating the new chapter in the Free Academy I learned from Mr. Tyng of Williams that you had in your alpha the constitutions of some, if not all, the secret societies in your college. . . .

"The chapter in New York is going on as I suppose you have heard. The alpha has at once taken a stand in the college, surprising, considering its recent establishment. I was in New York a week since and saw the boys who were in fine spirits, determined to make the thing go, and lively too. A chapter which, I think, will do honor to us is the Alpha Kappa.

"Yours very truly in the Bonds,
"J. W. HOYT."

"Chapel Hill, N. C., March 1, 1858.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"Have you received a letter from Hamilton complaining of the Free Academy petition? They say that the granting of that petition was unconstitutional, and that the Wesleyan boys violated the constitution in organizing a chapter there. I believe the Hamilton delegates intend objecting to the Free Academy delegates taking their seats at the next convention; I think, so far as I am able to judge, that the Free Academy boys will be an honor to this society; I have received letters from several of the chapters concurring with me in the belief that we did well to establish a chapter at Free Academy. No doubt in the least, but what the Hamilton boys will be voted down; our delegates will vote by all means to allow the Free Academy delegates an equal participation in the next convention.

"Truly yours in the Bonds,
"JAMES A. WALKER, No. 6."
"New York Free Academy,
"December 17, 1857.

"BROTHER:

"In accordance with the duties incumbent upon my office, I suppose my first duty should be to introduce to your alpha the Alpha Kappa of Chi Psi. Feeling as we do honored by our newly made connection, we hope that you will never regret it and that the Alpha Kappa may yet appear as one at least of the great lights of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

"We were initiated on Friday evening, November 27. Mr. Hoyt of Alpha Alpha officiated as . . . and Mr. Barnum of the same alpha as . . . There were three or four boys from Williams present as well as two or three graduates.

"In all there were initiated six, one of whom graduated at our last commencement. Since then we have initiated three, making the list of our members nine.

"We 'swung out' on Tuesday morning of this week and created something of a sensation. . . .

"The members of Alpha Kappa send their best respects to yourself and Brothers.

"Yours in the Bonds of Chi Psi,
"CHARLES ARTHUR JAMES, AA of AK."

(To R. B. Maclin, E'59)

"Wesleyan University, Middletown,
"March 9, 1858.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"I see from your letter, as far as I can judge that is, that you do not understand exactly the true position of our New York alpha, and inasmuch as our alpha was instrumental in establishing it there, they wished when I stated to them the substance of your letter, that I would explain our connection and knowledge of the affairs.

"We received from the Free Academy last year a petition asking for the establishment of a new alpha at that institution. This was a week before the convention was held in Boston. We rather laughed at the idea at first and were inclined to throw it aside. There was only one member in favor of it at that time, and he was a freshman from N. Y. But when we thought that the true spirit for regarding Chi Psi interest was to inquire into the matter we did so. We learned in various ways from the Alpha Delta Phi that they considered their chapter in the Academy one of the best, if not indeed the best, they had, and the holding of their convention there and the manner in which the academy chapter was treated during it confirmed all we had heard in its praise. We therefore sent to New York our two strongest men, at that time juniors, with directions to spend some time in investigating and if not satisfied to return home without making themselves known. One of these delegates has been for the greater part of his life a resident of New York. Their report on returning embraced many facts on which we felt justified in going to work. I quote a few sentences, 'The Free Academy of New York is a college chartered by the state and under the control of the regents of the state of N. Y., and by its charter privileged to grant all the degrees conferred by any college in the state.' This settled of course the matter in regard to its being a college, and its name was only Free Academy College as any other—Union College—Hamilton College, etc.

"We examined the standing of the students and find even a more thorough scholarship than at our own institution. And the faculty of Yale have admitted that the standing of Wesleyan was above that of Yale. Ex-governor Dutton, also a professor in Yale, remarked that our commencement far surpassed that of Yale.

"We went to see our old graduates who reside and are doing business in New York. They were unanimously in favor of the thing and said, 'Get it, by all means.' We assembled the petitioners together and we assure you they were just such looking young men as we should be fierce for were they here. Such is the whole style of the report. As to the name, 'Manhattan College,' we did not write that it was changed to that, although there has been and is now a very strong probability that such will be the case. As far as the reality is concerned it is truly a college and treated as such by the other colleges of New York, either of whom rank as high as the F. A.'s.

"We are decidedly of the opinion that a few more chapters of the right sort would not hurt us as a chapter society and we are confident that such a one we have in N. Y., and would not hesitate I think to vote for two more of the right stamp and in the right places if as good as that one. . . .

"Yours very truly in Bonds,
"J. W. HOYT."

The alpha was never very large numerically, but its selection of members was almost invariably wise. In 1866-67, various causes almost occasioned the death of the alpha; it became reduced to a very low condition, active work being practically suspended.

On June 6, 1867, a number of the resident alumni met with the active men and new life was instilled into the alpha. The event was celebrated by an appropriate spread and symposium at Solari's restaurant, then located at Eleventh Street and University Place. Following is a letter written in New York City, on January 31, 1868, by J. H. Montgomery, K'70, to L. P. Tarlton, E'68:

"I suppose by this time you have received the 'Microcosm' and have seen how our new chapter is getting along.

"It was reorganized last June, at which time three men were initiated,—Scott, '67, Cruse, '68, and Newton, '70, and so it remained till last fall when two sophs joined and thus it rests now.

Our prospects are very promising as we hope by next commencement to have at least five first rate men. . . .

"We shall be very happy to see you if you should happen to come to New York, at our lodge, 927 Broadway, near 22nd Street, top floor."

A number of loyal Chi Psis, some of them of great prominence in the metropolis in later years, carried on the banner of the alpha for several years, but in 1873, when apparently in vigorous condition, the alpha foreseeing the approaching deterioration in the quality of the student body at the College of the City of New York, surrendered its charter and became dormant.

REMINISCENCES OF ALPHA KAPPA. "In 1857 Alpha Zeta at Columbia College ceased to function," reads a letter of 1931 from Allan Lee Smidt, K'70, "and the same year a charter was granted to Alpha Kappa at the New York Free Academy, an institution chartered by the New York Legislature in 1847 and empowered to confer collegiate degrees. Its curriculum however was patterned largely after that of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point and for fifty-four years its presidents were West Point graduates. In 1857 and for some time before and after that time it was a favored school for the sons of some of New York City's representative families. Up to the time of my graduation in 1870, its requirements were severe and its graduating classes small and averaged thirty-one members. It became the College of the City of New York in 1864 and as time progressed many changes were made in its curriculum and it was popularized until today it is almost a university in its multitude of schools and courses, and its last graduating class numbered 957.

"I was initiated in Alpha Kappa in 1867 and its active and alumni members at that time were the finest lot of fellows I have ever been privileged to associate with. Without in any way disparaging the present policy of the Fraternity, it must be, however, admitted that we were a social fraternity, not an educational adjunct. The other fraternities considered us exclusive and undemocratic and accused us of thinking ourselves a little better than anybody else, and I am inclined to believe that they were more than half right; but Chi Psi of those days was different. We did not seek members. Few of the alphas had more than fifteen active members. We did not take men because of their college activities or pre-eminent scholarship. We sought congenial men of social prominence and if they maintained a respectable standing in their classes that satisfied us. We were a band of brothers and we were fond of each other and of our Fraternity. In a city as New York was then where all the students of a college live at home, it is hard to develop the lodge spirit; but Alpha Kappa had it. Almost every afternoon or evening some of us were in the lodge rooms. We preferred to be there rather than seek diversion elsewhere. There, too, were many graduates of Alpha Theta living in New York and they frequented our lodge rooms in the evenings and fraternized with our undergraduate members and exercised over us an inspiring influence. I recall now especially Harry Beers of '66, George S. Terry of '66, Charles Pearce of '68, George P. ('Peage'), Lawton of '68 and Sam Blagden the elder of '62, all Theta men and splendid fellows. There were also men from Pi and that prompts me to say that I personally knew well three of the founders of Chi Psi: General Duane, Judge Major and Col. Berthoud. Col. Berthoud was a particularly close and dear friend of mine and used to entertain me with stories and reminiscences of the early days of Chi Psi and of Philip Spencer.

"Our own graduate members were a fine lot: Col. Frank Markoe, than whom no more companionable man ever lived; Ralph Mead Hyde, only lately deceased, who was later a senior officer of Tiffany & Co.; Judge Frank M. Scott, Ambrose Monell, also a Judge, B. W. Throckmorton, and Captain Abram Kip VanVleck, one of the loveliest characters that I have ever known, and George Crawford Clark. These men kept up their interest not only in the Fraternity, but in the alpha, as well, and were constantly dropping in on us and we were all boys together. We were an exclusive lot and the difficulty of getting enough of the right material induced us to surrender our charter, which we did some three or four years after my graduation. We had no national organization at that time and in compliance with the rules of that day, our charter and constitution were turned over to Alpha Phi at Hamilton College, where I presume they now repose.

"Some time in 1880, I was with Commodore Gerry, Z'57, and Judge Monell, K'63, and Gerry happened to say that Zeta had never surrendered her charter and that it was then in the possession and custody of Major Keteltas, Z'57, and that he would like to revive the alpha. I told him that I knew a couple of likely boys in Columbia, unaffiliated, and that if he wished I would speak to them and introduce them to him and I did so, with the result that they found three more, a number of Zeta graduates became interested and a dinner was held at the Hotel Brunswick, lodge opened, and the five initiated. The rejuvenated alpha, however, did not thrive. They increased their number to eight, the last two in the class of 1885, and then passed out. I always believed that over-nursing was responsible for it. The old Zeta men were very enthusiastic, hired and furnished lodge rooms and generally coddled and indulged the undergraduates to such an extent that they had no incentive to exert themselves; at all events, Zeta is a thing of the past, now, definitely.

"Despite the difficulty of maintaining an alpha there, Chi Psi has always had a warm spot in her heart for New York City. Between 1875 and 1913 (inclusive) no less than seventeen conventions were held there and for a number of years following 1875, every third convention had to be held there. We also had a very much alive alumni association for a number of years, which yielded to the first Chi Psi Club here, some thirty years ago, and later to the present Chi Psi Club. Our city is full of loyal alumni and we have Theta, Xi and Rho within striking distance. When I look back, I feel and appreciate how much Chi Psi meant to me and how the memories of those days brighten the way toward the end of the road. Sixty-two years a Chi Psi with never an unpleasant incident. Truly 'we are brethren.'"

ALPHA KAPPA SEVENTY YEARS AGO. "I joined Chi Psi I think in 1869," in 1929 wrote Henry Dodge Cooper, K'72, of New York City. I was rushed for Alpha Delt and Chi Psi at the same time. Both were good, but the social quality of Chi Psi appealed to me and I had friends in the alpha. The student body of C. C. N. Y. was composed largely of students who were sons and grandsons of men born in the U. S. Today as you know young men of New York of this grade are going to other colleges. The membership of the old alpha would compare favorably with the men of any other alpha in the Fraternity. The charter was given up because later there was not material in sufficient quantity to maintain a successful alpha. We had a very stiff course in the college, especially in mathematics, going pretty well through applied mathematics. This cut down a freshman class of around 200 to a graduating class of between thirty and forty. The severity of the regime was later lessened. The Chi Psis in the college all did well. Most of them became professional men in excellent standing. We all kept together during our four years and were at the lodge practically every day. We were a fairly lively lot, but kept within the proper bounds. At times the bounds were perhaps a bit strained, but never broken. I have been to the Orient three times. I have been around the world. I was associated as a managing partner with a house emanating from Dundee. We had branches in Belfast, London and Calcutta. I have therefore met a good many men of wide experience and men of varied races and environment, but as a group I have never met more genuine, companionable or attractive men than the members of the old Philip Spencer breed with whom I came in contact. Of course they can't all be right but their percentage is very, very high."

JUDGE FRANCIS M. SCOTT, K'67. Wrote Max Zinkeisen, E'80, from New York City in 1938: "In a most haphazard way my hand lit on a battered book ('Biological and Geological Essays,' by Thomas H. Huxley) the other day with nothing left of its outside but the front cover. And lo, and behold, when turning this over my eyes detected a Chi Psi book plate. (See cut.) I am mailing you the find, having tried to give the volume a less waif-like aspect. When I looked, and looked again, at this book plate, I exclaimed to myself, 'That's a personal book plate, if there ever was one'; there's, as it were, the whole man, Francis M. Scott, K'67. And his personality rose vividly in my recollection. And the motto: 'To be rather than to seem,' matched the personality. (The Latin: 'Esse quam videri,' the version which appears in the book plate, is, to be sure, the motto of North Carolina, and Brother Scott may have had some reason because of birth or ancestry to allude to that state; yet be it as it may, the motto characterized the man.) The scales of justice point to his profession and to his service to his fellow citizens as judge in New York State's Appellate Court. The Chi Psi badge betokens his devotion to the Fraternity. He was one of the old-time group, headed by Elbridge T. Gerry, Z'57, who certainly left an example of 'Once a Chi Psi, always a Chi Psi.'" (Might not the scales of justice be from Alpha Kappa's mystic plate?)

ALPHA UPSILON, established on March 3, 1858, at Furman University, Greenville, S. C., by Absalom Blythe, Robert Perry Duncan, William Edward Earle, Alexander Sparks Lide, Young John Pope, Hazel Furman Scaife, William Chapline Scott and Thomas M. Smith. Gamma, John M. Richmond, Σ'58, and Zeta, Hamlin Beattie, Δ'56.

FURMAN UNIVERSITY is located at Greenville, South Carolina. In 1858 it was in a most prosperous and flourishing condition. The town, then numbering less than 3000 people, nestled in the beautiful hills which lie at the foot of the Blue Ridge. The healthfulness and salubrity of its atmosphere, the wonderful equanimity of its climate, and the beautiful surroundings of its high, rolling country, furnished admirable physical advantages for a seat of learning, whilst the high moral and religious tone of the little community was an additional attraction, making it altogether desirable. It was the seat, also, of a flourishing Female College and of the Southern Theological Seminary, which has since been removed to Louisville, Ky. All three of these institutions were under the auspices of the Baptist denomination, and the university and the college have been built up largely by the planters of that denomination in the lower portion of the state, for the purpose of educating their children in the bracing climate of the "up-country."

The university then had over two hundred students, and amongst them there were about a dozen whose congenial tastes brought them together in a common friendship, which was daily developed and strengthened by their association in their literary societies, their military organization, as well as in the classroom. Hamlin Beattie, Δ'56, then lately graduated from Princeton, a resident of the town and a law student, suggested to William E. Earle the organization of an alpha of the Chi Psi, and the idea was quickly grasped by him and a number of his companions, who soon realized that it was just the association they needed for the development of their friendship and their social relations.

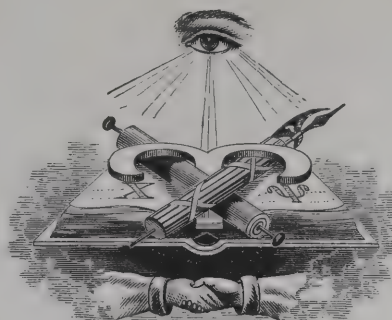

A charter was granted, the duty of organization devolved upon Alpha Sigma and she sent as her delegate John M. Richmond, Σ'58, who, aided by Brother Beattie, Alpha Delta, completed the organization, "and on one cold night in March there were eight youths all made happy as bridegrooms." The alpha was called Upsilon; the state's symbol is a palmetto tree to which that letter is somewhat similar, and as the first alpha in the state it was deemed entitled to appropriate the palmetto. Upsilon was largely instrumental afterwards in the establishment of Beta and Tau, whilst she furnished to Omicron three of her charter members and organized her.

The following letters to R. B. Maclin, E'59, show very clearly the founding and early history of the alpha.

without opposition. Brother Richmond left today for South Carolina to carry on the initiation of the petitioners, he is to be assisted by a graduate of Princeton, in fact, he was the one who persuaded the Furman University boys to petition; I received a letter from him about the petitioners, and recommended to the other chapters the granting of a petition solely on his authority; no doubt we will have a fine chapter there although it is a small college; you will hear from me, as soon as Brother Richmond returns, which will be in a few days. . . .

they were absent from the university at the time. I remained in Greenville three days and never was more hospitably entertained in my life. We may be proud of our AY, for I think it will be one of our best chapters. I never met with a better set of men in my life than they are; they stand high in college in every sense of the word, and have every requisite necessary for true Chi Psis. Leaving out their other good qualities, the 'champagne bust' they gave us is enough to recommend them. And lastly, though not speaking disparagingly of any of our chapters, I will venture to say that we have not a better crowd of boys anywhere than the boys of AY. . . .

"Yours in the Bonds of Chi Psi,

"J. M. RICHMOND."

The high character of the charter members of the alpha at once won for it the envy of the other students and the sympathy of the faculty. Its early success was phenomenal. The outbreak of the war closed the institution and nearly all of Upsilon's members rushed into the service. Their record is the proudest page in the alpha's history.

Nearly five years had elapsed since Furman University had been closed and Up-

FURMAN UNIVERSITY, GREENVILLE, S. C. (Main Building, erected in 1854.) Founded in 1826.

"Chapel Hill, N. C., March 14, 1858.

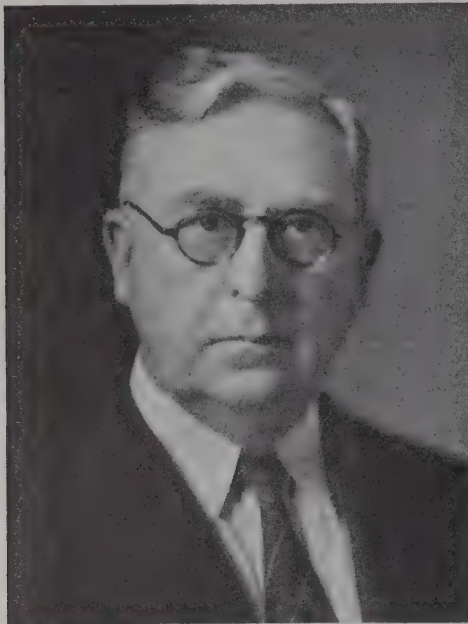

"DEAR BROTHER:

"... "I suppose you are aware that the petition from Furman University, S. C., has been granted. As our chapter was most convenient our No. 6 committed its organization to our charge. Brother Beattie and myself were elected officers to organize their chapter. Beattie as AZ and myself as AA. Beattie is an old graduate and resides in Greenville, S. C. He saved us a good deal of expense as Furman University is in Greenville. We initiated the petitioners on Wednesday night, March 3, 1858. Their chapter is AY. The men initiated are Absalom Blythe, Greenville, S. C.; W. E. Earle, Columbus, N. C.; Alexander S. Lide, Darlington, S. C.; Young J. H. Pope, Newberry, S. C.; H. F. Scaife, Unionville, S. C.; W. C. Scott, St. Helena Island, S. C.; T. M. Smith, Edgefield, South Carolina.

'All of the petitioners were not initiated as silon's band had met together in fraternal intercourse, when, in May, 1866, and shortly after the reopening of Furman, the alpha was revived. Brothers W. E. Earle, W. H. Perry, William Beattie and J. F. Dargan were the moving spirits in the work. To Upsilon belongs the distinction of being the first one of the Southern alphas to reorganize after the war, and the hopes of the revived alpha clustered about four men. A small number, forsooth; but that was the day of small things, when students were very few. Earnest work, however, brought several recruits, and the first post bellum session ended with eleven members.

The following letter of July 7, 1868, to

H. C. HAYNSWORTH, Y'95, of Sumter, S. C., Master in Equity for Sumter County, claims the championship in the matter of Chi Psi Kinsmen—thirty-nine counting himself. He married Emilie Edgeworth Beattie. She has ten Chi Psi relatives, so that her husband is thus one of a total of forty-nine by blood and marriage.

Of the blood relatives, twenty-four trace back to Major Robert Lide, of Marion's Brigade, for whom the Hartsville, S. C., chapter of D. A. R. is named. This old gentleman seems to have had a high sense of the duty he owed his country in peace as well as in war. The region was sparsely settled; increase in population was desirable. He must have had his heart set on progeny, for he married four times, which won him the sobriquet, "Major Much-Marry." He could not foresee that he was to become the ancestor of so many Chi Psis. Be that as it may, the highly creditable result of his zeal for matrimony is that he stands alone as a progenitor of Chi Psis. His descendants were well provided with plantations until after the war between the States. Few, if any, of these are now owned by the family. The original Welsh name was Llyud. Many of the first settlers anglicised the spelling of their names to conform to pronunciation, no doubt strongly induced thereto by neighbors who refused to be bothered by any such spelling. The clan consists mainly of Lides, Cokers and Dargans.

But Thomas H. Rogers, Y'91, who died recently, must be included. He was to have been the guest of honor at the semi-centennial celebration of football at Furman last fall, but he had a stroke just a few days before the event. His brother, Harvey Rogers, Yale professor and member of the original "Brain Trust," was killed in an airplane accident almost at the same time. Harvey attended Carolina during that regrettable period when fraternities were outlawed.

The outstanding Chi Psi in this branch of the family was unquestionably David R. Coker, B'91. He did more for the improvement of farming methods and planting seed than any man in South Carolina, or even in the South. He was recognized as the greatest citizen of that state during his time. He made his plantation the field of the most far-reaching scientific experiments. He was unspoiled either by acclaim or by his wealth. He was as modest and unassuming as his great father, Major James Lide Coker, founder of Coker College.

On the paternal side, Brother Haynsworth's most distinguished Chi Psi relative was the late Joseph Haynsworth Earle, Y'68, attorney-general, judge and U. S. senator. He was one of the handsomest men in America, with classic features, deep-set fiery eyes, keen mind and noble bearing. In 1890 Earle was the conservative candidate for governor. B. R. Tillman led what was known as the "reform movement" to overthrow the aristocracy. He swept the state overwhelmingly. But Earle had fought so splendidly that he won the admiration of "Pitch-fork" Ben. Shortly thereafter, Earle was elected to the bench, and a little later to the U. S. Senate, winning over Tillman's right hand man. Tillman evidently was hands off, for he was master of the State at that time.

On the paternal side are to be found the numerous Furman Chi Psis. Alester G. Furman, III, X'39, must undoubtedly hold the record for fraternity ancestors—father, two grandfathers, and a great-grandfather: A. G. Furman, Jr., Z'40; A. G. Furman, Sr., Y'86, and Dr. J. B. Earle, T'82; Charles M. Furman T'59. Sigma did a most graceful thing recently. A. G. Furman, Jr., attending Furman University after fraternities were abolished, he therefore could not join. The alpha at the University of North Carolina, hearing of this unfortunate break in the Furman line, invited him to join. He was initiated April 20, 1940, in the presence of two very close Chi Psi relatives, to wit, his father and his son.

There have been eight college professors among Brother Haynsworth's Chi Psi relatives.

There have been eight lawyers. The most prominent of these is H. J. Haynsworth, LL.D., Y'79. He was one of the youngest to have attained the presidency of the State Bar Association, thirty-five years ago. He is generally recognized as the leading lawyer of the State. A very interesting fact is that his son and grandson are in his firm. He is the son and grandson of lawyers. His grandfather was admitted to the law courts in 1815. Thus his grandson is the fifth lawyer in direct line. Can this record be matched?

Relatives of Mrs. Hugh C. Haynsworth.—Her uncle, Hamlin Beattie, Δ'56, joined Chi Psi at Princeton. On his return to Greenville, he suggested to some of his friends who were students at Furman that they apply for a charter. This was done. Two of his brothers joined that alpha. Later William Beattie, Mrs. Haynsworth's father, went to the University of Virginia and founded the alpha there. In 1866 he, with William Hayne Perry, William E. Earle and J. F. Dargan, revived Upsilon. This was a family affair, for Perry was an uncle and Earle a cousin of Mrs. Haynsworth, while Dargan was a cousin of Brother Haynsworth.

Hamlin Beattie established a bank that became the First National Bank of Greenville, the strongest in the two Carolinas. After it had been running for several years he paid his stockholders 100% dividend, remarking that they couldn't look askance at him if the bank broke, for they had gotten back all the money they had turned over to him. He was succeeded by his brother, J. E. Beattie, O'68, and he by his son, F. F. Beattie, Y'99, who is still president. This fine old institution has therefore been entirely under Chi Psi management for about eighty years.

Col. William Hayne Perry, Y'59, was the son of Gov. B. F. Perry. He attended Furman two years, but took his B.A. at Harvard. He was elected to Congress, where he met and married Louise, daughter of the first Senator Bankhead, sister of the second Senator and of the Speaker of the House. She was therefore the aunt of Talullah. Col. Perry was a grandson of Hext McCall, Yale, 1794, who was a first cousin of John, Edward and Hugh Rutledge. The first was Washington's nominee for Chief Justice, the second a signer of the Declaration of Independence, and the third a chancellor of the State of South Carolina. Col. Perry was also the grandnephew of Robert Y. Hayne, opponent of Daniel Webster in what was known as "the Great Debate" in the U. S. Senate.

UPSILON IN THE SEVENTIES. Wrote R. W. Lide, T'73, pastor of the First Baptist Church, at Georgetown, S. C., in 1930: "Sixty years ago (1869), I entered Furman University, Greenville, S. C., as a student, and in 1870, or fifty-nine years ago, I was initiated a member of Alpha Upsilon of Chi Psi. We had a choice set of men composing the alpha, and it was an honor to be asked to become a member. I was greatly impressed with the beauty and solemnity of the ceremony of initiation. The vows then taken have helped me in a great way to look upon my student days and after life as a sacred trust. The society stood for the highest and best. In some quarters of late years the fraternity has been accused of inculcating a selfish spirit, with a tendency to dissipation, but this was as foreign to anything I know as could possibly be, for just the opposite was the spirit of the order. Samuel Mauldin, '88, of Greenville, S. C., was at the head of the Fraternity, and the Rev. Dr. E. C. Dargan, '72, who has made a great record as a scholar and professor in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, at Louisville, Ky., and also as an author of several books, was a leading member, with others of like spirit and gift.

"Only this past summer I met at Tryon, N. C., Dr. E. E. Bomar, T'79, a minister of high standing and attainments, and we gave the pass word and the grip. It is a great pleasure to meet as we go through life those who are close to you in such bonds."

DR. ROBERT W. LIDE, T'73

A. G. FURMAN, III X'39; A. G. FURMAN, II, Z'40; A. G. FURMAN, Y'86; C. M. FURMAN, Y'59. FOUR GENERATIONS OF CHI PSIS. When this picture was taken several years ago, before the death of Charles M. Furman, Y'59, (great-grandfather), it was greatly regretted that Alester G. Furman, III (father), had not been available to Chi Psi for the reason that fraternities had been abolished at Furman University before he attended there. "The fact that there was a Chi Psi alpha at Amherst had a great deal to do with my lending my influence in deciding that Alester G. Furman, III, X'39 (grandson), should attend that college," said Alester G. Furman, Y'86 (grandfather), of Greenville, S. C.

Then Alester G. Furman, II, received the following letter of March 27, 1940, from Philip Walker, Z'40, No. 1 of Alpha Sigma:

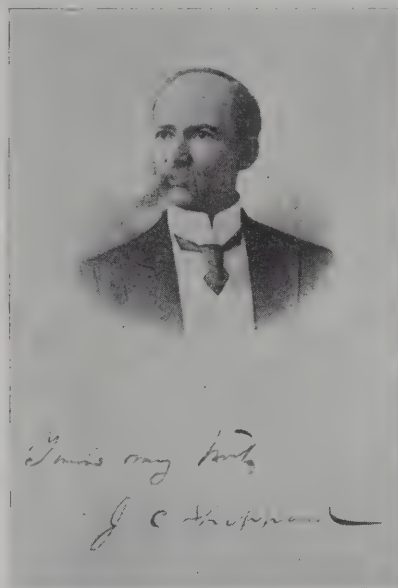

"We have been informed of your close family connections with the Chi Psi Fraternity. We understand that Chi Psi would have been your choice of fraternities had not the alpha at your Alma Mater been dormant at the time you were in school. With this in mind, Alpha Sigma of Chi Psi, which we are proud to designate as a 'family fraternity,' cordially invites you to become initiated into the Bonds of brotherhood at our formal initiation in April, 1940, here at Chapel Hill. The specific date of the initiation will be set within a day or two, and we will inform you of it as soon as it is set. As Chi Psi has no honorary members, you will be initiated regularly into the Fraternity, taking your place as a full-fledged Chi Psi among our alumni. It would please us greatly if both your father and your son could be present to attend the ceremonies at your initiation."

That this invitation was accepted, was a source of great satisfaction to the father and son of Alester G. Furman, II, Z'40, who were present at his initiation on April 20, 1940, at Chapel Hill, N. C., and will afford gratification to other Chi Psis now and in years to come.

Following is a record by college classes of related Furmans, Haynsworths, Earles, Irvines and Goldsmiths who were Chi Psis in Alphas Upsilon, Beta, Tau, Sigma and Chi, beginning with Great-Grandfather Charles M. Furman, Y'59, including Grandfather Alester G. Furman, Y'86, and extending down to Grandson Alester G. Furman, II, Z'40, and Great-Grandson Alester G. Furman, III, X'39:

JOHN CALHOUN SHEPPARD, Y'71, former Governor of South Carolina, died at his home, Edgefield, S. C., October 7, 1931, at the age of 81. He was born at Edgefield, July 5, 1850, and lived there all his life, having for 60 years practiced law there and having for many years been president of the Bank of Edgefield.

"Governor" Sheppard, as he was always known in South Carolina, was one of that coterie of brilliant young men who constituted Alpha Upsilon in the decade after the Civil War, and like so many of his college-mates and fraternity brothers, he played not only an active but a leading part in the reconstruction of the state in the 70's. Unable to finish college, he studied law and was admitted to the bar, and in 1876, the year of the political overturn in South Carolina, under the leadership of General Wade Hampton, he was nominated for the House of Representatives from Edgefield County, on the Democratic-Straight out ticket, and was elected. There has never been a more intense, nor a more important, political campaign and election in America than the campaign of 1876 in South Carolina, and had not there been wise, cool leadership on the side of the native sons of the state, who were endeavoring to wrest control from aliens, civil war might have been renewed. Young Sheppard, fearless, eloquent, respected, was one of the young leaders who stood behind Hampton in that remarkable campaign and his demand for the recognition of the white government. The control of the House of Representatives was contested; both the Hampton Democrats and the opposing party, composed largely of Negroes, claimed the majority, and for days both parties occupied the beautiful hall of the House of Representatives at Columbia, when an indiscreet word might have precipitated bloodshed, of which the state had already had more than its share. The chosen Speaker of the Democratic House was General William H. Wallace and that body is usually referred to in South Carolina as the "Wallace House." After the Democrats were in control, Speaker Wallace was elected circuit judge, and young Sheppard was made Speaker to succeed him. He afterwards married the daughter of General Wallace.

From 1878 to 1882, Sheppard served as Speaker, and in the latter year he was elected lieutenant-governor, so that he presided over both houses of the legislature before he was 33 years of age, the lieutenant-governor serving as president of the Senate. Twenty years later, when he became State Senator from Edgefield, he was elected president pro tempore of the Senate, and again frequently presided over its deliberations. As a presiding officer, he was without a superior. Dignified, polite, prompt in his rulings, thoroughly informed on parliamentary procedure and the rules of the General Assembly, it was a treat to see him in the chair, wearing the deep purple robe of office. As a newspaper reporter, "covering" the Senate during his service as Senator from Edgefield, it was the writer's privilege to have the opportunity to strengthen an acquaintance and friendship which began when Governor Sheppard was a guest in my father's home during my childhood.

During his service as lieutenant-governor, in 1886, President Cleveland appointed the Governor, Hugh S. Thompson, to an important position in the treasury department at Washington, and Brother Sheppard became Governor. At this time, the agrarian unrest and agitation, which reached its height a few years later, was beginning its rumbles in South Carolina, and had he cared to cater to the extreme element at that time, he might have had the Democratic nomination for Governor, in 1886, which would have meant election. His neighbor, Benjamin R. Tillman—later Governor and United States Senator—was the leader of the then embryonic "Farmers Movement" and was willing to throw his support to Sheppard, but Sheppard was not the sort to seek political, or other, advantage at the sacrifice of his convictions. Four years later, the same opportunity was presented to another son of Upsilon—Joseph H. Earle—with the same result, refusal.

It was Earle who, as a candidate for Governor, led the fight against Captain Tillman, and in defense of the existing régime, in 1890; and in 1892 it was Sheppard who was the candidate of the anti-Tillman faction for Governor, against the then Governor Tillman, seeking a second term. The Sheppard ticket was overwhelmingly snowed under in the primaries, Tillman going in for a second term and eventually to the United States Senate.

John C. Sheppard lost his fight to become Governor of the state he loved so well, but he maintained his own self-respect and that of all who knew him, including his political opponents. He served with great distinction in the Constitutional Convention which formulated a new constitution for the state in 1895, and which was composed of the best talent of both political factions in the state.

Again in 1898, he went back into politics, as Senator from his county, and as has been said, his ability was recognized by his election as president pro tempore of that body. He later served another unexpired term. His son, James O. Sheppard, is now lieutenant-governor of South Carolina, but due to the unfortunate dormancy of the South Carolina alphas, this able son of an able father is, like others of his status, not a Chi Psi. Governor Sheppard's daughter married a Chi Psi, D. D. McColl, B'98, who also served in the State Senate.

Governor Sheppard's political activities were merely incidental. He was first and foremost a citizen, engaged in the practice of his profession and the upbuilding of his community as a banker; interested in the affairs of his church and his fraternal associations. Chi Psi always held high place in his affections.—J. A. Hoyt, T'97.

William S. Palmer, E'68, gave to Alpha Epsilon announcement of the revival from John H. Dargan, AA of Alpha Upsilon:

"After a suspension of four years during the late war the Alpha Upsilon was reorganized by several of its old members. Members initiated on May 12, 1866: John Edgeworth Beattie, John Hugh Dargan, James Belton Davis, John Henry Earle."

The success of the alpha for several successive years was limited only by the feebleness of the institution.

The latter half of 1881 was gloomy. Such was the financial condition of the college that the trustees met and decided not to open in the following September. But in August, the Saluda Association convened at Williamstown, S. C., and decided to lead a movement among the Baptists to reopen the institution. The university reopened in September, 1881, with twenty-five students. It was weak in numbers and so was Alpha Upsilon, J. B. Earle being the only representative. He initiated John M. Manly, and they were reinforced by the return of Brother Douglas later in the fall. These faithful brethren did the work on the Fraternity "Catalogue" which was issued about that time, and by their influence and high standing in the university, did not suffer Alpha Upsilon to fall into the background. Her power was felt and recognized. The next year Furman gathered unto herself and so did Alpha Upsilon.

From that time Upsilon had a career of continuous prosperity until at the close of the session, June, 1898, by vote of the trustees, all fraternities were banished from Furman University.

"As shown in this statement," wrote Alester G. Furman, Y'86, "fraternities were outlawed by the board of trustees in 1898, the alpha functioning, however, through 1902. As I remember it, the provisions of the board of trustees were that there should be no additional initiations after the action by the board in December, 1898, so that the class that had been initiated during that fall carried on through until 1902."

Upsilon's men in her last years were still the leaders in all college affairs and to the last the alpha retained her high standards of membership and conduct. The news that Upsilon could no longer exist sent a pang of sorrow to her hundreds of loyal sons the country over and, although there now seems small prospect of revival, a hope, born of love for Chi Psi and Upsilon, still lingers with the men, some now aged, whose fondest recollections are of the old alpha at Furman.

FURMAN UNIVERSITY TODAY. Within the last two decades Furman University has been greatly strengthened both scholastically and financially. On December 11, 1924, Mr. James Buchanan Duke affixed his signature to the indenture creating the Duke Endowment. Furman University was included as a beneficiary of the Endowment to the extent of 5% of the earnings. Capitalized on the basis of the income, Furman's share in the Endowment is the equivalent of $2,000,000. Furman is also the beneficiary of two special funds amounting to $541,500 held by the Trustees of the Duke Endowment and administered for the benefit of the university. The institution holds membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and in the Association of American Colleges. It is also on the approved list of the Association of American Universities and is a liberal arts college member of the National Association of Schools of Music. By a series of steps beginning in 1933, the Greenville Woman's College has become an integral part of the institution, and is now known as the Woman's College of Furman University. The enrollment (1939-40) totals 1,015, 540 young men and 475 young women, exclusive of non-resident music and business students. Since Upsilon was established in 1858, Greenville has grown from a town with a population of fewer than 3,000 to a city of approximately 80,000 including the metropolitan district.—JOHN M. PLYLER, President of Furman University, April 19, 1940.

MELVILLE DOZIER, Y'67. "During the two school years 1858-61 I was a student in the preparatory department of Furman University, being then 13 to 15 years of age," wrote Melville Dozier, Y'67. "The secession of South Carolina on December 20, 1860, followed by the secession of other Southern states and the organization of the Confederacy, made such an irresistible appeal to the young men of the South that every college for men in the land was closed by the middle of 1861, and the students and many members of the faculties joined the Confederate army."

"This, however, was not true of the state military academies of the several states, it being considered essential that these should be kept in operation for the training of young men for military leadership. Being too young for army service, my father secured for me an appointment to a cadetship in South Carolina Military Academy, which I entered January 1, 1862.

"The course of study in that institution covered a period of four years, and the training was modeled very nearly after the curriculum and drill of West Point, except that we had no drill in cavalry tactics. My experience in this institution appealed to me very strongly, and the recollections of the associations there enjoyed are among the most cherished of my life.

"But the exigencies of the Confederacy became so pressing as the war continued, that by the summer of 1864 the state yielded this body of its young soldiers to the demand of the Confederacy, and the entire institution joined the Confederate army as a battalion, the members of the faculty being the commissioned officers and the cadet officers of the institution acting as non-commissioned officers of the battalion. It would be of no interest now to relate the war experience of this body of enthusiastic youths, ranging from sixteen to twenty-one years of age, save to say that they acquitted themselves with the courage and devotion for which the Confederate army will ever hold an honorable place in history.

"After the surrender to the Union forces, the South was literally prostrate for several years, and none of the closed institutions of learning were in condition to reopen their doors for some time. Among the first of these, however, was Furman University, which reopened in January, 1866, for all classes but the senior. I entered the institution then as a junior, and graduated in May, 1867.

"The classes were small, the country having been reduced to a state of distressing poverty; but the spirit actuating both teachers and students was one of determination to make the most of that which was theirs, an opportunity to prepare for life's work and its obligations.

"For some years prior to the Civil War the Chi Psi Fraternity had sustained an organization at Furman, one of the earliest, I believe, in the country, and membership in Alpha Upsilon was regarded as conclusive evidence of excellence of character and unquestioned standing, both in college and social life.

"The alpha was revived soon after the reopening of the institution, its membership being selected on the same principles that had controlled its life previous to the war. The beautiful badge of the Fraternity was also a badge of the confidence and respect of all. I was honored with membership in the reorganization, and enjoyed its fellowship to the end of my course."

WALTER D. TOY, Y'72. "I was initiated into our Fraternity in 1871 at Furman University," in 1930 wrote Walter D. Toy, Y'72, head of the department of Germanic languages in the University of North Carolina, "where I was enrolled for two years as a special student for courses given in the junior and senior years in Latin, Greek, mathematics and physics, preparing to enter the university of my native state, Virginia, where I later received the degree of M.A. At this time Furman University had only a small number of students and was not adequately supported by the Baptist denomination, under whose auspices it had been established and was maintained. But the president, Rev. Dr. James C. Furman, a distinguished representative of the family whose name the institution bears, was a man of culture and intellectual gifts of a high order. As a result of his enlightened policy there was secured a small faculty of able men, whose work was honest and thorough. Having so small a body of students to work with, none of the existing fraternities could enroll large numbers. Besides Chi Psi I remember Kappa Alpha and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. They probably had about ten members each. As I look back at the group of Chi Psi brothers with whom I was associated, it is evident that nearly all of them came later to fill positions of responsibility. Among these men the ties of friendship were closely knit. Our college work was carried on at a definite center. We were constantly together and our common interests developed a real intimacy based on mutual confidence and personal attachment. The true fraternity spirit was thus cultivated more fully than is sometimes possible in larger institutions. This was not the time for the elaborate chapter houses which we know today. Our hall was one of the unused rooms of the university building. There we boarded up the windows, carefully locked the doors, and held our meetings at night in strict privacy, although it soon became evident that our place of meeting was an open secret. Our alpha was constantly in communication with the others scattered over the country and was in sympathy with the aims of the national organization. In 1872, on my final departure from South Carolina, I was sent as our delegate to the annual convention at Amherst, Mass. Time would fail to follow out here the careers of the men whom I knew so well at Alpha Upsilon. Some of them, like Ed Dargan, are nationally known. All of them wrought, I think, honorably and efficiently in the service of our country."

b May 8, 1863 at Sumter, S.C. In coll. 3 yrs. Comm'l. traveler Tapp, Leathers & Co., Louisville, Ky. 1886-98;

JOHN M. MANLY, T'83, died on April 2, 1940, at Tucson, Ariz. His ashes were brought to Greenville, S. C. for interment in the family plot in the local cemetery. Among the honorary pallbearers were H. J. Haynsworth, T'79, Dr. J. B. Earle, T'82, and Alester G. Furman, T'86. He was the brother of Charles M. Manly, Ψ'98. The account of his life in The P. and G. was secured for us by Alester G. Furman, T'86. It is from "The Manly Family," compiled by Louise Manly and published in 1930 at Greenville, S. C. By way of bringing it down to date it is perhaps only necessary to add that Brother Manly retired from his active professorship at the University of Chicago in 1933 and thereafter had continued his research work as professor emeritus.

John Matthews Manly, professor of English at the University of Chicago, who died a few days ago, was a giant, one of the supreme scholars of his day. Few men have read as widely as he had and still fewer have had his phenomenal memory. His immense and detailed knowledge created what might be called the Manly myth, except that it was no myth; it was the sober truth that the whole field of English literature, philology, and history was his intimate possession.

The myth is of a walking encyclopedia, but Manly was much more than that. He had an acute and daring intellect. Problems which others would shun as incapable of solution would attract him and in the end he managed to crack most of them. He succeeded, for example, in identifying many of the individuals portrayed by Chaucer in the "Canterbury Tales," men and women who were more or less obscure in their own day and are dead these 500 years and more.

Manly's skill as a literary detective proved of great value to his country in the last war. Among scholars it was said that no code or cipher could be devised which he could not solve in short order, and accordingly Prof. Manly became Capt. Manly of the United States army intelligence service in charge of decoding and deciphering enemy documents. There is reason to believe that his achievement fully matched expectations. It is to be hoped that the story of his military career will be recorded in detail; it ought to make one of the best of detective stories.

Prof. Manly had great learning and a penetrating mind. He had also, and especially, literary taste. It was not narrow. His anthology of English poetry, published first in 1907 and subsequently republished in many editions, is, so far as we know, the best thing of its kind available. His selection, it can be safely said, guided the literary taste of a generation and more of American college students.—Editorial in the Chicago Tribune, April 9, 1940.

CHARLES LOVE DURHAM, Y'91. In view of his long and devoted service to Chi Psi in general and Alpha Psi in particular, any honor accorded Charles Love Durham, Y'91, would be gratifying to his fraternity brothers. How much more so when that honor is the first incumbency of the distinguished professorship created in 1940 at Cornell University by the munificent gift of John Wendell Anderson, E'90!

It is appropriate to quote the story from the Syracuse Post-Standard, published by J. D. Barnum, Ψ'12, as follows:

"Prof. Charles Love Durham, who has been associated with the classics department of Cornell University since he came to Ithaca as a graduate student in 1896, was signally honored by the board of trustees in being named the first incumbent of the John Wendell Anderson distinguished professorship, established recently.

"Although he retires from active service in June, Prof. Durham will have the distinction of being designated to a professorship bearing the name of a devoted friend and fraternity brother. Mr. Anderson is a Cornell alumnus, former Ford Motor Co. attorney in Detroit, who was national president of Chi Psi for several years.

"Born in Shelby, N. C., on January 2, 1872, Prof. Durham attended Furman University and later Cornell, where he received his doctorate degree. In 1905-06 he studied at the University of Leipzig and at the University of Munich. Furman awarded him the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters in 1922.

"Beginning as an instructor in Latin at Cornell in 1897, he became assistant professor of Latin in 1901, and professor in 1909. He has held this position since. In 1918 he was appointed vice-consul at the American consulate in Geneva, Switzerland.

"In his long connection with the university, Prof. Durham has been active in a number of important undertakings, in addition to those more immediately connected with his departmental duties. He has served on the general committee of the graduate school, on the old athletic council, on the faculty committee on student activities, and on many other bodies which play essential parts in the administration of the university. He was master of ceremonies at the inauguration of the president in 1937. His ability as a public speaker has created a wide demand for his presence at alumni and secondary school gatherings, as well as at university events."

Brother Durham was given the Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity at a dinner at Alpha Zeta Delta, in Champaign, Ill., on June 1, 1940.

Nov. 25, 1894. Mayor, town of Williston 25 yrs.; state highway commr., 2nd dist., 1936 to date. Farmer, banker, fertilizer mfr., live-stock dealer.

COVER OF THE FIRST ISSUE OF THE PURPLE AND GOLD, Volume I, No. 1, of November, 1883. The original cover was of a color a little deeper than buff. The words "Purple and Gold" were printed in gold, with the lines below and the border in purple. (See P. 23.) Fifty years later the current editor wrote: "It is interesting to note how closely the various departments of subject matter then and now resemble each other, and at the same time how the method of treatment has changed with the times. 'Tempora mutantur et nos mutamur in illis'. Our Latin may be bad, but you know what we mean, that times change and we with them. Poems and articles on classical subjects are as praiseworthy today as fifty years ago. But will our readers, accustomed to tabloids, moving pictures and airplane travel stop to read them? Is it not better to continue the same departments but to treat the material briefly, in news style and with abundant illustrations?"

ALPHA BETA, established on May 3, 1858, at the University of South Carolina, Columbia, S. C., by Samuel Mandeville Banks, Halloway I. Bird, Robert J. Fulton, James Lavel Martin, Isaac Rosser, William C. Scott, James Grier White and James W. Wrenn. Gamma, James M. Richmond, Σ'58; Zeta, James A. Walker, Σ'58.

It is safe to say that no alpha has encountered such obstacles as has Beta. Thrice have its altar fires been kindled, thrice have they died down; twice with the death of the college, only to be revived with its reopening, and once, the latest, smothered by order of the state legislature.

The first attempt to found an alpha at South Carolina University was in 1858, the same year that Upsilon was founded; for when once the movement in favor of southern extension began, it sped with unwonted rapidity. The following letters to R. B. Maclin, E'59, the ΔΔ of AE, show the founding of Beta:

"Chapel Hill, N. C., March 14, 1858.

"DEAR BROTHER:

... "On my return from Greenville I came through Columbia, S. C., and visited the S. C. College. I met one of my old friends there, who is in the senior class, and was glad to learn from him that he and some ten or twelve other men in college there were going to petition for a chapter of our society. We are expecting every day to receive their petition and will let you know as soon as we do. I know some of the men personally and can recommend them to be true gentlemen and worthy to become members of our beloved Fraternity. As regards the S. C. College, there is no need for me to say anything. It speaks for itself. It is in Columbia and is the oldest institution in the South, and second to none, save the University of Virginia. There are but very few societies there. . . .

"Yours in the Bonds of the X Ψ,

"J. M. RICHMOND."

"Wilmington, N. C., May 14, 1858.

"DEAR BROTHER:

"I am happy to inform you that a chapter of our Fraternity has been established at the South Carolina College. Brother Richmond and myself were appointed to establish a chapter there; on our arrival in Columbia we found the petitioners ready to give us a hearty welcome.

"The men we initiated were of the highest stamp. I can without hesitation say that we will have a number one chapter there. We only initiated eight of the petitioners, the others having a vacation by the unanimous permission of the faculty. . . .

"I remain yours in the Bonds,

"JAMES A. WALKER, No. 6."

The alpha started with the brightest prospects, but the war breaking out almost immediately afterwards, the university closed its doors and Beta was dormant until 1867. It had, up to that time, initiated but thirteen men. Nearly all entered the service and most of them were probably killed, as diligent search furnishes no information about them. During the war the university buildings were occupied at various times as army headquarters. The college records were all destroyed and consequently few clues remain for finding the ante bellum alumni.

Beta was revived in 1867, Upsilon being sponsor. Among those present and assisting in the revival was D. T. Smith, Y'67, who had been a member of Beta before the war. For several years the alpha had a prosperous existence, but it again became inactive about the middle of the seventies, the university again being closed, this time the cause being the failure of the reconstruction legislature to make the necessary appropriations for its maintenance.

In 1883, the alpha was again reorganized with the following members: O. H. Edwards, J. D. Haynsworth, T. W. Normant, W. Haynsworth, J. E. Lee, D. R. Towers, H. M. Ayer, H. H. Huggins and C. A. Prevost. For several years its condition was precarious. Numerically, it was at times very weak, but experience has proved the wisdom of its policy of conservative election and it became strong, vigorous and powerful. The increasing prosperity of the university gave it a larger field of usefulness and the new opportunities were embraced.

Unfortunately there arose in the college bitter feeling against the fraternities. The anti-fraternity element brought charges which in the main part were shown to be false. The trustees were disposed to drop the matter. Then the opposition appealed to the legislature. The composition of this body at that time (1897) was such that the bill to abolish all fraternities in the state college was passed with scant consideration. There was nothing for Beta to do except to surrender her charter. In 1927 the legislature repealed the anti-fraternity law, but Alpha Beta has not again been revived.

ALPHA BETA IN 1869. This group picture of Alpha Beta at the University of South Carolina is believed to have been taken in 1869. The photograph is from an old family album in the hands of Henry C. Davis, B'97, professor of English in the university, and was forwarded by Nelson T. Levings, EA'26. It does not bear the names of the men but some of them have been identified with the assistance of Mrs. Farish Furman. Left to right: Standing, the first may be Nathaniel B. Barnwell, '68. Second may be John B. Adger, Jr., '69. Third is James T. Dargan, '67. Fourth is Sedgwick S. Johnstone, '67. Fifth is Charles M. Neel, '68. Sixth is W. Gil Wylie. Seated, the first is James H. Thornwell, '69. Third may be John T. McBryde, '67. Fourth (holding insignia) may be George Howe, '69. Fifth is Samuel D. Boggs, '68. Sixth is John F. Townsend, '68. Seventh is possibly Farish C. Furman, '68. Wylie (not found in the "Catalogue") was a prominent New York City physician. Howe married a sister of Woodrow Wilson. Mrs. Furman recalls that Johnstone was a beau of her sister, Sallie LeConte. Townsend was a planter of sea island cotton on Edisto Island, S. C., from 1868 until his death in 1914 and was well known in Charleston social circles. Adger was a planter. Thornwell, Boggs and McBride were Presbyterian clergymen. Howe was a physician. Dargan was a business man. Johnstone was a civil engineer. Neel was a teacher. Barnwell and Furman were lawyers. Nine of these eleven are known to have been in the Confederate service in the Civil War. Most of the Chi Psis of Alpha Beta at that time were members of the Dancing Club, at whose parties the young ladies of the town were entertained.

REV. WILLIAM HAYNSWORTH, B'85. "Brother Haynsworth was one of the mildest spirited men I ever knew, but he believed in standing for the right. An incident in his early history sheds light on the make up of the man. His first charge was a little village in the mountains of Kentucky. There was no railroad. He learned on inquiry that a man hauled freight up there on certain days of the week. He interviewed this man, who said he did not haul passengers. Mr. Haynsworth then asked him if he would haul him as freight, that he weighed one hundred and fifty pounds. The bargain was made and he went to his field of labor as freight. A short time after he was settled he was working at a table upstairs over a store when suddenly there was a fusillade and a bullet went right through the table at which he was working. He went downstairs and on inquiry learned that there was a desperado who came into town and got drunk at intervals and shot up the town. He organized a posse, himself carrying a rifle, and went out and took the man. Thereafter he was known as the "fighting parson," and his influence in that community was very much increased."—CHARLES A. JONES, Y'95.

DAVID R. COKER, B'91. At the time of his death in 1938 at his home in Hartsville, S. C., The State, of Columbia, S. C., paid his memory this editorial tribute:

"South Carolina has lost its most useful citizen. It has lost the man who did more for its farms and for its farmers than any other man of this generation. It has lost a man who served the public greatly without ever asking anything of the public except that it make use of the knowledge he had gained.

"Greatness is, in a sense, a matter of definition. Some rate military leadership and success as greatness. Others associate greatness with the holding of high political offices. The State prefers to define greatness as usefulness, therefore The State rates David R. Coker a great man.

"The mention of his name suggests cotton, and rightly so, because he did more than any other private worker to develop quality in cotton, to protect it from insect pests, to increase the yield of cotton plants. Countless thousands of persons in South Carolina and in other states are better farmers and have larger incomes than they would had David R. Coker not lived.

"He was a practical, common sense scientist, a hard worker, an effective promotionist. When the boll weevil was coming he developed an early maturing cotton to thwart boll weevil ravages which occur late in the seasons. Next he developed perhaps the best method of weevil poisoning, and at the time of his death he was driving hard to effect a southwide program for poisoning of all cotton fields with government aid, thus saving cotton farmers the annual losses of from 10 to 50 per cent of their crops, now fed to the predatory bug.

"But David R. Coker's work was not confined to cotton. In the small grains his achievements were equally as sensational, and some day may become equally as valuable. People said small grains could not be economically produced in the hot South, but Mr. Coker did not believe them. On his magnificent farms, under his sensible direction, wheat and oats were developed which resist the diseases and the pests which formerly held Southern small grains in check. New and useful varieties of corn, of potatoes, of various green vegetables and of melons and fruits resulted from his efforts. The man's desire to serve the farmers by showing them how to serve themselves was without limitation, and his ability ran his desire a close race.

"Mr. Coker believed, as do many thoughtful persons, that each farmer, each man, must work out his own salvation in the economic sphere by making use of all available and applicable information. He knew how to co-operate with government, knew the value of government, but still he remained an individualist in heart and in work, and a stout proponent of individualism. He saw Southern farming as it might be, and worked himself to death in efforts to transform his visions into practical accomplishments. His faith in Southern farming was deep. He saw it offering to the average man a better chance for secure economic existence and happy philosophical existence than any other occupation."

He was brother of W. C. Coker, B'94; cousin of E. C. Coker, B'94, and R. E. Coker, B'96.

The Cokers are a famous South Carolina family. Concerning them, Archibald Rutledge, Mercersburg, Pa., a native of South Carolina, wrote the following verses, entitled, "The Cokers of Hartsville":

*When I consider
What I shall leave behind,
The Cokers of Hartsville
Keep coming to my mind.*

*Perhaps I'll leave a ballad,
A sonnet, or a story;
But they bequeath the future vast
A heritage of glory.*

*They took a land forsaken,
Stricken with warfare's woes,
And out of pain and shadow wrought
The wonder of the rose.*

*Thus, while I sang of Nature,
They toiled with her, to bring
Her beauty into blossom sweet,
Her Winter into Spring.*

*Loving their Carolina
Too well from her to roam,
They have a message for us all:
Life's Promised Land is Home.*

*I look, but cannot find it,—
A work of equal worth,—
Devising for posterity
The empire of the earth.*

*Charming the world to flower,
Sharing their noble skill,
They give the hearts of coming years
Wealth that no monarch will.*

*They are the unforgotten
They are the good and great
Whose courage leaves to all mankind
Its infinite estate.*

*So, when I think of heroes,
And their bequests, I find
The Cokers of Hartsville
Keep coming to my mind.*

CHI PSIS WHO SUCCEEDED IN LIFE. Wrote James A. Hoyt, T'97: "In his address (June 5, 1940), to the graduating class of the University of South Carolina, President McKissick paid a remarkable tribute to two South Carolinians, both of whom happened to be Chi Psis—the late Charles A. David, T'74, and David R. Coker, B'91. No two men could be more different in their personality, their achievement, and their reputation than Charlie David and David R. Coker; yet both exemplified the lesson Dr. McKissick wanted to impress.

"Success and Service" was the theme of his address, and in his opening remarks he said to the graduates: 'As you who are about to pass from our historic walls consider your future, one of the uppermost questions in your mind is: "Will I succeed in life?"'

Then Dr. McKissick went on to discuss what constitutes success, and said:

One of the most quoted sayings about education is that its object is to enable its possessors not only to make a good living, but also, and far more important, to make a good life.

What is a good life?

What is a successful life?

What is a happy life?

If I could give to every one of you a book which seems to have been written to meet our needs in these difficult and perplexing times, that book would be "How to Be Happy on Nothing a Year" by the late Charles A. David of Greenville.

James C. Derieux, now associate editor of The State, observes in the preface that once he set down a distressingly short list of persons who, in his opinion, were living successfully, and that Mr. David's name was included.

Although he was a familiar character in Greenville, he was virtually unknown elsewhere.

A college graduate, he spent the greater part of his life in clerking or in running stores.

In the course of his career he encountered tragic losses, business reverses, disappointments and sorrows.

He never traveled far.

He never had much money—and never worried about it.

Here was a man who found happiness and contentment in helping others to be happy, in good talk with friends, in observing wild life and nature, who found "books in the running brooks, sermons in stones," and learned lessons from birds and trees.

Mr. David expressed his philosophy of happiness in this way:

"The golden key to happiness is not in bank vaults, nor in our tangible possessions, but in our minds and hearts.

"It is a vast error, too frequently made, to think of money, above the sums required for adequate living, as a necessary foundation for happy living.

"This is the most valuable lesson I ever learned, and, luckily, I learned it early.

"If you want too eagerly what you cannot get, you cannot be happy, but, if you change your desires into something attainable, happiness is where prosperity is not—just around the corner.

"The glory of life consists in the fact that these attainable goals are by far the most desirable of all goals.

"It is convenient to be rich in money; it is deeply comforting to be rich in appreciation, in love, in merriment.

"Happiness is within reach of us all if we but accept life, go along with it, rejoice in the privilege of being alive, if we but count what we have instead of grieving for what we have lost, or worrying over what we cannot achieve."

"A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things he possesseth."

Success consists of true happiness—and the greatest success, the greatest happiness, is to be found in service, not to ourselves, but to others.

"Do you covet distinction?" said Woodrow Wilson.

"You will never get it by serving yourself.

"Do you covet honor?

"You will get it only as a servant of mankind."

One of the greatest South Carolinians in the last half century was David R. Coker, devoted alumnus of the university and one of its trustees for a generation, a man whose counsel and opinions were sought by the nation's leaders.

He was highly successful in his business, yet in many contacts with him I never heard him refer to making money for himself.

His life, thought and labor were largely devoted to devising methods to enable the farmers of South Carolina to make more money not only to increase their own happiness and prosperity but also to develop and improve the wealth and welfare of our whole state.

His highest aspiration was to leave South Carolina better than he found it—and he did.

ALPHA GAMMA, established on September 27, 1858, at the University of Mississippi, Oxford, Miss., by Oscar Fitz-Allen Bledsoe, Dewitt Clinton Buck, Fountain Barksdale, Jr., William B. Brack, Hugh Quin Bridges, Howard Falconer, Wiley Gartman Johnson, Archelaus Kirkland Jones, Thomas Mayfield Lane, Reginald Heber Lipscome, James Franklin Mister, Wilbur Fisk Mister and John Douglas Talbert. Thomas C. Holliday, Σ'60, and Lawson W. Sykes, Σ'62.

In the fall of the year 1858, Thomas C. Holliday and Lawson W. Sykes, two young Mississippians and enthusiastic members of Alpha Sigma at the University of North Carolina, were commissioned to found an alpha of Chi Psi at the University of Mississippi. By previous arrangement a strong list of charter members had been made out. When the alpha was organized the names of fourteen of the best young men in the university were added to the rolls of Chi Psi. Most of these belonged to the classes below the junior. Soon, however, the new Alpha Gamma was largely strengthened by the reception of a number of members of the advanced classes, who had been affiliated with a chapter of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity and who had given up their Kappa Alpha charter.

The zeal and success of the charter members of Gamma and their associates is shown by the fact that from the organization of the alpha in 1858 to the close of the session in the latter part of May, 1861, (at which time virtually began the suspension of the exercises of the university which continued during the Civil War), forty-six men were initiated and the Fraternity was, perhaps, the strongest in the university. The average membership during this period was over twenty, and included many names standing high on the rolls of the university.

When the Civil War began, these enthusiastic young men were among the first to enlist in the service of the state. Entering the service as captains, lieutenants, chaplains, surgeons or privates, they maintained that prestige in manliness and devotion which they had shown in college associations. Gamma was closed. The archives were in the care of John Calhoun Evans, '62, and when he soon was off to the war, a captain in the 22nd Mississippi regiment, at seventeen years of age, they were left in the care of his mother. The son fell at the battle of Shiloh. Through all the vicissitudes of war the mother kept the trust, and in 1865 gave the archives to O. F. Bledsoe, '60, one of the leading charter members of Gamma, who undertook the work of again giving life to the alpha. Following is a letter that he wrote on April 13, 1866, to W. S. Palmer, E'68, at Ann Arbor, Mich.:

"I am just in receipt of your letter to new Chi Psis of Alpha Gamma, and hasten to reply. Be assured that all the Chi Psis of this State entertain the most kindly feelings toward their brethren of the Northern states and send warm good wishes and greetings. Our alpha has not been reorganized at the State University yet, as there is no student there who belongs to it. I will go up to the university next commencement and will reorganize it then. I think I can collect material for an excellent alpha. Send immediately if you can do so without inconvenience, six or a dozen 'Catalogues' to Taylor Hill, University of Mississippi, Oxford, Miss. He is a noble fellow, a good friend of mine, and will select some good fellows to be initiated next commencement. The commencement comes off about the last of June. We would like very much to have our alpha in the next 'Catalogue.'

He was fortunate in securing the assistance of a fine worker among the first new members, in the person of James Sims, '69. During the session of 1865-66, the first after the war, only a few names were added to the roll, but at the opening of the next session the membership reached fifteen, at which limit it was deemed best to hold it.

In the years after '65, Gamma had her vicissitudes, and they were those that were common to every fraternity chapter. She felt the influences that were experienced over the state and over the South. Her first forty-six members were generally men of wealth and leisure. For the years following the war her membership was composed of such young men as filled Southern colleges then; young men whose wealth consisted alone in their own strength of body and mind.

The policy of the alpha was always conservative in its relation to other fraternities. It preferred to command the respect of all, rather than by emulation to excite jealousies. When good material was not available it never made sacrifices for numbers, but bided its time. Its alumni filled many places of honor and trust in the state, and all its members have drawn a healthy inspiration from their college association.

In 1891 it seemed best that the alpha should become dormant and await the time when the conditions at the university shall be more favorable. For this the sons of Gamma are waiting and watching:

COL. EDWIN B. BOLTON, T'71. "Yours is before me," wrote Brother Bolton, from Berkeley, Calif., in 1930. "It asks me to hark back a long time—sixty years, since I was initiated into the mysteries of Chi Psi, at Alpha Gamma, at the University of Mississippi, early in January, 1870. The 'Catalogue' of '29 places me in the wrong class, 1870. It should be 1871. I entered the sophomore class there in the fall of 1868; went through the junior course in 1870, when, for lack of funds, I had to fall out.

"On receiving an appointment through the congressman of my district, I entered the Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., in 1871, and graduated with the class of 1875 there.

"There were many fraternities at Oxford, Miss., the seat of the university, and two literary societies. The latter flourished; but the former were not energetic—their principal object, it seemed to me, was to furnish a pin for some girl to wear. I had known a number of men of prominence in the state before I went to college, but did not know they were Chi Psis. Thomas Dwight Witherspoon (1858) was of my county, and I hear him preach in the church nearby. I heard him preach again in Memphis, Tenn., in 1870.

Thomas Fant (1858) was one of the judges of the sophomores' declamation contest, in which I was entered, at the commencement in 1869. William B. Brack (1861), a judge at El Paso, Tex., I met in 1883 and hunted ducks with him all day, but never knew he was a Chi Psi, no, not even that he was a Mississippian. He knew me only as lieutenant in the army, and I knew him as a magistrate of Texas—neither of us thinking of any closer ties than the friendship of congenial souls casually thrown together.

"There were many others who had formerly been Chi Psis, and who, having gone through the war and become more developed as men, sought political positions after the war and made speeches at conventions. Their names became household words, viz: Oscar Fitz-Allen Bledsoe (1860), William L. Strickland (1860), James B. Gladney (1861), Thomas R. Stockdale (1859), etc.

"There were many fine fellows having bright minds and high class standing in Alpha Gamma when I joined it, and many were their essays, harangues and debates, evoking coruscations of wit, eloquence and humor. There were no chapter houses in those days. Meetings of each fraternity were held in the room of the dormitory where their officers lived. Everything, even the meetings and places of meetings, were kept secret by each fraternity. It was amusing to see how they would sneak off, like an old turkey stealthily going to her nest, lest anyone else seeing them would learn where and what nights they met. New members wore their pins concealed for days. The night I was initiated, two of the brethren were lashing each other in a rather noisy harrangue over some, to them, very exciting subject, when they were brought before Mr. Protos and cautioned 'to be more peaceful and courteous, and not plow the ground, throw up loose dirt and bellow like bulls of Bashan.'

"While the literary societies were about equal in number of members from each fraternity, there was great rivalry between fraternities as to which fraternity the speaker would be chosen from to deliver an oration in public at one of the churches in the town. One society would furnish the speaker one year and the other literary society the next.

"Delta Psi and Chi Psi furnished the speakers the two years I was there. The rivalry between the two fraternities was very great. The speaker was to come from the Senior class and the members of that literary society would elect him. The two literary societies met in their respective halls upstairs over the college chapel. There was an ante-room to each hall, containing the library of that society. A member of the senior class was always chosen as librarian, and the fraternity to which he belonged would meet in his room (library, for he roomed there as well). Chi Psi had one, and Delta Psi had the other in my day.

"All of the members of that day have now passed over the river except Brother R. H. Gresham (1872), who lives in San Antonio, Tex. He was from my town and class in the old field school before going to college. I have never met him since 1870; but I had several letters from him while serving on the Rio Grande in '94 to '98, after which my regiment left Texas to go to war in the Philippines. My service in the army from 1871 to my retirement from active duty in 1911, removed me from the state, and I lost touch with, and could not keep track of, the old brothers.

"I attended a banquet at Detroit of Alpha Epsilon, in 1888, when I was stationed at Fort Wayne, near there, where I met many brothers, who treated me right royally. Among them, as I now remember, were Senator Thomas Wetherell Palmer (1849), Henry Francis Lyster (1858), Henry M. Duffield (1861), Elliott Truax Slocum (1862), Don M. Dickinson (1867), and many others. It was a most delightful evening, after having been cut off from the family hearth for eighteen years.

"In 1901 I was acting inspector under General Joseph Prentice Sanger (1862), of whom, it is said 'he could strut sitting down.' I did not then know he was a Chi Psi and I fancy he knew as little about me.

"When I was sick in the Letterman General Hospital on one occasion, a gentleman sent some flowers in to me. He was Frederick William Von Schrader (1872). I did not then know what prompted so kindly an act; but met him a few days later, when he told me he had learned through Robert K. Evans (1872) that I was a Chi Psi.

"I never heard any history of Alpha Gamma while I was attending college. There was a man from my town, James Gordon, who attended the University of Mississippi before the Civil War. I learned, or heard that he was a member of Alpha Gamma. I think the party who told me was the Chi Psi who got out the 'Catalogue' in 1893 or 1894, and I think he was then in Cleveland, Ohio. I do not now remember whether Mr. James Gordon is in that 'Catalogue.' In moving about over the country, especially in times of war, as army officers have to do, it is very difficult to keep track of your books and there is no place to store them for any length of time. I wrote to Colonel Gordon, and asked him, or rather, congratulated him on being a Chi Psi, but never received a reply. He is now dead. Did you ever hear anything of his being a Chi Psi?

"Excuse hand writing. I've never learned to typewrite. Am too old (eighty) to begin it.

"I have no photo of my own either in uniform, or civilian dress; but just as I was coming into the house before getting my mail, I saw an itinerant cameraman on the street at the corner of the apartment in which I live. I went out as soon as I read your letter and had him take my picture, which is enclosed."

ALPHA OMICRON, established in April, 1860, at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., by Andrew Jackson Arnold, William M. Boyce, Daniel Beet Duvall, William M. Gwin, James Franklin Mister and Benjamin Franklin Moore. Gamma, William Beattie, O'60; Zeta, Robert Perry Duncan, O'60, and Psi, William Edward Earle, O'60.

In April, 1860, an alpha of Chi Psi was founded at the University of Virginia, and called Alpha Omega. The charter members numbered nine, and four of them, William E. Earle, Robert P. Duncan, William Beattie and J. F. Mister, were loyal and trained brethren, the first three being initiates of Alpha Upsilon, the last named, of Gamma. Their associates, the neophytes, were Brothers B. F. Moore, A. J. Arnold, W. M. Boyce, D. B. Duvall and W. M. Gwin. The alpha was founded pursuant to authority delegated to these Chi Psis of Upsilon, who were pursuing their post-graduate course at the "Athens of the South." The Fraternity records concerning it are meager. Its career was very brief. The war coming on almost immediately, it became inactive before it had been established a year.

The following letter to Alpha Epsilon was written from the University of Virginia on April 11, 1860, by R. P. Duncan, $\Delta\Delta$ of Alpha Omega:

"It devolves upon me both as a duty and an office of pleasure to communicate through you to the alpha you represent the fact of the inauguration and establishment of an alpha at this great seat of learning. Its inception and birth has not indeed been of so sudden and miraculous a nature as that of the far-famed Goddess, full-armed, etc., from the prolific brain of the Hero God, but on the contrary it has been long and tedious while we have been profoundly exercised with emotions of doubt and solicitude as to its success or defeat. And now that it has become a fixed fact in the history of the Fraternity, with the amplitude of its folds emblazoned and radiating with the and spirit of the Mother Queen, I can with emotions of famed pride congratulate yourself, myself and us all upon the successful establishment of an adelphote at this Athens of the old dominion. Our alpha will be known as the Alpha Omega. Our present number is seven with a prospect of more."

In 1868 the alpha was reorganized as Alpha Omicron. This movement was also under the leadership of Chi Psis pursuing post-graduate courses at the university. The most active were William I. Gibson and George Winston of Alpha Gamma, though several members formerly of Beta and Upsilon cast in their lot with them. The second career of the alpha was not much longer than the first. It welcomed into its ranks several fine men who have proven loyal Chi Psis, but it never fully passed the transition stage. Had it done so, Chi Psi might have had a strong alpha in this, one of the leading institutions of the South.

The following letters (from Charlottesville unless otherwise indicated) from the archives of Alpha Epsilon tell some of the brief story:

"April 17, 1869. Your very welcome letter came some time ago and should have been answered before. We are very much pleased to see how readily northern alphas greet us in our weakness and infancy. We have been intending to have a photograph taken and will send you one when we do. Our alpha is still very weak. We have seven members which is enough but we are not fairly fixed up. We are trying however to get the thing settled on a good substantial basis so that we can feel more secure. All of us except Davison and Farrar are old Chi Psis. Gibson and Winston from the alpha at Oxford, Mississippi; Beattie and myself from Upsilon, Furman University, South Carolina; Fitzsimmons from Beta, University of South Carolina.—JAMES P. ALLEN, $\Delta\Delta$ of AO."

alpha being so low in members and consequently in funds. Omicron is only in its third year and has had many difficulties to contend with. It is extremely difficult to get good men here, so many secret societies exist. Of course we prefer going without to taking any other than good men. We have this year the addition of three members, two from University of South Carolina, Alpha Beta, and one from the University of Oxford, Mississippi. Omicron sends congratulations to our Rho, Nu and greetings to Epsilon.—JOHN B. ADGER, JR."

(To A. B. Sager)

"May 23, 1871.—In answer to your request I beg leave to submit the following report of our alpha. This alpha having been discontinued by the War was re-established here in the session of 1868-69 by Messrs. Winston and Gibson from the University of Mississippi. The same session two members were added from Furman University, South Carolina, and three new members elected. In session of '69-'70, five old members left us and three were received from the University of South Carolina and two new members elected. In the session of '70-'71 three members have been added from the University of South Carolina and one from Mississippi and three admitted to membership here, making a total of thirteen now present. While our alpha has not increased in numbers as rapidly as is perhaps desirable, in other respects our organization is all that we could desire and exhibits for the present and promises for the future that harmony of interest and feeling which characterizes our brotherhood. We regret that it is not in our power to send a delegate to the Convention. Nothing would afford us more pleasure but besides other circumstances which militate

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA. (View of Rotunda.) Founded in 1819.

"June 9, 1869.—The alpha at Wofford, South Carolina, has been established. H. E. Partridge, Wofford College, Spartanburg, South Carolina, is the address. We have no brighter prospects than yours for the next session. Four at most will return and perhaps only two.—JAMES P. ALLEN."

"October 21, 1870.—In reply to your letter about Dartmouth I have to say that the question was brought before our alpha and a vote passed favorably to the establishment of a chapter there. It is certainly our desire to be represented at the next convention. We have not heretofore been able to send a delegate, our against that the time at which it is to meet and the distance place it out of our power. We hope, however, that these difficulties will not be presented another session. We will gladly receive any information regarding our annual meeting and assure you that the sympathy and best wishes of our alpha are with all your efforts in the cause of Chi Psi.—J. B. ADGER."

"Winnsboro, South Carolina, September 10, 1871.—I think that motion about no alpha having less than fourteen men is not a good one as it is very hard to get that many good men in one society when there are as many as fifteen different secret societies. We find it very hard (and so do the other secret societies) to get men to join the secret societies at the University of Virginia. Nearly all the best men in college do not belong to any secret society at all. Stewart and I will do all in our power to build up our alpha and will get as many good men as we can.—PRESTON RION."

"December 4, 1875.—Your letter came duly to hand, and I hasten to answer it. I am sorry to find you so poorly informed as to the real condition of O. You are not aware that our alpha at this place has been defunct for two or three years. Last year there were several men here besides myself. And we endeavored to re-establish our alpha at this place but in vain. And this year myself alone am left and if the combined efforts of four men are unable to establish an alpha it would be a serious task for one to attempt. Our alpha has not flourished since Witherspoon the former Chaplain was here. The Alpha (Tau) of which I was an active member before coming to this place, was in an exceedingly flourishing condition and now I feel like a fish out of water—not having work to do in that line, but I left Alpha Tau in good hands, men who are alive to every interest, and I know she will grow and increase so long as they remain in her ranks. I look back on the days spent among her walls with a great deal of pleasure and as amongst my happiest. Among her Brothers all was love. Not a word of discord was ever heard. All was peace and harmony,—but alas such is life. And here I am tossed by many a wave of life's ocean whose sea soon I am to try. Greetings to all the brothers of AE. May her prosperity know no end.—W. C. GILLIAM."

(To J. D. DuShane, E'78)

"December 31st, 1875.—I am sorry to show a despondent spirit in Chi Psi matters for such is not my usual feelings, but I must candidly confess I consider it utterly impossible for me under the existing circumstances to re-establish A. O. I have nothing to start upon, no Constitution, no By-Laws, no good material to work upon, no nothing. And having made a desperate effort last year in her behalf with force superior to mine superadded, I am convinced my feeble efforts alone would be futile.—W. C. GILLIAM."

THE BOYS OF CHI PSI

*Ere Reason put chains upon Passion,
And Chivalry's era had ceased,
We're told it was always the fashion,
For rhymers to read at a feast;
So I pray for your patience and pardon,
If, like those old troubadours, I
Enwreathe, as though flowers from a garden,
A posy of rhymes for Chi Psi.*

*No sentiment surely were sounder
Than from the first blooms that unfold
To twine, in real love, for our founder
A garland of purple and gold;
For, like an unquenchable censer,
The flame of his fame shall not die,
Our dauntless, our dear Philip Spencer,
The first of the boys of Chi Psi.*

*His spirit lives on—who can doubt it?
And may it forever survive!
The spirit that meets death to flout it,
And keeps hero valor alive!
It leaped where the red flames were flaring
But yesterday; none shall deny
A doughty endeavor and daring
Today to the boys of Chi Psi.*

*Fare forth where you will you will find them
The lads of wit, wisdom and worth,
Who'll smile if you chance to remind them
That they are "the salt of the earth";
But they ARE—no one here will deny it,
For each knows the mystical tie
That joins (where's the voice to decry it?)
The ever true boys of Chi Psi.*

*Ah, let us not loosen the tether
That linked in the past days and fond
But loyal and steadfast together
Draw tighter and tighter the bond!
I give you a toast, then, my brothers,
And let us quaff deep, you and I,
To the sons of the dearest of mothers,
To all of the boys of Chi Psi!*

CHI PSI FLAG

After the subject had been discussed, off and on, for thirty years, and numerous designs had been considered and rejected, the 99th Convention adopted the flag on page 20 (in miniature) pictured, to be the only authorized flag of the Chi Psi Fraternity. This final design is by Howard Ketcham, X'25, internationally recognized color expert, and was approved by Albert S. Bard, X'88, who has long made a study of flags in general and designs for a Chi Psi flag in particular. The fields of our flag are alternately purple and gold, arranged as in our pledge button. The Greek letters "Chi" and "Psi" are in gold. The vertical position of the letters takes into account the more likely suspension of the flag vertically or semi-vertically as a banner, rather than the less likely flying of the flag from a staff horizontally. The immediate occasion for its adoption was the prospective use of a Fraternity flag in the procession at our centennial celebration at Union College. Otherwise, its use in public is intended to be limited to display on certain festive days at lodges in those colleges, such as Amherst and Cornell, where such display is traditional with the fraternities.

ARNOLD BUFFUM CHACE, Δ'66, textile manufacturer, and chancellor of Brown University for twenty-five years, died in Providence, R. I., in 1932. He was a remarkable example of the business man who retains an interest in scholarly pursuits, his being Egyptian mathematics.

Chancellor Chace's interest in Egyptian mathematics began in 1910, when he first visited Egypt. A reference in a book of Dr. James H. Breasted to the surprising mathematical accomplishments of the Egyptians stirred his curiosity. A year later he met Dr. Breasted and found out that the source of Dr. Breasted's remarks with regard to Egyptian mathematics "was a battered, almost undecipherable papyrus in the British Museum known as the Rhind Mathematical Papyrus." On seeing the papyrus twelve months later he realized that he must meet the necessity of "either mastering the reading and translation of hieratics and hieroglyphics, of which he knew absolutely nothing, or of trying to base his mathematical research on the translations of men who perhaps might have missed entirely some of the most significant mathematical processes of the ancients."

Chancellor Chace devised a method of reproducing the original papyrus. Obtaining photographic copies of the papyrus, which is a little more than 18 feet long and 13 inches high, he had the original writings reproduced by artists whose work was carefully checked with the original. Mrs. Chace worked with him in the great task of transliteration and translation, as well as in historic and mathematical research, until death cut short her endeavors. Professor Raymond Clare Archibald of the Brown faculty and Dr. Henry P. Manning, former professor of mathematics at Brown, also gave the chancellor valuable aid. The work was recently published in two volumes under the title, "The Rhind Mathematical Papyrus."

ALPHA LAMBDA, established on October 5, 1860, at Brown University, Providence, R. I., by Augustus N. Cunningham, James E. Hall, John Jenckes Holmes, Charles Frederick Ladd, Henry Traphagen and Richard Waterman. Gamma, Henry Martin Duffield, Θ'61, and Zeta, Samuel Phillips Blagden, Θ'62.

In the fall of 1858, Richard Waterman entered Williams College and soon after became a member of Chi Psi. While he was connected with it, Alpha Theta had no more loyal or enthusiastic member. After a year or more, he left Williams and entered Brown. Desiring the associations of the Fraternity to which he was loyal, he had hardly entered upon his new college duties before he broached to some of his friends the idea of establishing an alpha of Chi Psi. The suggestion met with hearty favor. He had not been at Brown more than a year, before a charter was granted to him and his fellow petitioners and late in the fall of 1860, Alpha Lambda was established. Alpha Theta, Brother Waterman's old alpha, stood sponsor, and she sent as her delegates, two members who were most worthy representatives of the Fraternity, Samuel P. Blagden and Henry M. Duffield.

The charter members of the new alpha, including Brother Waterman, numbered only six, but one more name fairly belongs on the honor roll, that of H. B. Whitman, who was one of the petitioners, but whose initiation was necessarily postponed for several months owing to an attack of typhoid fever.

Brown University was then, as it is now, one of the best colleges of medium size in the country, and in every way an inviting field for Chi Psi, though there were many strong rivals and several of them were firmly entrenched; among them were Alpha Delta Phi, Delta Phi, Psi Upsilon, Beta Theta Pi, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Zeta Psi and Theta Delta Chi.

Though the new alpha was weak numerically, it soon won for itself a position in the college world and was disputing with its older rivals the question of leadership. In the Fraternity, it rapidly pushed itself up among the foremost, becoming recognized as one of the brightest of the galaxy of Chi Psi. In all the conventions, Lambda's influence was potent, and in the years after the war some of its members by correspondence played an important part in reviving the Southern alphas that had become dormant.

Early in the seventies Lambda herself became inactive. The question is often asked, Why? Old graduates of that time pleaded guilty and said with a sigh, "Excessive conservatism; nothing was good enough for the boys." It cannot be denied that the standards of membership were most rigidly drawn and elections were few. This tendency accompanied by circumstances that called a large majority of the members of the classes of '68, '69, '70 and '71 from college into active business before graduation, reduced the limited ranks of the alpha and it became dormant. Since then several attempts have been made to induce the Chi Psi Fraternity to revive Lambda, but as yet the time and the men have not come forth, and Lambda still sleeps, ready to be awakened by the correct and well-timed call.

Some light on the history of those latter days is thrown by the following letter written at Providence on October 16, 1869, by H. B. Whitman, Δ'64, to A. B. Sager, Ε'71, at Ann Arbor, Mich.:

"Yours of October 10 received yesterday. Was glad to hear again directly from your alpha. I am sorry indeed to be obliged to write such information about the Brown chapter. We have now only one man in college, who graduates next June, Arthur Lincoln, a son of Professor Lincoln, whom you may have heard of. When I graduated in '64 the chapter was free from debt, had a good lodge, and men enough of the best kind to run the machine without difficulty. The first step backward was a too aristocratic feeling among the active members. It gained ground rapidly—this feeling. Finding themselves recognized within and without the college walls as the best society here, they forgot how they grew into that position. You may have discovered from your own observation that 'blood' and 'brains' don't always go together. Now I would not have a single man taken who had not some good thing about him sufficient to cover all his defects, as with a mantle, but I would take a man for what he is and not for what his father was. These men in college who have a life of work in some honorable profession in view, and are withal genial, jovial, good fellows give character and tone to a fraternity like ours, both in and out of college, and insure its prosperity. Some of the best society men I have ever met and whose love for Chi Psi is greatest and who promised to do more than any others for her future, have not been the sons of senators or millionaires. Our boys thought it would not do to look at a man unless his father was some high public officer, or of great wealth. Then the best man in the chapter, Dick Howland, went to Europe and two of the others went with him. The chapter sunk under these two things more than for any other reason. Yet I must do Lincoln, Shepard and the others the justice to say that since the resignation of President Sears, Brown University has fearfully deteriorated, so much so that some old graduates whom I know would not send their sons there, and very few good men so far as I can learn have come here for the last two years. For myself, I have just returned to this city after an absence of four years. I came back last March. The graduates of my chapter whom I have seen and talked with are determined to set the chapter up again. We will have to do all the 'trotting' ourselves. We are about setting up a room for ourselves which may serve as a central point for the future of our chapter. I hope you at Michigan may take warning by our example. The same principle cause that led us where we are, has ruined the Bowdoin and Williams chapters, if I am correctly informed."

DR. FREDERICK A. VINTON, A'66, "one of the most charitable physicians who ever practiced in Providence, R. I., had many interests outside his profession. He was an accomplished linguist and was greatly interested in music. He was an authority on the New York and Providence stage from the fifties to the seventies, and a large part of his time was devoted to the study of the Civil War. At three o'clock (on the morning of his death in 1929 in his eighty-eighth year) he was occupied in studying Latin, one of his favorite languages, and he went over his French verbs before putting out his light. He was proud of the Chi Psi Fraternity, its growth and progress."

ALPHA CHI, established on November 11, 1864, at Amherst College, Amherst, Mass., by William Belcher, Henry Chase Bradbury, Herbert S. Morley, Henry Varick Pelton and Frank Dana Sargent. Gamma, Henry Allston Beers, Θ'66, and Zeta, Joel Sanford Potter, Θ'66.

ALPHA CHI of the Chi Psi Fraternity was founded on November 11, 1864, through the efforts of William Belcher, Henry Bradbury, Henry C. Pelton, F. D. Sargent and Herbert S. Morley. In the beginning the difficulties which were at the time to be met in starting a new fraternity in Amherst appeared insurmountable, chief of which were the procuring of a charter from the faculty and the obtaining of a suitable hall. The last of these was most easily overcome, for with the erection of a new bank building in Amherst the men secured the refusal of the upper story of the said building. To secure the permission of the faculty appeared somewhat more doubtful, inasmuch as nearly all the faculty were members of rival societies and, moreover, looked with general disfavor upon fraternities. The request, however, was granted without much delay, to the surprise of all. Then it was that the first difficulty loomed on the horizon. The following correspondence shows the trend of events:

(To William J. Maynard, E'65)

"Amherst, July 7, 1864.

"Having received a notice from Mr. Peck of Hamilton College that all communications must be addressed to you, and thinking that you might wish a statement of our circumstances, I take this opportunity of writing.

"It was some time before we could obtain the consent of the faculty and get our other arrangements made, so that we should feel justified in applying for a charter, which accounts for your not hearing from us sooner.

"But now the way is clear and all we wait for is authority from you. In addition to the names annexed to the accompanying petition there are three or four others of our own class whom we hope to get. Our term closes next Thursday, and I suppose it will be impossible to get a charter before that, though if it is any way possible we should like it. If we cannot get it this term it is necessary that we should obtain it during the coming vacation in order that we may commence electioneering as soon as the next class enters.

"If there is any risk about your letter reaching us this term please direct to and oblige

(To William J. Maynard, E'65)

"Amherst, September 27, 1864.

"I write you to tell you how affairs are getting along at Amherst.

"I could not get those who petitioned to you to think of the idea of trying to electioneer freshmen, telling them that we were going not only to have a new chapter of a secret society in Amherst, but a new chapter of a new society. They prefer waiting until your society will give us a grant of a chapter so I hope you will try to hurry up matters so as you soon can give us a definite answer. We are now in a very painful predicament. We have to stand still with our hands in our pockets and see our rival societies pick out just who they want out of the class of '68.

"Their choice I am now very sure will be quite sweeping, for when we first came back one of your want-to-be Chi Psis was walking with an Alpha Delta Phi and was told there was going to be a new society and asked him if he knew anything about it. The next day my chum, an Alpha Delta Phi man, told me just the truth about our affairs, where the hall was going to be, the name of our society, and the very persons who were going to be in it. We cannot tell how it leaked out, but have our suspicions. Now, report makes our society a very formidable thing, our numbers they double, and some of those fellows whom other societies have long been trying to get are going into ours.

LODGE OF ALPHA CHI

"I have wanted our boys to electioneer now, for we cannot do ourselves any hurt, and the college has found out all about our matters, but they don't want to. Will you give us your advice on the subject? We will probably each one of us have to pay out a good deal of money this year for our hall, there are so few of us, and go through other tribulations, but I think this will help to bind us together more, and make us value our society, just as our revolutionary struggle drove the states to each other, and made them glory in hard won independence.

"Yours truly,
"H. C. BRADBURY."

The end came in an unexpected manner. On November 11, 1864, the class was exercising in the gymnasium when three Chi Psis from Williams walked into the gymnasium and inquired for Bradbury. Finding him they were entertained by the Amherst men with their best hospitality and, after the matter had thoroughly been talked over with them, it was decided to initiate the Amherst men at twelve o'clock on that night. The ceremony was performed in Belcher's room in old East College. After the beginning of the next term the men "swung out" with their badges and Alpha Chi was at last fairly established.

In January, 1865, the very thing happened which was needed to build up the new alpha and give it strength at the start. This was the accession of four men from Middlebury College of the class of 1867, Brothers Hibbard, Tilden, Merrill and Smart. This year and the next the alpha was in a flourishing condition and was increasing greatly in strength and position among the older fraternities of the college. During the next three years the alpha fell both in morale and in reputation. In the words of the historian, "the history for the third year is short and inglorious; there were no meetings of the society but enough men could be found almost every evening in the billiard room to hold a meeting."

A decided change in the policy of the alpha was noted in 1869 when efforts were made to get men of character and influence; men willing to work for the society. It was also in this year that the dispute with Theta arose over the ownership of some furniture in possession of Chi, a dispute which was not settled for years and gave rise to no little hard feeling and argument in the two alphas.

Under the influence of the '71 delegation the alpha was built up rapidly and took a high stand in literary work and scholarship. A circumstance which did much to unite the men and get them interested in the affairs of the alpha was the holding of the Fraternity convention in Amherst on June 27 and 28, 1872. Seven alphas were represented at the convention by delegates.

HENRY ALLEN FRINK, Φ'70. The notable career of Brother Frink as a teacher at Hamilton and Amherst, and his immeasurable contributions to Chi Psi at Alpha Phi and Alpha Chi, were through the initiative of Frank E. Whitman, X'85, memorialized in the lodge of Alpha Chi by the stained-glass window, of which the accompanying picture is an illustration in greatly reduced size. "Given Professor Frink's personality and the space for a design containing two nearly life-size figures . . . the desideratum was a design uniting historical precedent, conventional associations connected with both college and fraternity life, and an opportunity for beauties of form and color. It is natural then that the choice should have turned to the Greeks, and the subject should be a philosopher instructing a youth."

On the evening of July 8, 1874, the annual reunion of the alpha was held at which all the undergraduates and many of the alumni were present. The next college year was marked by good and persistent work which gave a steady advance in strength, and the society was firmly established in its position as one of the first fraternities in Amherst. During the following year Alpha Chi took a prominent part in the re-establishing of Alpha Alpha. Upon the receipt of a petition for a charter from Wesleyan and while the matter was under consideration by the Fraternity, a committee of two, composed of A. L. Smith, '76, and William Peet, '78, was sent to Wesleyan in order that they might personally examine into the prospects and probable character of the proposed alpha. This committee returned on April 27, 1876, with so favorable a report that the application was encouraged, with the result that the alpha soon received an authorization to proceed with the re-establishment of Alpha Alpha. As it seemed best to perform the ceremony of initiating the members of the new alpha in the lodge room at Amherst, Brothers Wharff and Perry of Wesleyan were initiated at Amherst on May 23, 1876, and were empowered to reorganize and perpetuate Alpha Alpha of Chi Psi.

The college years of 1877-78 saw a great advance in the social spirit within the alpha and in the character of the meetings. The former was caused by the fact that for the first time nearly all the Fraternity boarded together and thus came into daily contact with one another.

Practically three years from this marked the development of interest in the fund for a lodge. Although the rooms over the National Bank were good, the need of a house was felt, especially at commencement time and during the rushing season. In 1881 the first of the three parcels comprising the present place was purchased for $4,000. It was known as the "Delano place," and had been formerly the site of horsesheds for the village church on the opposite side of Northampton Road, which had become College Hall. On November 17, 1882, the Alpha Chi Corporation of Chi Psi was incorporated as an educational corporation under the laws of Massachusetts, to hold title to and administer the real estate. Ground was broken for the lodge in the autumn of 1883. Robert S. Stephenson, X'80, was the architect. This house was the first fraternity house at Amherst to be specially designed and built to house a chapter of any fraternity. It served for nearly forty years. By the spring of '84 the lodge had been so far completed that many of the commencement activities of the returning Chi Psi alumni were conducted on the porch of the new house.

The year 1884-85 was a marked one in the history of the alpha and might well be considered the beginning of the second period in its history. Returning in the fall the men were disappointed to find that the lodge was but partly finished, although by vigorous work it was put in condition for the fall campaign. With the increased advantages afforded by the house and under the leadership of the strong '85 delegation, a year of prosperity and activity was enjoyed by the alpha. The lodge was opened with the initiation of the '88 delegation, a housewarming and alumni reunion on the night of October 17, 1884.

At the beginning of the winter term in 1885 Henry A. Frink, Φ'70, came to Amherst as professor of rhetoric and public speaking. He remained until his death in 1898 and proved a source of unmeasured help and inspiration to the alpha. The alpha table at Robison's which had been continued for many years was discontinued this year as it seemed that with the change from the old bank building to the lodge it might tend to make the alpha too exclusive. About this time the "Vincent lot" on South Prospect Street, lying directly behind the lodge and originally a part of the Delano property, was added to the place, and a tennis court was laid out on it.

The alpha commenced the twenty-third year of its history in the usual prosperous manner and but for two unfortunate circumstances that year would have passed to its close as among the most satisfactory in the history of the alpha. The year was marred by the expulsion of two members, both of the '89 delegation. The following

AMHERST COLLEGE, AMHERST, MASS. (View of Johnson Chapel, flanked left by South and right by North College.) Amherst, one of the best known of the so-called small New England colleges, is situated in a beautiful amphitheatre of hills in the town of Amherst, Mass.

"It was founded in 1821 but did not receive its charter until 1825. Like most early colleges of New England, it was established with the chief aim of preparing students for the ministry. Although soon after its founding the college began to widen the scope of its activities, it has preserved to the present day the idea of a liberal as opposed to a vocational training. Consistent with this purpose it has never added graduate or professional schools, adhering strictly to a course leading to the degree of A.B., with an ever real, though diminishing, emphasis on the ancient classics."—Encyclopedia Britannica."

Despite the fact of vast progressive steps since its founding, and more specifically the recent addition of several campus buildings, Amherst has made its choice to keep her position among the small colleges. Testifying to this is the present enrollment of about 850 students, with a faculty of 102. There is approximately one instructor for each eight students. Fraternities, thirteen in number, are the centers of college social life. Athletically, Amherst is able to offer a very attractive program in all lines, indoors and out of doors. Indeed, Amherst offers a great deal to the student who is seeking a liberal education in a small college with a long background of tradition and culture.—RALPH S. CAMPBELL, JR., X'40.

STANTON COIT, X'79. This illustration of Brother Coit at the time of graduation from Amherst is from a photograph in the Hitchcock Memorial Collection of Amherst College memorabilia, in the Morgan Library, at Amherst, Mass. (Note the "mutton-chop" whiskers that Matthew Arnold's example had made popular at that time.) In 1936 he returned to America for the fiftieth anniversary of the day of December 4, 1886, when he established what is now the University Settlement in New York City and thereby became the founder of the social settlement movement in the United States.

year was again one of prosperity, but marked by a discussion concerning the social society Theta Nu Epsilon. Permission had been given to members of '86, '88 and '89 to join that society but to no other delegations. Members of other delegations joined the society, however, until over one-third of the alpha were members of the society. After long debate it was decided that no Chi Psi should be allowed to join any secret society except Phi Beta Kappa. Soon afterwards the faculty compelled all men to resign from the society, thus saving the alpha from what might have been a serious break in its unity.

During the last week in February, 1889, the twenty-fifth anniversary of Alpha Chi was celebrated. The celebration consisted of a large evening reception to the friends and alumni, and a banquet to the latter. Many distinguished alumni were present and a large delegation from Theta. The next year the membership in the alpha dropped very low and consequently the expenses upon each man were heavy. The financial difficulties were finally surmounted, however, through the generosity of the New York alumni, in connection with which Brother Whitridge presented the alpha with his interest in the so-called Burt house adjoining the lodge at the rear. This house later became known as Whitridge Hall and was used by the sophomore delegations until the fall of 1913 when it was torn down. This third acquisition completed Chi's ownership of the west half of the block, and, save for a small adjustment of boundary later with Psi U, gave the alpha its present lot.

During the '80's a normal delegation in Alpha Chi was considered to be about six. The alpha was traditionally conservative during this period. All the other fraternities at Amherst took larger delegations. During the '90's Chi's delegations tended to become somewhat larger, but rarely equalled in numbers the delegations in the other fraternities.

During the following decade the alpha was not as prosperous as it should have been. In spite of freshmen delegations averaging about eight members each, its membership became small, yet never so small that the influence of its individual members was not felt in the college. The alpha spirit seems to have been at low ebb at this period and consequently Chi suffered a lowering of its reputation among the faculty and townspeople. However, a change was soon to come. The 1908 delegation of eleven men was strong in quality, and the 1904 initiations marked not only the fortieth anniversary of the alpha and the twentieth anniversary of the lodge, but also the beginning of a restoration of Alpha Chi to her former place as one of the leading factors in Amherst fraternity life. As a result of this revival the lodge itself was refinished during the summer of 1905. At this time the custom was begun of marking the fireplaces in the studies with brass plates bearing the names of previous occupants.

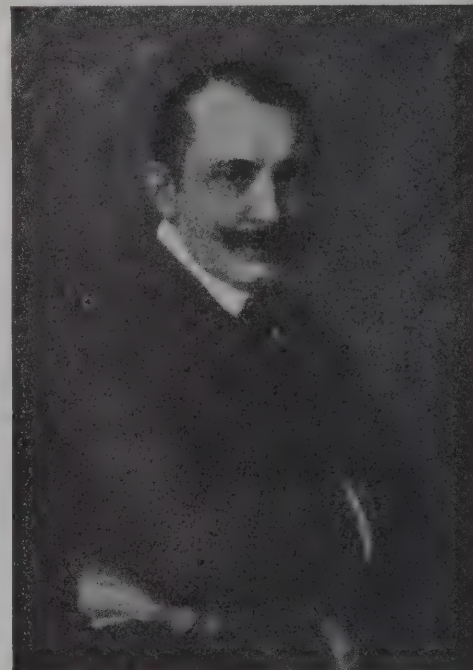

In 1906 Whitridge Hall was renovated. This same year Psi Upsilon came into possession of the Davis property adjoining its old house facing the Common. The entire block thus became about equally divided between Psi Upsilon and Chi Psi. With fifteen men in the lodge and six in Whitridge, the entire alpha of thirty-one, except the freshmen, was now housed on our own place.

The years following were years of work and success, speaking generally. Freshman delegations were fairly uniform, the alpha was well represented in campus activities and scholarship was on the whole creditable. In 1913 Whitridge Hall was torn down, having fallen quite behind the current standards of student accommodation. The 1914 Chi Psi Convention was held under the auspices of Chi in celebration of the alpha's fiftieth anniversary, with headquarters at the Hotel Kimball, Springfield. The 1916 rushing season was disastrous, only four freshmen being secured. Yet Chi's scholarship was never so good. For the year ending June, 1917, the alpha received the award of the recently instituted Treadwell interfraternity cup for scholarship (the first award) in recognition of its place at the head of the thirteen fraternities at Amherst in scholarship during the previous college year, and this success in scholarship was repeated the following year. Following the successes of those two years, however, scholarship fell off and varied from indifferent to bad, the alpha even occupying last and next to the last places at different periods.

Disintegration in fraternity life everywhere followed the War and the entry of the United States into it in April, 1917. In September, 1917, only twelve members of Chi returned to college; eight were pledged for the 1921 delegation; eleven lived in the lodge. Only six brothers were back in September, 1918, to begin the year; seven men were pledged. A hurried initiation was held on September 28 in order to anticipate the expected entry of the student body into the Student Army Training Corps.

The third period of Alpha Chi may be said to date from the new lodge. For many years the old lodge of 1884 had been too small. It had also become outmoded by newer standards of student life and was a handicap in rushing. Beginning with 1912, within a period of eight years, six fraternities had built new, modern houses comporting with the dignity of the college and the New England character of the village. Chi had long talked of a better and more appropriate house, but had never taken the financial steps necessary to prepare for the inevitable expense. In

CLYDE FITCH, X'86. This picture of one of America's best dramatists is from the portrait by William M. Chase at Amherst College. Clyde Fitch died when only forty-eight after an "amazing output of fifty-six plays upon the pomp and vanities of a frivolous world." He contributed toward an "authentic and vivid record of our American life from 1890 to 1910." The author of "Captain Jinks" made stars of Ethel Barrymore, Elsie De Wolfe, Maxine Elliott and others, and such actresses as Julia Marlowe, Mary Mannering and Olga Netherole "turned to 'the man behind the stars.'" It was proverbial that actors never failed in a Fitch part."

Albert Bard, X'88, wrote "Some Recollections of Clyde Fitch in College" for the Amherst Graduates' Quarterly, and a reprint of that article may be found in The Purple and Gold for April, 1915.

1917, following a drive to pay off the mortgage on the old house, a new building fund was begun, but did not get far. The War brought further delay and a dismaying increase in building costs.

In 1919, the War being over, the matter was again taken up with determination. Under the leadership of Frank E. Whitman, '85, the project began to take shape. Brother Stephenson, the architect of the old lodge, was brought in and in collaboration with his partner, H. Herbert Wheeler, he sketched some plans. The idea of enlarging the old lodge was definitely renounced. The Stephenson and Wheeler plans were developed. Brother Stephenson, because of ill health, retired, leaving Mr. Wheeler as architect. His plans are embodied in the house as finally built.

Originally it was planned to begin the demolition of the old lodge in April, 1920, and have the new lodge ready in time for the Amherst College Centennial in June, 1921. But this was impossible. Demolition of the old lodge began June 19, 1922. The new lodge stands upon the site of the old, enlarged.

During the college year that the alpha property was in the hands of the builder, Alpha Chi occupied the "Chi Psi Annex," an old house moved from the enlarged Chi Phi place, when its own new house was built, to a neighboring site. The year opened with only five seniors, eight juniors and four sophomores back. Despite small numbers and the handicap of the temporary quarters, rushing was successful and the alpha pledged a fine freshman delegation of fourteen, including the president of the class. No doubt the impressive skeleton on Northampton Road, taking shape as a house, had its effect. For the college year 1922-23 the alpha received the Thayer Trophy, awarded by Chi Psi each year to the best alpha of the year.

In September, 1923, Alpha Chi returned to take up her abode in an unfinished house. Delays had been most exasperating. The contract called for completion in April, 1923. In fact, substantial completion was not accomplished until the beginning of 1924. But the studies and bedrooms were ready for occupancy and the great hall, though unfinished, was just possible for use in rushing.

On the afternoon of November 3, 1923, following the Amherst-Wesleyan football game, won by Brother McBride for Amherst in the last minute of play, the college and its friends flocked to the new house for inspection and tea. That evening about ninety Chi Psis, alumni and undergraduates from many alphas, sat down to the first banquet in the Great Hall to celebrate the formal dedication of the new lodge. The presentation was by Frank E. Whitman, '85; the memorial mantel in the then unfinished library was dedicated by Albert S. Bard, '88, to the memory of the four Alpha Chi brothers who had died in the War, Frank Janvier McFarland, '12, Merrill Stanton Gaunt, '14, Robert Clinton Hanford, '14, and Daniel Stevenson Smart,

'14; addresses of acceptance were made by Henry V. Pelton, '66 (one of three surviving founders), for the founders; Robert S. Fletcher, '97, for the corporation; Talcott Parsons, '24, for the alpha; and President John W. Anderson, E'90, for the Fraternity. A fuller history of this important occasion for Chi, with descriptions of the house, are contained in The Purple and Gold for February, 1924.

The house cost approximately $100,000. Making due allowance for the difference in price levels, it was not, when built, the most expensive house at Amherst. The original furniture cost about $5,000 more. To finance the house a $40,000 mortgage was necessary. This has been reduced in amount and an effort is making for its complete retirement. The landscaping of the place was completed in the spring of 1926. About the same time the lodge room was decorated.

For the new lodge the alpha corporation adopted a new plan. It furnishes the essential furniture for studies and bedrooms, making therefor a moderate charge to the students. This system saves the undergraduate brothers trouble and expense. They may add what they please in their own rooms. A committee of alumni controls the addition of furniture and decorations in the general rooms.

The first five years following completion of the new lodge were of a somewhat mixed character for Chi. A temporary return to scholarly entertainment was indulged in when, on December 8, 1923, Admiral Sims, U. S. N., addressed a group of about 200 in the Great Hall of the lodge. President Olds and a large body from the faculty and students were present. The average scholarship was for the most part medium or poor. The general atmosphere was somewhat individualistic and lacking in team play. There had been much laxity. Later, however, a healthier condition began asserting itself. In 1927 the alpha numbered thirty-four. No freshmen roomed in the house.

Since 1927 there has been a generally steady increase in the numerical size, and in the prestige of Alpha Chi.

The winter of 1929 found the alpha well represented in sports and on publications. The poor average in scholarship was rising. A good delegation of ten men was pledged in the fall of 1929. Both freshmen and sophomores were active in campus affairs. In September of 1930 the kitchen was opened, and the Great Hall became a dining room. The practice of eating in the lodge has proved a great success. Meeting in a body for meals twenty times a week imbues the brothers with a common sense of the fraternal bond almost as strong as that which the weekly goat meetings accomplish.

The extra-curricular activity of the brothers at this time was unusually great. Almost every member of the Fraternity was a participant in some varsity sport, or an officer in some organization. Throughout the school year 1931-32 this interest in extra-curriculars continued; but unfortunately scholarship remained mediocre. In the spring of 1933, however, the alpha's scholastic average began to rise.

With the fall of 1934 Alpha Chi entered upon a run of extremely successful years, to which there is fortunately no termination in sight. The lodge boasted three representatives on the student governing body, two members of Scarab, the senior honorary society, and the president of the interfraternity council. During the rushing seasons of 1934 and 1935 Alpha Chi pledged fine delegations. Scholarship improved slightly, but the Fraternity, as usual, was outstanding for its athletic and campus activities.

In these years many improvements in house furnishings were carried out. The Great Hall and the hallways were recarpeted, and the music room was refurnished and supplied with a handsome red leather sofa and chairs. Recently new curtains were hung in the Great Hall, and the old ones were put in service in other parts of the lodge. Plans are now being made for the re-upholstering of the sofa and chairs in the library. The expanding Alpha Chi Library has pre-empted all available shelf space, and new shelves must be installed before more book purchases can be made. The alpha is continuing the policy of repainting studies and halls as such becomes necessary. Individual brothers may, with the permission of the executive committee, paint their rooms any color they wish, within reason. The woodwork, however, is considered sacred.

Both the treasurer's and the steward's departments cooperate with the Fraternity Business Management, which is now under the direction of Arthur Davenport '32. This organization has been of greater service to Amherst fraternities which previously had lax financial government than it has been to Alpha Chi, which has always maintained a sound treasury department and bookkeeping system. However, some efficiency has been gained, and some savings have been effected, particularly in the steward's department, because the F. B. M. can purchase certain quantity items at a reduced price. On the whole, Chi's participation in the system has proved successful.

The large mortgage which had to be assumed when the new lodge was built has been reduced to a sum just under $12,000—a result due largely to the untiring efforts of Samuel A. Howard, '17, for many years the corporation's faithful treasurer. The mortgage has now been taken over by the college at a low rate of interest, greatly helping both corporation and active alpha.

In 1936 a well-rounded group of freshmen was pledged, but the next year a centenary delegation of nineteen was pledged from the class of 1941. This was the largest freshman delegation that ever entered the lodge. The fraternity scholastic averages announced by the college in September, 1938, showed Chi in fifth place, a most encouraging improvement. Cooperative and sustained effort in the winter and spring of 1939 won for the brothers the impressive interfraternity trophy of trophies, a large bowl awarded annually to the fraternity which proves the highest point winner in all intramural competition.

As this is written, Alpha Chi's prospects are promising. After a slight slump, scholarship is again improving. The delegation of 1943 has won the plaque given to the fraternity freshman group with the highest scholastic standing at mid-years. Four Chi seniors are members of Phi Beta Kappa. The lodge counted many varsity footballers in its ranks last fall as well as the manager. Well represented in basketball, swimming and fencing, the Fraternity is still very much in the running for the intramural trophy.

A well-rounded group of fifty-six brothers now represents Chi Psi at Amherst. One of the strongest of the fraternities here, Alpha Chi seems certain to enjoy for some time the richest years of its history.

"In the early seventies," in 1930 wrote Frank G. Nelson, X'73, "Alpha Chi was housed on the second floor of the brick building on the south side of Main Street, near the Central Vermont R.R. Station. The entrance to the hall was at the head of the stairs and there were two living rooms facing the street. That's all. The Chi Psi lodge, on Northampton Road, is an immense improvement over those primitive quarters. May it be an inspiration to future brothers to be worthy of their fine heritage."

"I have been asked to contribute my recollections of college life at Amherst in my college days over fifty years ago, particularly with reference to the Chi Psi Fraternity," in the same year wrote Charles Humphrey Fuller, '78.

"The main difference between college life in those days and at the present time is in regard to the physical conditions. In my time the fraternities had no houses for their members. We had quarters over a bank down near the railroad station, which consisted of a lodge room and two sitting and bedrooms, where four of the students could be accommodated. It was not until sometime in the late eighties that our first lodge was built. In those days the freshmen lived in private houses and the upperclassmen lived in the old dormitories. These dormitories were ancient and primitive and furnished none of the modern conveniences of living. There was no running water or baths and no central heating, and each student had to take care of his own rooms so far as they were taken care of at all. I lived on the fourth floor of one of these dormitories and whatever water I had for bathing I had to carry up myself from the college well. The toilets were down in a grove at some distance from the dormitory, and I can assure you that it was cold down there in the winter time. We had no electricity, or even gas. We had student lamps which we took care of ourselves and a stove in each room, for which a small supply of coal was kept in the coal closet adjoining the room. For those of us who came from large cities the living conditions of course were a great change from what we had been accustomed to, but for those who came from rural districts the living conditions were about the same as the students had been accustomed to at home. I think that for the city bred boy of those days the physical hardships and plain surroundings were a good thing. Certainly he appreciated his home comforts all the more when he returned to them. When I compare the living conditions of those days with the present day luxurious houses which have been provided for fraternity boys through the liberality of the alumni, it seems to me that we have perhaps gone too far in the opposite direction. A boy who comes to college from a plain modest home where he has been taught to live without luxury, and then finds himself housed in a beautiful luxurious lodge, where he lives for perhaps three years or more, is liable to look back on his earlier surroundings with discontent and possibly with some contempt. When he gets out of college and has to fend for himself, he will probably be obliged to go back to the plain and modest conditions in which he was brought up. I believe in each fraternity having its own house or lodge, where the boys can live together and enjoy the intimate contacts of fraternity life. But it is a question in my mind whether it would not be wiser to cultivate more simplicity and plainness of living in these houses, rather than for each fraternity to attempt to surpass the others in luxurious buildings and equipment.

"When my sons were going through Amherst some fifteen years ago, I was a frequent visitor there, but since they graduated my visits to the Fraternity have been rare. From what I saw of the boys during the period of my sons' college days it appeared to me that the ideals of gentlemanly living and conduct which we tried to foster more than fifty years ago, were still preserved as the traditional aim of our Fraternity, and from what I have observed of later years less intimately I believe that these ideals are still maintained by the Chi Psis at Amherst."

FOUNDERS OF ALPHA CHI. This photograph was taken in front of the 1884-1923 lodge when they attended the 50th anniversary of their graduation. Left to right: Morley, Sargent, Belcher, Pelton, Bradbury, all X'66. That the entire group was alive and on hand in Amherst for that event in 1916, received wide comment. (Contributed by Frank E. Whitman, X'85.)

ALPHA PSI, established on April 2, 1869, at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., by Samuel Hulette Aby, Benjamin Johnson Hunting, John Elliott More, Edward Nicoll, Edward Llewellyn Parker and (later) William Jones Youngs. Gamma, George Merrill Gage, X'69, and Zeta, Constant Cook Hodgman, X'72.

It is impossible from available data to reconstruct an exact roster of members with all appropriate dates for the hectic period of Alpha Psi's brief activity at Cornell during the months from April 2, 1869, until the early autumn of 1870. During this year and a half immediately following the opening of the university in October 1868, a number of national fraternities appeared on the Cornell campus, but several of the larger ones, Chi Psi in the group, soon became dissatisfied with the disorderly conditions of fraternity life and responsibility in the newly founded institution and requested a suspension of their charters.

(All of these national groups subsequently revived their chapters at Cornell when conditions had passed through the unavoidable social chaos prevailing at the foundation of the new university. Alpha Psi of Chi Psi was reestablished at Cornell on April 24, 1885, and has continued at the university without subsequent hazard to her existence.)

To understand the conditions confronting the fraternities, one must know something of the circumstances of haste and necessarily some confusion that attended the establishment of the new university. This background is given briefly in the following quotation from the Cornell University Register, 1868-69:

"The establishment of Cornell University is due to the combined bounty of the general government and of the Honorable Ezra Cornell. On the second of July, 1862, Congress passed an act granting public lands to the several states and territories which might provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts. Under this act thirty thousand acres for each of its senators and representatives in Congress were appropriated to each state, and under this provision the share of the State of New York was in land scrip representing 990,000 acres. From the first, the State of New York determined to cease the policy of scattering its resources for advanced education, and to concentrate this fund in a single institution worthy of the commonwealth. Acting upon this idea the legislature first conditionally appropriated the whole amount of land scrip to another institution. The stipulations of the contract not having been fulfilled, the two houses, in 1865, following the same policy of concentration, transferred the entire proceeds of the land grant to the Cornell University upon its compliance with certain conditions, of which the most important were, that Ezra Cornell should give to the institution five hundred thousand dollars, and that provision should be made for the education, free of charge for tuition, of one student from each assembly district of the state. At the first meeting of the trustees thereafter, Mr. Cornell complied with the conditions of the charter. He then made the additional gift of over two hundred acres of land, with buildings, as a farm to be attached to the college of agriculture, and of the Jewett collection in geology and palaeontology, which had cost him ten thousand dollars; and he has given, since that time, other gifts to the amount of twenty-five thousand dollars in purchasing the land scrip and locating the lands for the university.

"The institution was obliged, by the terms of the original congressional act, to be in operation at a period not later than the year 1867. But a supplementary act having extended the time, it was formally opened on the seventh of October, 1868, nearly five hundred students applying for admission. Many of the details of its organization were necessarily imperfect, but still nearly all of its departments were in fair working order."

Among the students who matriculated at Cornell on the opening day, October 7, 1868, was Edward Llewellyn Parker, who had been initiated into Chi Psi at Amherst on September 2, 1866. During the winter of '68-'69 Brother Parker drew together a number of very desirable men as a nucleus of a future alpha of Chi Psi, and in a letter of March 25, 1869, Brother Parker refers to "six sophomores and two freshmen" as signers of the original petition directed to the Chi Psi Alpha at Amherst. The necessary authorization was duly received and on April 2, 1869, Brothers George Merrill Gage and Constant

'69 and during the succeeding summer, but several members of the alpha did not return to college at the opening of the year '69-'70. Several additional good men were, however, initiated, and the Cornellian year book of '69-'70 lists fifteen men as members of Chi Psi.

Fraternity conditions at Cornell were, however, in general far from satisfactory and at the beginning of the academic year '70-'71 the charter was voluntarily surrendered, with the conclusion stated by Brother William J. Youngs in a letter of September 25, 1870: "We could not go on as an alpha with credit to ourselves and to the beloved Fraternity at large."

After lying dormant for sixteen years Chi Psi was revived. The re-founder of Alpha Psi was Brother George B. Turner of the class of '73, who had been unceasing in his efforts to reestablish and revive Chi Psi at Cornell.

Beginning in 1886 Chi Psi for a short time occupied two floors of the Sage Block on State Street in downtown Ithaca, but soon a large and commodious house on Buffalo Street was purchased, and the alpha remained there until 1896, in which year, through the assistance of Edward G. Wyckoff, '89, and Clarence F. Wyckoff, '98, Alpha Psi came into possession of the most beautiful and costly fraternity house in the whole country.

LODGE OF ALPHA PSI

Cook Hodgman came to Ithaca from Amherst as the official representatives of the Fraternity, and the first class of Alpha Psi was duly initiated and brought within the mystic circle. The first group initiated at Cornell on April 2, 1869 included, in addition to Brother Parker, Brothers Aby, Hunting, More and Nicoll. Six others were initiated before the end of May.

High hopes of great success were entertained during the closing months of '68-

The new home, previously known as the Fiske-McGraw mansion, commanded a view reaching twenty-five miles northerly over Cayuga Lake and an equal distance southerly through the valley lying between the so-called East and West Hills. Alpha Psi had thus by far the most beautiful location on University Hill.

All the history of the Fiske-McGraw mansion was eventful. Jennie McGraw-Fiske, heiress to a large lumber fortune, built it. Her father was a business associate of Ezra Cornell, and she was the wife of Professor Willard Fiske. Mrs. Fiske, traveling extensively in Europe, left the entire work of the mansion's construction in the hands of the architect, William H. Miller. The building was begun in 1879. Mrs. Fiske died in 1881 in Ithaca before she was able to occupy the house.

The approximate valuation of the structure and site was in the neighborhood of $250,000. The grounds were elegant and beautifully kept. Large trees, formal hedges and flower beds surrounded the splendid mansion, which had for its model a famous French chateau near Blois. It was constructed of Indiana limestone and yellow brick. The central foyer of the mansion was semi-circular and extended to a height of two stories. An ornately carved balcony gave access to the sleeping apartments grouped around it. Mosaic medallions were set on the walls of this foyer by the most skillful workers of Rome and Venice—men brought to this country for the purpose. The woodwork of hall and library was especially noteworthy. It was imported from Italy and fitted in place by the best cabinet makers in this country. A large tower on the southeast side gave the house a distinctly medieval appearance.

On the night of November 14, 1896, the house was formally opened with a reception, the uncompleted rooms having been finished in a manner consistent with the magnificence of the whole structure. At this time there were no other fraternities located in this particular section, though following Alpha Psi's move a number of other fraternities have since secured locations in the neighborhood.

A considerable portion of the funds necessary to complete the new home and to furnish it was generously donated by alumni, while the balance was arranged by a comparatively small mortgage on the property. The mortgage was reduced continuously every year until 1906.

In 1906 the alpha, with the Fraternity at large, was visited by that terrible calamity, the fire. Any history of Alpha Psi would indeed be incomplete did it not give in a brief way the story of the fire, with its acts of bravery and heroism typifying the spirit of brotherly love, that spirit which stands as a keystone in the arch of our fraternal existence and prosperity.

THE CORNELL FIRE OF 1906

It was in the early morning of December 7, 1906, at about three o'clock, when the Chi Psi Lodge was found to be in flames. The thermometer registered six degrees below zero and a bitter wind from the north was blowing at the rate of forty miles an hour. Of all the twenty-six boys aroused from their slumbers to confront the terrible condition in which they were, not one evidenced the slightest cowardice but, on the other hand, each made his first effort one to help his brothers.

On the fourth floor of the house was a large unfinished room, which five of the boys, C. J. Pope, H. A. Uihlein, F. W. Grelle, G. J. Requardt and H. S. DeCamp, occupied as a dormitory. These were aroused from their slumbers by the roar of the fire in the narrow hallway and stairs leading to the fourth floor. At the moment, thinking their only means of escape was my the narrow stairway, they opened the door leading thereto, but this only gave an outlet and draft to the seething flames from below. One by one, they therefore made their way up a small ladder through a trapdoor in the roof. The last to reach the roof was C. J. Pope, who had become terribly burned in waiting his turn to ascend the ladder. Once on the roof, the boys scattered in various directions, following the gutters to the different levels, and some of them reached the ground by means of waterspouts. Grelle, who preceded Pope up the ladder to the roof, half suffocated with smoke and heat, tripped on the frame of a skylight and went crashing through and down into the raging furnace below. Pope, on reaching the roof, took a westerly direction, sliding down the trough beside a gable and then onto a small balcony opposite a room on the third floor, the sleeping room of J. H. McCutcheon and H. M. Curry. On reaching the balcony, Pope immediately discovered the terrible predicament of McCutcheon and Curry. It happened that just the day before the house had been equipped with double windows. The opening from this particular room to the balcony was by French doors, very narrow and containing exceptionally heavy plate glass. These doors, made to open outward, could not be opened by reason of the heavy storm sash just installed. Only one way for the escape of the two men was possible and that was through these doors. The flames had already burned through the door leading into the hallway, and it was therefore a matter of but a few moments before Curry and McCutcheon would perish. With fists clenched, Pope smashed through the glass of window and door, badly cutting his hands and wrists, but he succeeded in making an opening big enough for Curry. While he was being pulled through the opening Curry fell unconscious but was dragged through by Pope and laid on the balcony. Pope then entered the room and found McCutcheon lying on the floor in the far side of the room, terribly burned. Time after time, Pope braved the heat and flames in his attempt to rescue his brother, each time conscious of his own growing weakness and inability to lift the form of the unconscious McCutcheon. He succeeded at last in dragging him to the window and in his struggle to pull him through the narrow door frame, lost his grip and fell back over the balcony rail, striking a glancing blow on the side of the engineering, home economics, and hotel administration. In 1872 provision was made for women students and since then they have comprised 10 to 15 per cent of the student body. Distinctively at Cornell are found many students from foreign lands. The Chinese are especially well represented. Here or there might be seen an occasional Turkish student with a turban. This gives the American student a broad outlook. A fine democratic spirit prevails. Athletics in the fall, winter and spring provide ample outlet for physical energy. There is a wide range of extra-curricular activities. Cornell offers every cultural, educational and social advantage, and is a fine place at which to spend four of the most impressionable years of life.—RICHARD T. MEISTER, Ψ'40.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY, ITHACA, N. Y. (View of Boardman Hall and the Library Tower.) Founded in 1865. Situated in the picturesque Finger Lakes region of New York, Cornell University impresses the visitor first with its unusual setting and grounds. The campus is far above the waters of Lake Cayuga. The city of Ithaca is level with the lake. The university is thus removed from the town, preserving a quiet dignity of its own on the hill. "I would found a university where any student can find instruction in any study," said Ezra Cornell in 1865. His words have come true, for any student can find instruction here in virtually any study he wishes. The schools include arts and sciences, graduate subjects, law, medicine, veterinary medicine, agriculture,

west porch roof, thence falling to the stone terrace surrounding the tower. The shock of the fall aroused him to semi-consciousness and he made his way alone to the Phi Kappa Psi house close by.

Just about this time, Curry, revived in the cold wind, succeeded in dragging McCutcheon the balance of the way through the door and onto the balcony. Curry called for help, and some of the members of Alpha Delta Phi promptly responded, bringing a small ladder. The ladder was not sufficiently long to extend even from the apex of the porch roof to the balcony. The cries of Curry were heard by J. N. Pew, who was endeavoring to make an escape from a neighboring window. Pew climbed around the outside of the building, took a position straddling the apex of the porch, and held the ladder sufficiently high to enable two of the rescuers to ascend it and bring down the apparently lifeless body of McCutcheon. He was gently carried to the Phi Kappa Psi house, where he died five hours later without regaining consciousness.

On the third floor of the house, in the north dormitory, were sleeping A. D. Matthai, J. String, S. Williams, William Matchneer, H. Lamb and P. Williams. These boys, on discovering the utter impossibility of escape through the building by hallway and stair, took to the window as the only available way out. From this window to the ground there was a drop of over forty feet. Their situation was appalling. In a moment the flames would be bursting into the room from the hall. It remained for W. W. Matchneer to lead the way by a perilous journey on a stone course running along the building at this level, having a projection of about three inches. On this ledge, aided by the pressure of the heavy north wind, they were able to make their way some twenty feet to a water spout. By means of this they made their descent to the roof of the north porch and from there they reached the ground in safety.

In another room on this floor were W. W. Goetz and C. R. Andrews. By means of blankets tied together Andrews made his escape and Goetz was to follow. The blankets gave way, however, leaving Goetz completely enveloped in smoke and unseen by those below. In the room immediately under the one occupied by Goetz and Andrews were J. Bowes, Jr., W. C. Dyer, R. R. Powers and G. R. Sailor. Powers attempted to lead his three brothers to safety through the hall and, after becoming severely burned in the face and hands, became persuaded that escape through the hall was impossible. These four immediately rushed back into the room, carefully closed the door, threw mattresses and blankets out of the window and jumped to the ground. They had made their exit just previous to the arrival of Andrews from the room above and immediately undertook the rescue of Goetz imprisoned in that upper room. The raging wind, coupled with the roar of the fire and the falling of walls and timbers, made it almost impossible to make Goetz hear the shouts of those below. They were holding the blankets and yelling for him to jump. The smoke being so thick, he was able to get only momentary glimpses of the little group below who were trying to save his life. His instinct was to jump as the only means left but he was afraid he would land on some of the boys below. Jump, he finally did, and so close to the building in order to prevent a collision with those below that he struck the edge of the blanket. Powers, though his hands were very severely burned, insisted on standing by to hold the blanket.

L. B. Daumont and B. Dwight occupied another room on the third floor directly over the north porch and made their escape by climbing down columns. On the second floor in a front room were J. N. Pew, C. B. Bamberger and R. P. Turner. At the time they were aroused the fire had not cut off their escape through windows.

And now perhaps the most pathetic and tragic incident of the fire! The rapid advance of the fire through the building was beyond description. Hardly had the body of McCutcheon been lowered before the crowd saw "a boy leap out of the building to the ground, his night clothes afire." It was Oliver LeRoy Schmuck, a senior from Hanover, Pa. He roomed with William Holmes Nichols, another senior, from Chicago, in a room on the third floor. The story of Schmuck is that of the highest heroism. Schmuck's efforts to save his roommate led to his own death. This act, fruitless though it was at the time, lives on in the minds of succeeding generations of brothers of Alpha Psi as an example of the highest heroism. It remains as a stirring inspiration for all members of Chi Psi. It is a glorious story of self-sacrifice for a friend on the part of a noble character.

Schmuck and Nichols were on the third floor in a little room on the south side of the house. Schmuck, having first been aroused by the crackling of wood and the roar of the fire, awakened his roommate and commanded him to follow. He realized that it would be futile to open the door into the hall and accordingly, by means of a dormer window to the room,

This is a reproduction of the stained-glass window placed in the lodge of Alpha Psi by the parents of William Holmes Nichols, Ψ'07, in memory of their son and of Oliver Leroy Schmuck, Ψ'07, who died trying to save his roommate. he gained quick and easy access to the big gutter surrounding the house at this level. He made his way some ten or fifteen feet and turned to see if his roommate was coming. To his horror and surprise, Nicholls was not in sight and within the short time since Schmuck had left the window, probably five or six seconds, smoke in volumes was pouring from the window and flames already were licking their way on the upper casement. Without a second's wait, Schmuck crawled back to the window and entered in the vain search for Nicholls. Nicholls, evidently stupefied or, misunderstanding Schmuck's, "follow me," had apparently opened the door into the hall, thinking to make his escape that way. The blast of flame undoubtedly enveloped him in a moment's time. Schmuck stuck to his post, hunting the room over thoroughly in an agonizing endeavor to locate his roommate. Though burned beyond recognition, still he searched until, desperate in agony, he rushed to the window and jumped. Fortunately he landed in a large bush, otherwise he would have been dashed to pieces. Picking himself up and realizing his confusion of mind, he wandered to the back of the house, where the boys were holding the blanket, and made inquiry as to the location of the Phi Kappa Psi house. He then unaided found his way there and walked upstairs unassisted, where he was placed in bed.

Congregated in the Phi Kappa Psi house were the forlorn remainder of the sons of Alpha Psi, struggling with the aid of a number of physicians to administer whatever peace, comfort and aid were possible under the circumstances. Pope was delirious with pain, begging those around him to put him out of his misery. For six long weeks he lingered at the City Hospital between life and death. McCutcheon never regained consciousness and died a few hours later. Schmuck, while more severely burned than any other of those who succeeded in getting out of the building, never lost consciousness until within a brief time before he died. Besides the remarkable heroism he displayed, it was also evident that through it all he kept his head. He must have exercised remarkable nerve to withstand the torture of the flames and yet not inhale flame or smoke. While sitting on the edge of his bed, he said to the writer, "Did Billy get out?" and he was told that he did by way of conveying whatever peace of mind such information might make possible. He then went on in a calm and quiet way to describe his efforts in the attempted rescue of Billy. He insisted upon walking over to the window to take a last look at the burning building, remarking at the time that he realized it would be his last chance, well knowing, as he stated, that he had but a few hours to live.

About seven o'clock on the morning of December 7, three members of the Ithaca volunteer fire department were killed. They were Alfred Slater Robinson, an attorney and a former student of the Cornell College of Law, John Cooper Rumsey, and Estey J. Landon. They were playing a hose stream directly under a gable in the roof on the north side of the house. They well knew their position was dangerous. Without warning the massive stone wall fell toward them. The men were standing on a terrace some twenty-five feet from the building and were almost completely buried under the debris.

Everything possible to relieve pain and suffering was done by the generous and heroic members of Phi Kappa Psi in their home nearby. To this fraternity and to the members of Alpha Delta Phi for their heroic work of rescue, Alpha Psi owes a debt of gratitude which can never be repaid. The injured and dying were carried in ambulances to the Infirmary and City Hospital as quickly as possible. On the death of Schmuck and McCutcheon, the senior class suspended university work and the members marched as an escort of honor to the station when the bodies were forwarded to their respective homes. As the train pulled out, the beautiful strains of "Alma Mater" rang out in the sad tones of five hundred or more voices.

For three days continuously, working night and day, more than forty men were at work searching the ruins for the remains of Nichols and Grelle. Remains of both were found, and each was positively identified. The senior class again suspended work and marched in mournful procession, conveying Nichols to the railroad station, and likewise the freshman class escorted the remains of Grelle.

PRESIDENT THEODORE ROOSEVELT, after the fire of 1906, from the White House sent this autographed photograph to Alpha Psi, inscribed: "In remembrance of the heroism of the men of Chi Psi, as shown on the night of Dec. 7th, 1906; and with all good wishes for the success of the new house." This photograph replaced one destroyed by the fire that the then Governor Roosevelt gave to the alpha when in 1899 he made the lodge his headquarters while visiting Cornell. William J. Youngs, Ψ'72, was then his secretary.

Before the fire, which burned continuously for twenty-four hours, was extinguished, loyal alumni were arriving in Ithaca until the number reached over forty. It was a sad and tragic hour for Alpha Psi, and, of necessity, ways and means for recuperation from the loss of the beautiful home had to be considered immediately. Of those alumni returning to offer succor and assistance, many gave immediately substantial amounts with which to start anew. Since the old home had been insured merely to the extent of the mortgage, we were left bankrupt in funds though not in loyalty and generosity. At the end of two years the alpha again possessed a new home, one in dignity and fitness meeting the highest aspirations of every brother, and again we were in enjoyment of the finest fraternity house at Cornell. Into it have been incorporated on the outside several finely sculptured stone fragments salvaged from the fire. On the inside several mosaic medallions and pieces of finely carved stonework from the old house have been preserved.

Since the completion of the new home, down to the present time, Alpha Psi has maintained her excellent reputation in all ways. It is to be hoped that the same spirit of loyalty will make possible for future years the standards of the past.

There is no Chi Psi, who enters the new lodge, whose eye is not attracted to the lovely stained glass window presented by the parents of Billy Nichols and placed on the first landing of the broad oak staircase. One is likely to pause a moment, regarding its soft colors lighted by the sun from without. The spirit of Oliver LeRoy Schmuck, William Holmes Nichols, James McCutcheon II, and Ferdinand W. Grelle, who perished in the great fire, seems to be close by this point. It is thirty-five years since that terrible night, but here that memory is still poignantly alive.

The shadows lengthen. Out across the lake float the strains of the Cornell evening song from the bells in the library tower. It is a peaceful time, and memories come crowding. The Biblical text runs across the bottom of the window, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friend." No Chi Psi forgets this moment of visual contact with a beautiful reminder of a night so tragic and of heroism so shining.

It was the leadership of Brother Turner that inspired our members to purchase the beautiful Jennie Fiske-McGraw mansion on the famous hilltop overlooking Cayuga Lake for our fraternal home. . . . When the terrible tragedy of 1906 occurred, Judge Turner was the first alumnus to reach Ithaca from his home in Auburn, N. Y. As soon as the dead and injured had been cared for and their families comforted by his kindly ministrations. Judge Turner gave his closest attention, with fine courage, toward rebuilding Alpha Psi in a new memorial lodge on the same spot. It may be truly said that his life was different from the rest of us who are loyal Chi Psis, because the older he grew the more active was his participation in fraternal matters. Only a week before his death he had invited fifty Chi Psis of central New York to sit with him at his birthday celebration, a purple and gold dinner. This picture taken in the fall of 1885 is that of the first initiates at Alpha Psi after her reestablishment in the spring of that year. It is the class of '89. Later Floyd H. Crane and Edward P. York were initiated and John J. Chapin transferred from Williams, completing the '89 delegation of nine men. It was a critical time in Psi's history and everything depended on this first class. It is a matter of record that the class made good and started Alpha Psi on a glorious career. Crouse was of a wealthy family at Utica, and brought the Campbells and Warners and Whites into Chi Psi. Scott was a prominent oil operator of Wellsville and contributed a son to the alpha. York of the firm of York & Sawyer acquired fame as an architect. Wyckoff was a wealthy and generous resident of Ithaca and it was through his munificence that the famous Fiske-McGraw mansion was acquired as a lodge for Alpha Psi. His two sons were Chi Psis at Williams. Beecher retired after long service as treasurer of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Co. His son was Psi '25. Anderson is too well known in Chi Psi to need mention. His work and devotion and extreme generosity to our Fraternity are outstanding. Mashek contributed more than his share as an official of Chi Psi. His son was Psi '28. Is there any delegation of any class of any alpha who approach the record of the class of '89 at Alpha Psi?

CHARLES MATTHEWS MANLY, Ψ '98. In an address in Washington, D. C., in 1928, President Charles L. Lawrence, of the Wright Aeronautical Corp., said: "When we consider that the most popular type of airplane engine of today is almost identical in general detail and arrangement with the one evolved by Charles Manly in 1902, we are lost in admiration for a man who, with no data at his disposal, no examples of similar art on which to roughly base his design, and no workmen capable of making the more difficult parts of his engine, nevertheless, through the processes of a logical mind, the intelligent application of the science of mathematics, and the use of his own surprising mechanical skill, succeeded in constructing an engine developing 52.4 h.p. for a weight of 125 lbs., a weight of 2.2 lbs. per h.p.—which stood up under severe tests, once even going through a full-power non-stop run of ten hours." . . . This engine (now in the Smithsonian Institution) may in fact be characterized as the first 'modern' aircraft engine in the world."

KENNETH ROBERTS, Ψ'08. This picture of Brother Roberts shows him with his wire-haired terrier, "Serena Blandish," at his home in Kennebunk, Me. Charles Collins, EA'03, conductor of the famous "A Line O'Type or Two" column in the Chicago Tribune has this to say:

"The popularity of 'Northwest Passage' has established Kenneth Roberts as an author of the type that modern American literature needs—a first rate historical novelist with a sense of pride of national backgrounds. This epic tale of the French and Indian war has stimulated interest in Roberts' earlier stories, which are now being eagerly read, and the editor of this column has been taking a course in them with profound satisfaction. They are 'Arundel,' dealing with the American invasion of Canada in the first year of the revolution; 'Rabble in Arms,' which has Benedict Arnold as its central figure and the surrender of Burgoyne's army at Saratoga as its climax; 'The Lively Lady,' which takes to the sea with privateersmen in the war of 1812; and 'Captain Caution,' its companion piece and sequel. Roberts is a meticulous historian as well as a vigorous novelist. His books are romances based on original research into documents of the period. The early American spirit, as expressed by the hardy folk of the Maine sea coast, inspires his work."

CARL L. WEAGANT, Ψ'29, accomplished an outstanding feat when he "skipped" his forty-six foot ketch, the Calsark, from Ithaca to Europe. One of his three shipmates was Dudley N. Schoales, Ψ'29. A fourth companion, Edward J. Brumder, Ψ'29, left the Calsark at Gaspé, Canada. Ten days after the young men sailed from Ithaca, on June 20, 1929, they arrived at Montreal. They had gone down Cayuga Lake, the barge canal, Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River. On July 7 they were at Quebec and on July 20 at Sidney, Nova Scotia. "At noon on Monday, July 22, we left North Sydney under power," wrote Brother Weagant to his parents. "At sundown Cape Breton Island sank below the horizon and we sped along under sail, with a fine beam wind."

ALPHA TAU, established on May 20, 1869, at Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C., by James Washington Boyd, James Henry Brice, Frank Allen Gilbert, Lewis Pou Jones, Wellborn Davies Kirkland and Henry Edward Partridge. Gamma, George Howe, B'69, and Zeta, James Henley Thornwell, B'69.

WOFFORD COLLEGE, at Spartanburg, was established in 1854. It is a Phi Beta Kappa college. Its student body for years was limited to 300; at present it has a limit of 500 students. Almost from the founding of the college there were two literary societies, the Calhoun and the Preston. A secret society of some description was in the college before the war. Its badge was a silver crescent. The Kappa Alphas (S) had put in an appearance a short while before the Chi Psis in the same year, 1869, along with a student from Washington and Lee College in Virginia. Their pin was a shield with the Greek letters KA upon it. Alongside of its plainness, the handsome Chi Psi badge caught all eyes as, suddenly, it flashed on the breast of a chosen few. Two visiting students from the University of South Carolina in Columbia, George Howe and James H. Thornwell, created a deal of talk and a deal more of curiosity as they went about among the boys, apparently bent on nothing in particular and everything in general. They stayed in town two or three days, joined in the sports of the students, and seemed as unconcerned about the curiosity their presence begot as if they did not perceive it. But Howe and Thornwell were visiting Wofford for a nobler purpose than merely to join in students' sports. In the witching hour of midnight, using for a light a bull's-eye lantern, in one of the literary societies' halls, they met Boyd, Bryce, Gilbert, Jones, Kirkland and Partridge, and initiated them into the mysteries of Chi Psi.

Thus was founded Alpha Tau. Its establishment soon after the close of the war, at a time when sectionalism ran high, was proof of the strength of the fraternal spirit of Chi Psi and of the perfect unity of feeling between its alphas, as well as evidence of its indomitable energy and power to recover from disaster. No time in the history of our Fraternity was more dark and gloomy than these first few post-bellum years. All the Southern Alphas had been inactive, and though they revived with the reopening of their respective institutions, their prospects were dismal and their field of usefulness exceedingly limited. The condition of the alphas in the North was also weak. Their membership had been depleted and fraternity life was stagnant. Eta's brilliant career was being clouded in the shadows of its approaching dormancy, and within a few years three other alphas suspended active operations. But the founding of Tau showed that Chi Psi was determined to overcome the reverses incident to the war and that assistance was to be given to the loyal band of brethren in the South. Tau from the first was a strong addition to our Southern wing. Founded by Beta, Tau saw Beta become inactive, and again revive and enter upon a career of prosperity, and a second time sink into inactivity; Tau derived much aid from the high renown won for Chi Psi in South Carolina by the alumni of Upsilon, and in return Tau materially added to that prestige by the deeds and records of the loyal sons whose names are on her own roll and who adorn positions of prominence in all walks of life.

Of "Early Days of Tau," George Williams Walker, T'69, in 1888 wrote:

"A Chi Psi badge, glittering with gems, first made its appearance at Wofford College when Dr. Shipp was president, 1869 being the happy date. How vividly I recall those early days of Tau! We had no hall, but stealthily used the halls of the literary societies, first one and then the other. Boys rooming in adjoining rooms necessitated the work being done 'in tenebre dormancy of Beta. The following year the trustees of Furman University brought about the surrender of Upsilon's charter by the abolition of fraternities at that institution. In June, 1906, the trustees of Wofford ruled that no men should be initiated commencing with the collegiate year of September, 1906. The last initiates of Tau were received on June 12, 1906, and the charter was surrendered.

At the end of two years the trustees of Wofford rescinded the rule forbidding fraternities and all of the fraternities which were there in 1906 promptly reentered except Chi Psi and Chi Phi. A number of additional fraternities have since entered and all of them are getting along splendidly. Chi Psi is represented on the board of trustees. There are a dozen or more Chi Psis resident in Spartanburg. It is the hope of the Chi Psis of South Carolina to see Alpha Tau revived and Chi Psi again take her place in the rank of fraternities in South Carolina.

EARLY DAYS OF ALPHA TAU were described in the following letters written in 1930. "Alpha Tau was established in 1869," wrote D. A. DuPre, T'69, professor of geology in Wofford College. "Two young men from the University of South Carolina, Thornwell and Howe, the latter a kinsman of Woodrow Wilson, organized Tau by initiating several seniors and juniors, among them Henry Partridge, L. P. Jones, J. H. Bryce, Tom Smith and later myself. The Civil War left the young men applying for admission into college in financial straits, consequently Tau, when organized, had to meet in the densa.' I see tonight the awesome look put on as we, moving on tip-toe in the starlight, before entering the building, bade the neophyte take off his shoes, and whispered into his ear the necessity of death-like quiet. Again I join in the jolly suppers where oysters, relished with wine and talk and laugh and song, carried us into 'the wee sma hours.' There were fine fellows in those days of 1869-72—Tau's first; but they are gone."

The legislature of South Carolina in 1897 prohibited fraternities in all state supported institutions, which caused the private rooms of its members. It was not until some time later that a lodge was rented on the campus. Prominent among the early initiates were Dr. Charles F. Smith, who has held the chair of Greek at Vanderbilt University and later at the University of Wisconsin, Judge Charles Woods, chief justice of South Carolina, and James H. Kirkland, now chancellor of Vanderbilt University. About twenty-five years ago, a spirit of antagonism developed between the fraternity men and the non-fraternity men, so that at one time the whole college body seemed divided into two camps. There was so much friction that at last the trustees and faculty thought it best to abolish all fraternities and the so-called non-fraternity organizations. For a number of years the absence of fraternities was a great privation to many of our students. After some promises made by them, and at the recommendation of the faculty, the fraternities were reinstated on certain conditions. Since then, peace has prevailed. We hear of no friction whatever. But two that were very prominent before the disestablishment, Chi Psi (to which there was no opposition by trustees or faculty) and Chi Phi, have not been reinstated. I hope that some time their charters may be restored to them."

"About my earliest and most vivid recollection of the Chi Psi Fraternity," wrote C. A. David, T'72, from Greenville, S. C., "has to do with an oyster supper given by our alpha while I was a student at Wofford College. The function was to be staged in a loft over a livery stable, as that was the best we could afford, money at that time in the South being something to be desired and talked about—but never handled. I was appointed a Committee of One to furnish the firewood for the occasion, and the only way this could be obtained was to 'borrow'

an armful from the pile in the yard belonging to the dear old lady with whom I was boarding. I loaded up and started . . . The night was dark and rainy, the lone kerosene lamp on the street for some reason had not been lighted, and as it was winter and there were no lightning bugs, I staggered under my load, which was getting lighter and lighter as the wet sticks would not stay put and were constantly slipping to the ground. But I clung to the ones that were left just that much tighter. Turning into the street leading to the stable, I found myself suddenly walking up an incline that was moving under my feet. Whatever it was, it seemed to be getting up by sections, and I was pitched headlong on the muddy sidewalk and of course my armful of wood was scattered over the upper part of South Carolina. When I got the mud out of my eyes, mouth and ears, I realized that I had walked up the sloping back of a sleeping cow, who was as much surprised as I was. Of course I did not recover a single stick of the wood and arrived at the festal hall with empty arms. I told my story, but the boys never would believe that I had started with the wood. What one gets by being accommodating! After leaving college, I got a position as clerk in what was known as a 'general store' . . . that is one where everything was kept from Muscovado molasses to brass candlesticks, and from grindstones to ribbon and real lace. But what got me was that the Greek and Latin that I had sweated over for four years did not help me a bit in measuring calico or fitting a collar on a mule. Most of my life was passed behind a counter, first as clerk, and then as proprietor. Then I broke into literature. I had a friend who edited a daily paper in my town and he liked fishing almost as much as I did. To make it possible for him to get off for a day or so, he had to have several editorials ahead . . . and there is where I came in; I helped him with his stuff. That friend became the managing editor of the American Magazine (James C. Derieux), and through him I got in that national publication. For several years I have been contributing to it articles on nature and other subjects."

DUPRÉ FAMILY OF ALPHA TAU. Daniel Allston DuPré, T'69, was the son of Dr. Warren DuPré, a member of the first Wofford College faculty. The son graduated at Wofford and did postgraduate work at the University of Edinburgh, after which he entered the faculty of Wofford where he taught for more than fifty years. He married Helen C. Stevens, daughter of Bishop Stevens, of the Protestant Episcopal Church. She always took a deep interest in the welfare of the alpha and no picnic or other function was ever complete without her presence. As a student of Wofford College for four years and as a trustee for twenty-eight years, I always felt honored by her friendship. For half a century, until the death of Professor DuPré, they made their home on the Wofford College campus. Here they ministered richly to the students and to the community. A son, Fayssoux Stevens DuPré, T'02, graduated at Wofford and was in the real estate business in Spartanburg, S. C., at the time of his death in 1939. Mrs. D. A. DuPré's nephew, William DuBose Stevens, T'84, studied at Wofford, became a clergyman of the Reformed Episcopal Church, and was rector at different times of churches in Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Montreal. When the World War came on, he went overseas in Y.M.C.A. work and died over there while in service.

Warren DuPré, T'78, was a brother of Daniel Allston DuPré. He graduated at Wofford, married a daughter of Bishop Duncan of the M. E. Church, South, and was engaged in business in Spartanburg until his death. A son, Wallace Duncan DuPré, T'09, graduated at Wofford received a postgraduate degree from Cornell, where he affiliated with Psi, and engaged in business in Spartanburg.

A sister of Daniel Allston and Warren DuPré, married Wilbur Emory Burnett, T'76. Brother Burnett graduated at Wofford, engaged in the banking business in Spartanburg and, until his death, was president of the oldest and largest bank in Spartanburg. It is of interest to note that Wilbur Burnett's brother, Wiley Baxter Burnett, T'73, was engaged for many years in the practice of law at Athens, Ga., and was one of the leading attorneys of Georgia, being engaged largely in corporation practice. Warren DuPré Burnett, T'04, a son of Wilbur Emory and Gertrude (DuPré) Burnett, graduated at Wofford and engaged in business at Spartanburg. Mary Alice Burnett, daughter of Wilbur Emory and Gertrude (DuPré) Burnett, married William Choice Cleveland, T'05, who engaged in the banking business in Greenville, S. C., being president of Fourth National Bank of that place. He has a brother, Benjamin Cleveland, T'09, who also engaged in business in Greenville.

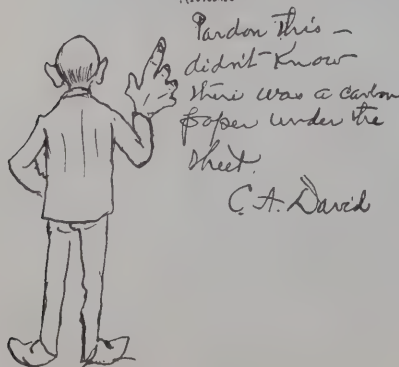

Another sister of Daniel Allston and Warren DuPré married Charles Forster Smith, T'72, who graduated at Wofford, studied at Harvard and Leipsig, from which latter place he received his Ph.D. degree, taught at Vanderbilt University and the University of Wisconsin and then retired to Athens, Greece. He was regarded as one of the great Greek scholars of America. Dr. Smith's nephew, Spencer Morgan Dawkins, T'03, graduated at Wofford and received his LL.B. from Columbia University. He engaged in the practice of law in New York. A cousin, James Dawkins Cromer, T'89 engaged in medical practice in Atlanta, Ga.

William DuPré Holland, T'99, a nephew of Daniel Allston and Warren DuPré, engaged in business in Charlotte, N. C.

While there are only two generations involved, we find fourteen Chi Psis in this family connection—WALTER F. STACKHOUSE, T'95.

David, T'74, entitled, "How To Be Happy on Nothing a Year," and quoted from it: "Happiness is within the reach of us all if we but accept life, go along with it, rejoice in the privilege of being alive; if we but court what we have instead of grieving for what we have lost, or worrying over what we cannot achieve." President McKissick also paid tribute to another Chi Psi, David R. Coker, B'91, saying: "He was highly successful in his business, yet in many contacts with him I never heard him refer to making money for himself. His highest aspiration was to leave South Carolina better than he found it—and he did."

F. A. SONDLEY, T'76. "About six or seven miles east of Asheville, N. C., literally at 'the end of the road,' nestling in the very heart of the big mountains, is the home of Dr. F. A. Sondley, Wofford '76,—an ideal place of tranquil retirement, from which one can look out on the procession of life free of much of its noises and confusions. After a long and distinguished career at the bar, Dr. Sondley, calling his beautiful home appropriately 'Finis Viae,' has chosen this spot for study and quiet thinking, companioned by his books and congenial friends. And what a collection of books he has! They represent the intelligent gathering together of the best that has been thought and said in the world—a collection which only an understanding and devoted lover of books could have made—fine editions, exceptionally complete groupings in special fields, and rich and full collections concerning almost every department of general literature. Housed in a section of his home built for the purpose, three stories of shelves constitute what is among the largest private libraries in the South. A noteworthy achievement, then, in the way of collecting and using the intellectual treasures of the world is thus to the credit of Dr. Sondley, and he accomplished it as a kind of side-line to a busy and crowded life in the profession of the law."—Wofford College Bulletin.

"THE HARDING FAMILY AND HOMESTEAD. The historical article of Alpha Phi in the coming catalogue and history of Chi Psi, should contain mention of the above. Stephen R. Harding, Φ'71, and his brother, Henry W. Harding, Φ'73, lived on a farm adjoining college property. It ran from the bottom of the Oriskany Valley up the ridge of hills, right back of the Elihu Root homestead and our Alpha Phi property, with a splendid old homestead still in good condition. For a number of years before Phi acquired its lodge about 1880, on the same location as at present, the Harding home was the center of the life of Alpha Phi, was used for rushing and pledging, and the doors were always open to the boys. Mary Harding, later Mrs. William W. Dwight, of Detroit, helped her brothers, even in pledging, and added much to the social life. Henry A. Frink, Φ'70, was like a member of the Harding family. The widow of Henry Harding occupies the property.—JOHN P. MONTROSE, Φ'87."

ALPHA NU, established on May 6, 1874, at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn., by William Lincoln Bassett, Edward Crane Chatfield, Pierce Power Furber, Lewis Singer Gillette, William Edwin Leonard and George Edwin Ricker. Gamma: Edward Jason Davenport, M'71, and Zeta, Albee Smith, M'68.

MAY 6, 1874, is a date which is firmly fixed in the minds of all members of the Northwestern Chi Psi Association, for on this day Alpha Nu of Chi Psi came into existence as one of the active alphas of the Chi Psi Fraternity. A local fraternity or club composed of six members existed at Minnesota prior to the establishment of any fraternity. The members of this club had a strong desire to establish a chapter of some national fraternity at Minnesota. It had occurred to some of them to apply to Psi Upsilon for a charter. However in the summer of 1872 E. J. Davenport, M'71, formed the acquaintance of one of the six boys who were members of the local organization at Minnesota. This young man was W. E. Leonard, afterward one of the founders of Alpha Nu. It was in a great degree due to the influence of Brother Davenport that the boys were finally persuaded to petition the Chi Psi Fraternity for a charter. The first petition was not granted as Minnesota was considered as sort of a preparatory school and because especially opposed by Alpha Epsilon of the University of Michigan, Minnesota's nearest neighbor. However, nothing daunted, a second petition was submitted which was accepted in 1874. Brother Davenport was appointed to install the alpha at Minnesota. He chose as his assistant Brother Albee Smith, also of Alpha Mu. On the evening of May 6, 1874, William E. Leonard, Edward C. Chatfield, Pierce P. Furber, Lewis L. Gillette, George E. Ricker and William L. Bassett were ushered into the bonds of Chi Psi. The initiation ceremony was held at the Odd Fellows Hall, and the minutes reported an adjournment to Bond's Restaurant for the initiatory banquet.

During the first few years of her existence in Chi Psi, Alpha Nu was harassed by fear of the disfavor of the college, which did not look favorably on the existence of fraternities at Minnesota. Men joining Chi Psi were liable to expulsion from the institution if their affiliation was made known. For these reasons the members were forced to hold their meetings in out-of-the-way places; some were held in the homes of the various members and some were reported held in the municipal court and some in the Universalist Church. However, the great majority were held in various halls about the city.

In 1875 the first regular meeting place, known as Thompson's Hall, was obtained. It was customary in the early days of the Fraternity to have discussions at the meetings and to read selections from plays and poetry, and debates on national policies were also in vogue. In 1878 the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority came to Minnesota, it being the pioneer sorority in this college. In 1880, Phi Delta Theta was established, in 1881 a local fraternity, Theta

Phi, and in 1882 both Delta Tau Delta and Delta Gamma joined the family of fraternities. The minutes of some of the meetings show the slight change that was coming over the alpha. One record states that "all hands played whist; no other business transacted." How different from a few years before when "Hamlet" and "Macbeth" were being read! The registration at the university had fallen off in the last two years and for a period extending from 1882-86 there was a dark age in the history of Alpha Nu. During this period some of

In 1884, with the coming of Doctor Northrop of Yale to the presidency of the institution, a new standard of scholarship was set. From this time on the institution commenced its real growth and passed from its infancy to its youth. For some time Alpha Nu felt the need of a permanent place in which to hold meetings and a place about which its activities might be centered, and thus was a lodge fund started. In the year 1884 Alpha Nu became the possessor of a lodge, the first fraternity house at Minnesota. The architect, Pierce P. Furber, one of the founders of the alpha, and William L. Bassett, were untiring in their efforts. In the spring of the same year Alpha Nu celebrated her tenth birthday by the annual spring banquet, a custom which was started in 1875 and which has gone unchanged throughout Alpha Nu's history. The same year the junior class of the university issued the first annual ever issued at Minnesota, containing among other things the names of the active members of Alpha Nu as well as those of the other fraternities, a fact which goes to show that fraternities were at this time recognized by the university. Alpha Nu was well represented on the board of this annual, as well as on the Ariel staff, which was the student publication of that time. In 1886 the first Christ-the fraternities began taking men from the sub-freshman class, or men in the preparatory department, but Alpha Nu's policy was to wait until the man became a fully accredited student in the university before pledging him. It was found that men of sober judgment preferred to wait until the completion of their preparatory course before taking such an important step and Alpha Nu was justified in her conservative policy.

mas smoker was held, another event which has become an institution at Nu. It was given for the benefit of the alumni and was reported then a great success.

The same year the campus had extended. A new building, Pillsbury Hall, was built, named in honor of Governor Pillsbury, who had always manifested a keen interest in the university. It was during his term as Governor of the State and president of the board of regents of the university that Alpha Nu was established, and it was partly due to his efforts that fraternity persecution at Minnesota was finally stopped. Phi Kappa Psi and Sigma Chi appeared on the campus this year and were readily welcomed. In 1889 both Delta Kappa Epsilon and Beta Theta Pi were installed. In the spring of 1892 Theta Phi, a local fraternity which had existed since 1881, was granted a chapter of Psi Upsilon. Delta Chi and Theta Delta Chi appeared the same year. The constant accession of new fraternities may be taken as a mark of the growth of the university, which is further typified by the construction of a new library and medical building during 1892.

Toward the close of the college year interest in Minneapolis began to focus itself on the republican national convention, which met in Minneapolis in the early part of the summer of 1892. During this period of strife for political control of the party there were slight lulls, during which Alpha Nu was pleased to welcome as her guests brothers from various other alphas and many of her own alumni who had come back to the city for the festivities.

At the opening of college in the following year the registration reached its maximum up to this time. One thousand two hundred and fifty-six men registered for college work in September.

It was about this time that Alpha Nu started a summer camp at Lake Minnetonka for those of the brothers who were not otherwise detained in the summer months. A beautiful idea, but short-lived.

By September, '97, the total enrollment of the university had jumped to twenty-eight hundred, or more than double that of '92 or '93.

Toward the end of the year and notably at the spring banquet a fund was started to pay off the mortgage on the lodge, which had been running ever since the building in 1884. By the middle of the next college year enough money had been raised to pay it off. Up to this time Alpha Nu does not seem to have felt the competition of any of the other fraternities at Minnesota, but at this period there seems to be a slight trace of it with Delta Kappa Epsilon and Psi Upsilon. With the increased enrollment in the institution came increased efforts in rushing season.

May 6, 1899, Alpha Nu celebrated her twenty-fifth birthday with a grand celebration, the biggest event being the burning of the mortgage which had been liquidated that spring.

For some time there had been much agitation as to the rushing problem. Different plans had been suggested, but none of them seemed to meet with approval until one of them was brought forward which did not allow the rushing of men until after registration time. The next year this was changed to read until classes had assembled for the first time. Through this it was that an interfraternity council was formed at this time, consisting of Chi Psi, Psi Upsilon, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Alpha Delta Phi and Phi Kappa Psi.

Then came a movement for a new lodge as the old one was proving inadequate to the needs of the Fraternity. A fund was started and subscriptions continued until 1902, when work was begun on the new lodge. It was built on the site of the old one and indeed the old lodge formed a part of the new one. The old lodge was turned completely around and a new structure was built facing University Avenue. The new lodge was indeed quite palatial and stood out preeminently among the fraternity houses at Minnesota.

Closely following the building of the new lodge, three new buildings appeared on the campus, a new physics laboratory, a new engineering building and a new mines building.

In the college year of 1904 the university suffered its first loss through fire when the old main building burned to the ground.

The same year the first anti-fraternity bill was introduced in the winter session of the legislature. The bill failed to pass, but it is noteworthy that opposition to fraternities had again assumed headway.

In the school year of 1905 and 1906 Folwell Hall, the new main building, and Shevlin Hall, a building for the girls of the university, were started. Great regret was felt by Alpha Nu to see the new hall rise directly across the street from the lodge, as it was so near that it somewhat obstructed the view from our porch and made our site a little less desirable. In the fall of 1906 Folwell Hall was opened to the student body and classes were from then on held in the new building. It is a magnificent structure and at the present time is the best building on the campus. At the alumni smoker of that year funds were raised to refurnish the lodge, and new silverware and furniture throughout the lodge greeted the eyes of the brothers when they returned in the fall from vacation.

In February, 1908, Alpha Nu entertained the 66th Convention of the Chi Psi Fraternity. During this year Alpha Nu provided a ballroom on the third floor of the lodge, which was indeed quite an addition.

In September, 1910, the president of the university, Dr. Northrop, tendered his resignation and it was with great regret that the resignation was accepted. For twenty-six years he had been the head of the institution and was known the world over in educational lines. As his successor, Professor Vincent, the dean of the college of science, literature and arts of the University of Chicago, was chosen. He took office in the spring of the year and in May, at our banquet, he was the guest of honor.

The event of the fall of 1911 was the inauguration of President Vincent. The ceremonies lasted the better part of the week and Minnesota's campus was literally covered with college dignitaries representing other colleges of the country. Alpha Nu had a very successful open house at the lodge the evening of the procession.

During the year 1912-1913 the membership of the alpha was rather small, but what was lacking in numbers was made up in the intimacy and brotherly spirit which was fostered. During the years of 1913-1914 and 1914-1915 the alpha initiated larger classes than for several years and it was felt certain that the small membership of previous years was now a thing of the past. Nu was again very active in interfraternity relations and in all the important campus affairs.

The latter part of 1914 showed the start of a long sighted building program, when the new Chemistry Building was completed, the new Women's Gymnasium started, as was the new School of Mines Building, which replaced the one that had been destroyed by fire.

1915 and 1916 passed in the alpha with moderate sized membership, with scholarship and finances in fair shape.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. (Northrup Auditorium.) Founded in 1851. Bounded on two sides by the Mississippi River, on another by fraternity houses, and on the other by the fieldhouse and the stadium, is the campus of the University of Minnesota, at Minneapolis. A few miles away, reached by the inter-campus trolley, is the agricultural and forestry campus. With fourteen colleges and professional schools offering both liberal arts courses and special training in almost every field, the University of Minnesota is one of the finest in the country. Among the notable faculty members is Dr. William Luyten, who brought distinction to himself and the department of astronomy by the discovery of a new star. In the aeronautical engineering school is Dr. Jean Piccard, one of the brothers famous for their exploration of the stratosphere. Many students had a thrill helping him prepare for his hop toward the stratosphere from Rochester, Minn. President Lotus Coffman won wide renown for his work in the field of education. Dean Everett Fraser, of the law school, is a nationally known authority on real property. Excellent facilities for education, traditions that make for a spirit of warmth and friendliness on the campus, a diversified sports program, and four years of enjoyable college life—all these await the young man who comes to the University of Minnesota. And when he returns ten years after graduation he will not feel like an unwanted stranger in a different world—there's something here that won't let that happen.—JOHN W. SEEGER, N°38.

Foreshadowing the Great War to come was the mobilization of the National Guard for duty on the Mexican border. Alpha Nu sent seven men as her share to the border patrol, being members of the First Minnesota Field Artillery, commanded by the then Col. George E. Leach, N°98, now Mayor of Minneapolis.

Late in 1916 the new Y.M.C.A. was built on the campus, part of the funds being raised by popular subscription, in which members of the active alpha were particularly active.

During the same year President George E. Vincent tendered his resignation that he might accept the management of the Rockefeller Foundation. He had established himself in the hearts of the whole university and it was with great sorrow that his resignation was accepted. His office was very effectively filled by the selection of Dr. Marion LeRoy Burton, who was inaugurated in 1917.

1917 to 1919 were years that tried the soul of the alpha and the university. War was declared in April, 1917, and immediately the exodus of university men to the colors began.

In 1918 the alpha became practically dormant from lack of men. The university, which had been turned into a military camp, took over the lodge for use as a hospital, remodeled it to more conveniently suit its purposes and finally after cessation of hostilities, returned it to Alpha Nu, changed in some respects, but received gladly nevertheless.

It is impossible to detail the activities of the individuals of Alpha Nu during this period, nor can the development of the university be followed with any accuracy. Certainly, though, the names of eighty-eight men framed in the lodge room of Alpha Nu, bear witness that she did her share, and is indicative of all of Minnesota's sons.

Six members of Alpha Nu did not return—

- Lieut. Col. Frank Chisholm Todd, '91.
- Cadet Paul Monser Currie, '12
- Lieut. Arthur Russell Gaylord, '15
- Ensign Allan LaMott Nichols, '17
- Capt. Lawrence Hill Wadsworth, '18
- Lieut. Henry Parker Bruce, '18

Immediately following the war years, was a period of unrest, the enrollment at the university increased by leaps and bounds, the membership of Nu reflected this and gave the first indication that the alpha was outgrowing its quarters. Tentative plans were laid for the procuring of a new site, but nothing definite was decided on.

In 1920, Minnesota again lost her president, Dr. M. L. Burton accepting a similar position at the University of Michigan. To take Dr. Burton's place, the university authorities selected Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, a noted scholar and educator.

During these years the alpha, while it was increasing in membership, showed a

FOUNDERS OF ALPHA NU. "I have retired from practice in Minneapolis and am living here in Hadley, Mass., with my daughter, and therefore with some leisure on my hands, a new sense to a man who has practiced medicine fifty years," wrote William E. Leonard, N°76, in 1929. "It occurred to me that the accompanying pictures of the six original charter members of Alpha Nu might be of interest because they are as we actually appeared in those days! All are now deceased except W. L. Bassett and myself. The former is living in Los Angeles, in excellent health, as far as I know. In those primitive days of the Fraternity and the then unknown state university, it took us over six months to get the governing council to grant a charter to a struggling college so far west, Ann Arbor being the chief objector, as I remember, because we were an untried and possibly an ultimately rival state institution. Finally, late in April, 1874, we received the coveted document at the hands of William T. Clute, of Union. Edward J. Davenport (Middlebury), Willard R. Gray (Middlebury), William Cheney (Williams) and James Lawrence (Hamilton) were delegated to initiate us. Brothers Davenport and Gray still live to grace the annual gathering of the Northwestern Association."

decline in scholarship and financial standing, which indicated to the alumni association the need of a closer and more active cooperation. This was forthcoming and for the time being at least the standing of the alpha improved.

In 1922 Nu was the host of the Fraternity at its Eight-First Convention. Fourteen years before we had had the pleasure of a similar duty, and it now was our endeavor to provide hospitality and entertainment for this commensurate with our growth. It is worthy of note that on the opening day of the convention, the visiting brothers were greeted for the State by Louis L. Collins, '04, Lieutenant Governor of Minnesota, for the University by Fred B. Snyder, '81, President of the Board of Regents of the University, and for the 1923 saw the continuance of the university building program, but the high light of the year was provided by the alumni and friends of the university, when, after a most intensive campaign, over $2,500,000 was raised by popular subscription for the purpose of building two structures in the nature of memorials; one was to be the Memorial Stadium, capable of seating over fifty thousand people, and dedicated to Minnesota men who gave their lives during the war; the other an auditorium to be erected in memory of Dr. Cyrus Northrup, Minnesota's second president. That the campaign was a success was due in no small measure to the activities of Thomas F. Wallace, '93.

President of the Greater University Corporation, Sewell D. Andrews, '96, treasurer, John S. Pillsbury, '00, George H. Partridge, '79, George K. Belden, '92, members of the executive committee, and some thirty other Chi Psis as division chairmen, team captains and team members. The stadium was completed and put in use in the fall of 1924. Old Northrup Field, which has been the scene of many hard fought football games, was a thing of the past.

In May, 1924, the actives and alumni gathered around a memorable banquet board to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Nu. The history of these fifty years was reviewed at first hand by Edward Jason Davenport, M'71, and Albee Smith, M'68, who actually installed the alpha. William Edward Leonard, '76, one of the founders, and several others brothers of later classes.

The latter part of 1925 and early part of 1926 saw the completion of the beautiful new Administration Building on the campus, as well as the Todd Memorial Hospital, which was built in memory of Frank Chisholm Todd, N'91, by his wife. The Northwestern Chi Psi Association furnished one room in this hospital.

1925 and 1926 were hard years for the alpha, burdened as it was by inadequate housing facilities. Men left college for various reasons, financial standing was weak, scholarship was down to a point where the university put the alpha on probation. Happily the men saw the errors of a lazy life, for the next year, while still low scholastically speaking in the fraternity listings, they had retrieved themselves from probation. Since that time the progress has been steadily upwards. Seemingly the effort had other results, as finances became more sound and the spirit of the alpha became much improved.

A few years before this the inter-fraternity council had radically changed the rushing rules, so that a concentrated rushing took place at the beginning of the second quarter of the school year. For two years the alumni assisted the alpha by giving "rushing" dinners for the alpha and their guests at the Minneapolis Club. These were very effective, but again the inter-fraternity council stepped in and limited all rushing to the campus. Thereafter, the rushing dinners were given at the lodge, with possibly less effect.

1927 was notable in that for the first time the annual meeting and banquet were held outside of the Twin Cities. Accepting a very cordial invitation from alumni in Duluth, activities moved en masse to that town in June where the Duluth Association proved themselves wonderful hosts.

1928 was a normal year, scholarship and finances improving, college activities plentiful, spirit of the actives and alumni good. In the background however was the ever present need of a new lodge. Committees had been appointed, but the spark needed to set the machinery in action, was still lacking.

1929, the year of boom-times and inflated bubbles, saw the successful completion of the drive for funds for the new lodge. With uncanny premonition of the dire October days to come, the alumni obtained cash and pledges sufficient to build the lodge on a sound financial basis.

1930 was the year of the new stone lodge, an adaptation of 17th century Old English architecture. It surpassed all other fraternity houses at Minnesota when it was built and has continued to be the finest of its kind on fraternity row. Alpha Nu was the first fraternity to have its own house (1884), the first fraternity to have a second home (1902), and the first to have a third. For 46 years, 1515 University Avenue, Southeast, has been the home of Minnesota Chi Psis. The members of the building committee were: Thos. F. Wallace, N'93, Chairman; Geo. L. Gillette, N'04, Sewall D. Andrews, N'96, Geo. K. Belden, N'92, James Ford Bell, N'01, M. M. Cochran, N'05, Stewart G. Collins, N'03, C. K. Dickerman, N'00, Frank C. Esterley, Sr., N'96, Austin Fields, N'16, Burton E. Forster, N'20, A. B. Loye, N'97, Sam A. March, N'99, P. D. McMillan, N'03, John S. Pillsbury, N'00, John B.

ALPHA NU LODGE

Sanborn, N'05, Fred B. Snyder, N'81, and James C. Wyman, N'02.

The new lodge was formerly opened at Homecoming in October, 1930. The first official alumni visit was marked by the banquet the night before the Northwestern homecoming game. Several of the national officers were present. This year of 1930 brought the passing on Thanksgiving Day of Edward Jason Davenport, N'78, one of the founders of Alpha Nu.

Of outstanding interest in 1931 was the 50th anniversary of the graduation of Fred B. Snyder, one of Alpha Nu's most loved alumni, a great citizen, and for many years presiding officer of the board of regents of the university. During this year the active alpha fared so well that few problems arose that would make history.

Further honors came to Alpha Nu in 1932 when the United States Senate confirmed the appointment by President Hoover of the Honorable John Bruce Sanborn, N'05, as United States Circuit Judge of the Eighth Circuit. During this year death came to Bert Loye, N'97, long active in the alpha and loved for his influence on the lives of the actives and his activities leading to the completion of the new lodge. Death also came to Judge Stephen Mahoney, N'77, and George H. Partridge, N'79, the one a famous jurist, the other a leading northwest merchant, and both former members of the board of regents of the university. During this year honors came to Alpha Nu in athletics and campus activities.

In 1933 good civic government suffered a severe loss with the resignation of William A. Currie, N'80, who for a generation had been a leading member of the Minneapolis City Council.

In 1934 the world-renowned Gophers started their three-year reign as national football champions.

1935 brought the inauguration of a new system of rushing extending over the first six weeks of the fall quarter. It proved awkward and complicated and was later abandoned. In the autumn fifty actives returned to school. To Sherman Pease, N'36, came the honor of election as a Representative Minnesotan, following his winning of the Rhodes Scholarship.

While many fraternities at Minnesota were closing their doors in 1936 on account of financial and membership weaknesses, Alpha Nu had sixty-three active members, up to this time the largest membership in its history. The plight of many fraternities led the university and the interfraternity council to abolish "Hell Week," and in its place "Fraternity Week" was instituted, marking the coming of a new, dignified and educational fraternity week. This new system, inaugurated at Minnesota, has spread over the country to many other famous universities.

1937-38-39. For the first time, Alpha Nu won the Thayer Trophy. The university began a huge expansion program with the planning or construction of Vincent Hall (business administration), Murphy Hall (journalism), Coffman Memorial Union, Department of Health Building, Women's Dormitory, and the Museum of Minnesota Natural History. The museum was conceived and heavily endowed by James Ford Bell, N'01. Several of these buildings and others reached completion in 1938 and 1939. Prominent in the building of beautiful Coffman Memorial Union were Thomas H. Wallace, N'93, and George K. Belden, N'92. After eighteen years of keen annual rivalry, the traditional Chi Psi-Psi U football game was played for the last time. In 1938 Alpha Nu again won the Thayer Trophy. With the death of Lotus D. Coffman, president of the university for eighteen years, fraternities lost a friend and counselor, and education lost one of its most famous men. In the fall of 1939 the pledges won the university's scholarship trophy. In the same year a modified form of deferred rushing was inaugurated. The new system enables fraternities to conduct rushing in their houses during the fall quarter. The rushee is permitted to drop in at specified open houses without a formal invitation having been extended to him. At commencement in June, 1939, the university conferred upon Fred B. Snyder, N'81, as regent of the university for the past twenty-eight years, the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws.

HERSHAL JAMES MAYALL, N'90. Stranger than fiction is the Chi Psi story of Hershal James Mayall, N'90. Nothing for our records was known of him after he left the University of Minnesota at the close of his second year there in 1888, until in 1939 he wrote to the Central Office from Detroit, said he had gone on the stage in 1888 and was now in radio work with station WXYZ, Detroit. When a "long lost brother" can return to the fold after half a century, who can doubt the truth of, "Once a Chi Psi, Always a Chi Psi"?

ALPHA IOTA, established on November 8, 1878, at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis., by William Gilbert Anderson, George Moor Bascom, Frederick William Fratt, Frederick Nellington Hendrix, Charles Francis Lamb, Edward Joy Paul and Edward Alonzo Small. Gamma, Henry Jules Meyer E'79, and Zeta, Max Zinkeisen, E'80.

IN THE YEAR previous to the founding of Alpha Iota some of the alumni of one of the older fraternities then regarded as being distinctly eastern in its type, had approached Edward Joy Paul, who was then in his junior year at the University of Wisconsin, with a proposal that he, together with others whom he might choose as associates, make application to their fraternity for a charter for a chapter at Madison. Under their guidance and with the strong backing of members who were prominent in official and social life, a carefully chosen group made application which was duly referred to a committee appointed to investigate the local situation. That committee visited Madison and although their report was favorable, the governing body regarded Wisconsin as being too far west for one of their chapters. Thus ended the first phase of the story leading to Chi Psi in Wisconsin.

In the year 1878 only three fraternities were established at the university: Phi Delta Theta (1857), Beta Theta Pi (1873) and Phi Kappa Psi (1875), all of which were prospering and in good standing. There was so plainly room for a fourth that Paul and his associates of the previous year did not disband. Some had left college but others took their places, Paul continuing to be the outstanding leader. It was by reason of a friendship from high school days in Milwaukee with Max Zinkeisen, who was then an undergraduate at the University of Michigan and a member of Alpha Epsilon, that as a result of some conversations between these friends an application was made to Chi Psi for a charter. The convention at its meeting in May of 1878 gave favorable consideration to the application and the duty of installing a new alpha was delegated to Alpha Epsilon. The name of Brother Zinkeisen as one of the initiating officers appears after the list of the charter members. As long as he lived Zinkeisen maintained an active interest in the Fraternity and particularly in this alpha. Paul and Hendrix were initiated at the lodge of Alpha Epsilon on November 4, 1878, and upon their return to Madison they conducted the initiation of the other charter members. Be it remembered, then, that the first initiation and first regular meeting of Alpha Iota was held in Brother Paul's room on the southwest corner of the second floor of what is now South Hall, but was then known as the South Dormitory.

As the alpha grew there was need for more room than was afforded in the fellows' rooms in the dormitory, where chance visitors were always likely to interrupt proceedings. Again it was Alpha Epsilon through one of its alumni that lent a helping hand. Edward Chauncey Hinman,

E'74, was then an assistant United States engineer on the improvement work on the Wisconsin and Fox Rivers. The south end of his district was at Portage, only forty miles away, and he easily made the trip to Madison to see how the young alpha was prospering. He realized the necessity of having a lodge hall. He assisted and contributed towards the project. Chicago alumni were visited and willingly contributed to a fund for the furnishing of the new lodge room. Among the donors most

Soon Iota's growth presented a new problem. The lodge room was too drafty to be kept warm in cold weather and was far from the university end of town. Several meetings were postponed because of the "icy blasts over Lake Mendota permeating the lodge room." The alpha celebrated an anniversary of its founding by having its first alumni banquet at the Park Hotel in November, 1880. The fellows were then considering better meeting quarters and after a comprehensive study of the whole situation it was decided to rent a frame house that had been recently built on the northwesterly corner of Francis and Langdon Streets. The fellows who roomed at the lodge used the furniture they had in their dormitory rooms. The general living rooms absorbed most of the furnishings of the old lodge rooms. This was the first of the fraternity houses at Madison and was regarded and commented upon by the rival societies as being too ostentatious and luxurious. This was a characterization which vanished as others followed in the Chi Psi lead. Consider the luxury of that first lodge in the light of present day standards. The heating was all done by stoves and to each room and to the alpha were allotted coal bins in the pleasantly remembered for his interest and gracious assistance was Melville W. Fuller, H'53, who later became the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. This first lodge hall was on the third floor of the Sherlock Block, since demolished, the site of which was on the flat-iron corner bounded by King, Butler and Doty Streets. There was now added a feeling of establishment in thus having their own place of meeting.

basement. The alpha paid for the heating of the general living room and it was the duty of the officer least in grade to care for that fire. On the ground floor was a double living room divided by folding doors. An alcove bed room opened from one of these rooms and that suite was commonly occupied by three or four fellows, who used the outer room as a study. On meeting nights the two rooms were opened up and a meeting of the alpha filled both rooms. On the same floor was a kitchen with a pump to a cistern, then the only source of water supply. The second floor contained four bed rooms; the third floor was an attic used for trunk storage, and it was there that the first sections of the ceremonial sessions were held, the last part being done in the large living room. There was a formal opening of the lodge at the November banquet of 1881, the dinner being served from one of the neighboring boarding houses. The old house still stands, but it has been so altered by the addition of a third and fourth floor that its first tenants would hardly recognize in it the old lodge.

The new condition of our fraternity life brought with it some problems of its own. The Chi Psi lodge became the meeting place for some of the committees of activities in which fraternity men were especially interested. There was always some visiting going on and, as the house was of light construction, sound penetrated, and study was at times almost impossible. In 1885 "house rules" were adopted, which made the lodge a much more livable place. Meetings were held on Saturday evening but sometimes fellow students, who knew not of Chi Psi ways, would call and they had to be tactfully dismissed. There was another inconvenience on meeting nights in warm weather when every chair in the living room was filled and the windows must be kept closed. To meet the latter condition a lodge room downtown at times was hired for the evening. As a matter of general convenience all the fraternities, by agreement, now hold their meetings on Monday evenings.

In the latter eighties, when a city supply of water had been established in Madison and general living conditions had changed, the alpha looked to the landlord to keep the lodge and improvements up-to-date. There arose a difference of opinion as to who should pay for furnace and upkeep. At the same time the need for a larger house became imperative, for the membership was increasing. It was very desirable that instead of going to various boarding houses in the neighborhood, the fellows should have their meals in the lodge. A lot on Lake Street fronting on Lake Mendota was bought in 1889. There was a strong and energetic group among the actives and with good alumni backing they were able to build a new lodge into which the alpha moved on November 15, 1892. This was a four story frame house. It was the first house in Madison designed as a fraternity house and in its day it well met the requirements.

There is much in the tradition of the earlier days and of this first lodge that was our own that has been lost because as tradition it has never been recorded. Some of it may yet be recovered from those who knew the ancient lore.

There is one memory of more recent years which must not be allowed to fade. How many of the brothers knew Maggie?

Or how many are there, except of the last two or three delegations, who did not receive Maggie's welcome when they came to the lodge? Perhaps some who knew her best never knew her by any name but "Maggie." Her full name was Margaret Rodenschmitt. Maggie first entered into the life of Iota when she was one of the waitresses at the first banquet served in the old rented lodge in 1881. Subsequently, she assisted our regular caretaker in looking after our rooms at that lodge and so it came about that when the new lodge was built on Lake Street, it was Maggie who became the housekeeper. She had a truly wonderful memory for names and faces. Up to the time of her death and after age unfitted her for active service, she still occupied a room reserved for her and by her presence she continued to serve "Maggie's Boys" with affection and devotion until she passed away, May 12, 1936.

Again changed conditions. The growth of the university and an increase in the number of its members caused Alpha Iota to look forward to having a home more in keeping with its position and the worthiness of the Fraternity. The opportunity presented itself in 1910 when, with the cooperation of its alumni association, the alpha acquired a very desirable lot fronting on Lake Mendota at the foot of Henry Street. Much time and thought was given to the study of plans for a new lodge, which it is hoped will meet all the requirements for many years to come. There were unavoidable delays in construction with the result that after having sold its old lodge building the fellows, on returning to college in the autumn of 1912, were without a home. Some found temporary living quarters, some were guests of Madison friends, and some, in a nice interfraternity spirit, were invited to live at the houses of other fraternities. It was not until December of 1912 that the active members were able to take possession of their new home.

One of the most noteworthy accomplishments in the educational world during the last sixty or seventy years, has resulted from the demand by the people of the Middle West for higher education and for a practical type of college training. The western state universities have made a remarkable growth and by no means the least of these has been the University of Wisconsin. This is of interest to Chi Psis and particularly those of Iota, for it was during this time, when the university was changing from a preparatory school to a university, that Iota was established.

Before Wisconsin was admitted as one of the states, the legislature under the first territorial governor, Henry Dodge, passed an act (1836) for the creation of an institution of higher learning and petitioned Congress for an appropriation of twenty thousand dollars for that purpose. No action was taken upon the petition by the UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN, MADISON, WIS. (Bascom Hall, atop Bascom Hill and overlooking Madison and Lake Mendota.) Founded in 1848. Unique among large universities the country over, is the location of the University of Wisconsin, on a large inland lake, only a few blocks from downtown Madison, and yet with a widespread hilltop campus to itself. Any Wisconsin man will challenge anyone from any other school to match the view from Observatory Hill. There are five separate colleges in the university—liberal arts, engineering, law, medicine, and agriculture. In all the teaching and research activities policies are liberal and progressive. Among the well known men on the faculty are John L. Gillin, whose studies in criminology have changed the attitude toward and treatment of criminals; Richard McCaffery, metallurgist, who revolutionized the process of refining iron ore; Harry Steenbock, famed discoverer of vitamin "D" irradiation; Alexander Vasilev, historian of the little known Byzantine empire; Dean William S. Middleton, of the medical school, whose curiosity about the mystery of blood chemistry has paid dividends to the sick in all parts of the world; Dean Lloyd K. Garrison, of the law school, who served on the national labor relations board, and many others. President Clarence H. Dykstra made his mark as city manager of Cincinnati, Ohio, before he came to succeed Glenn Frank.

Added to these educational advantages, are opportunities for social life, athletics, and other extracurricular activities in full measure.—C. H. WINKLER, I'38.

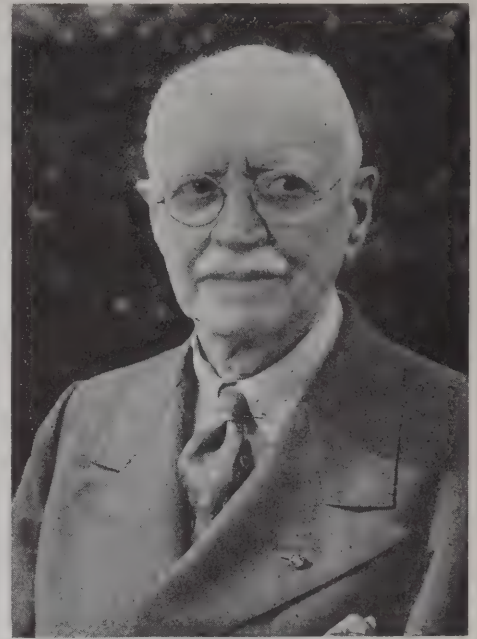

national legislature. In the second session a further act was passed naming the projected institution the "University of the Territory of Wisconsin, and fixing its site at the City of Four Lakes," as Madison was then called. It was not until 1848 when Wisconsin had been admitted to statehood that the aspirations of the people received recognition in an act establishing the University of Wisconsin and providing for its control by a board of regents. In the autumn of that year the regents met, established a preparatory school, engaged one teacher, John W. Sterling, who later became vice-chancellor, and took steps for the purchase of "College Hill," which we now know as the University Hill. It was not until 1851 that the first building, North Hall, was erected. South Hall was built in 1855 and the Main Building, now known as Bascom Hall, was completed in 1860. These are the three dominant buildings constituting the old university campus.

The problems of the early presidents, Lathrop and Barnard, Vice-Chancellor Sterling, and President Chadbourne, were many and various, but there was one common to all administrations for which there was no immediate solution. How could the schools of the state be brought up to a standard that would produce students fitted to take advantage of college training? Very much of the work of the early administrations was directed to the improvement of the general school system.

It was decreed by the legislature that the university was to educate both sexes but at that time coeducation in colleges was a new and untried theory and, although the West was receptive to the idea, still the problem must be approached with some delicacy, as witness this from the catalogue of 1872:

"III. Female College. Courses similar to the College of Arts, but owing to their probable needs, arising from peculiarity of vocation, several studies are made elective * * *. Ladies and gentlemen recite together; but in all departments of the Institution, ladies are allowed separate instruction when preferred."

The name of John Bascom, LL.D., as president appears in the catalogue of 1874-75. At the time of his appointment, he was professor of rhetoric at Williams College. He found the university a small school burdened with the preparatory department. After thirteen years of service he resigned and left as a monument to his work a thoroughly organized and efficient university. It is interesting to compare the budget and size of the university of today with what it was in 1878 when Iota was established. The catalogue of that year, 1878-79, lists beside the president, who received a salary of $3,500.00 a year, twelve professors, whose salaries ranged from $500.00 to $2,200.00; seven professors of law, most of whom were practicing lawyers in Madison; eight instructors; a preceptress for Ladies Hall, and an instructress in elocution. The total number of students in regular courses was 202, but there were 78 special students; sub freshmen numbering 120 were being carried through their preparatory course before abolition of that department. The college of law numbered 48, but these were hardly regarded as of the student body for their classrooms were at the Capitol Building and they had nothing in common with "the Hill." The total enrollment was 448. By 1882 the preparatory classes had been eliminated, except for a preparatory class in Greek numbering five. This reduced the general enrollment of that year to 367. In the following four years the number about doubled and except for an occasional few years, as in war time, the number of students has steadily increased, until today it is upward of twelve thousand. Another comparison which is interesting is to place against the large income of today, the expenditures in the year Iota was founded. In that year the total current expenditures, omitting the cost of construction of a new building, was in round numbers $70,500.00, of which there was paid to the instructional force $40,200.00.

To one who has known the alpha almost from its earliest years, there is a great temptation to record the names of some of those whose loyalty and devotion to the Fraternity enabled them to accomplish what others had thought impossible. What limit could be placed if one were to yield to that impulse? There are so many who have given, and are still giving to the alpha good service.

The Fiftieth Anniversary of Iota was celebrated on November 11, 1928. A bronze memorial tablet was placed in the stone wall of the lodge in honor of those who had lost their lives in the World War. At the banquet there were one hundred and twenty-five present, including two of the alpha's founders. The celebration was concluded by the presentation of an oil portrait of "Maggie," Iota's adopted mother.

In all fraternities there come times when the active members fail to live up to the best traditions of their order. Then there usually follow years when the alumni take a hand at regulation and under their influence a stronger leadership is developed. During the Great War fraternities in general suffered from diminished numbers and the lack of upper-classman control. At the outbreak of the war, Iota lost two-thirds of its active strength and doubtless chapters in all fraternities saw their membership dwindle. When finally the service men had finished their task and some had returned to college, they found new and untried men were the upper-classmen. The prohibition amendment had just gone into effect and brought with it a general disregard for law enforcement. The drink problem was common to all fraternities and it was years before the old rule of responsibility and a good morale could be rebuilt. Without apology let it be admitted that there have been times when Iota was not fully up to the Chi Psi standards in scholarship and fraternal interest. On the other hand, there have been very many more years when the ideals of student life were very high. Much depends upon the personnel of the governing officers. In the past alumni contacts have been of great importance. Recently there has been a vitalizing of interest on the part of the younger alumni which will result in a more consistently high grade of leadership.

In September of 1940 the 99th Convention was held in the Alpha Iota Lodge, with Howard Greene, I'86, presiding as No. 6. At the convention banquet Brother Greene received the Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

HORACE K. TENNEY, I'81. *Horace Tenney is dead, and the small treasury of our friendships is depleted. Others may speak of his professional eminence. To us he was an artist, a man who managed life with grace and dignity. Others can tell of his distinction in the law and affairs. In our memory he will remain as a master workman, a carpenter, to whose slender fingers chisel and saw responded like a violin to a Kreisler. A gentle man, he always suggested a blade of Damascus, fragile to the eye, but tempered and tough. It was oddly fitting that one of his many interests was the history of armor. Others may recall him in court, the successful pleader of great causes. With us, the picture that will linger is set against the green of his beloved northern Wisconsin—the great lawyer, with the sweet-smelling pine curling off under his plane, listening to the talk of small children. His was a soul that never aged: to the end, he was Peter Pan, a man whom Barrie would have loved. The best of his estate is not subject to probate. It is the golden testimony of his children that in all their years together no harsh word ever fell from his lips. It is not given to man to invest his allotted span to better purpose. ALPHA RHO, established on March 14, 1879, at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., by Isaac William Gowen, DeWitt Gilbert Rockefeller, John H. Scarlet, Francis Augustus Wilber, William Alexander Dumont, Egbert LeFevre, Clarence Mather Perlee, George Washington Scarlet, Edwin Francis See, Jesse Wendell Brooks, Marion Townsend Conklin, Frederick Wagoner Bennett, James Avery Norris and James Powers Philip. Gamma, Alfred Dewitt Mason, X'77. Zeta, Henry Bishop Rockwell, Θ'78, and Rufus Henry Halsey, Θ'77.

In 1755, Theodore Frelinghuysen, a lean, spare clergyman from an up-state New York parish, rode on horseback through the Hudson Valley rallying fellow ministers to a meeting in New York City. Out of the discussion at that conclave grew the dream of a college in the colonies which would prepare young men to carry on the work of the Dutch Reformed Church, and eleven years later—on November 10, 1766—Queen's College was established by royal charter granted in the name of George III. During the present academic year Rutgers University is observing the 175th anniversary of its founding as the eighth of the colonial colleges, and the brothers of Alpha Rho, members of the eighth among all Greek letter societies and also the eighth on the Rutgers Campus, may feel a particular kinship to this fine old college.

The story of Rutgers is filled with romance, high adventure, and a cheerful attitude toward adversity. The college's first classes were held at "The Sign of the Red Lion," a tavern and ale house, and early in 1771 there appeared in a New York newspaper the institution's first advertisement which proclaimed that "Any parents or Guardians who may be inclined to send their Children to this Institution may depend upon having them instructed with the greatest Care and Diligence in all the Arts and Sciences usually taught in public Schools; the strictest Regard will be paid to their moral Conduct, (in a word) to every Thing which may tend to render them a Pleasure to their Friends, and an Ornament to their Species." With the Revolution lean years fell upon the college; its funds were dissipated, its tutors joined the army, and its students ran off to take pot shots at the British. Those who remained behind found college life in a precarious state; the British occupied New Brunswick and the college was forced to move to Millstone and later to North Branch. For a time it seemed as though the institution must close its doors forever; there was talk, and even some preliminary action toward a merger with Princeton; but in the end the college fathers decided to retain their own identity, and through the benefactions of Colonel Henry Rutgers in 1825 the name was changed to Rutgers College and a revival was instituted which has since persisted.

When one speaks of Rutgers one thinks of her fine tradition—of an institution ten years older than the Declaration of Independence, of an institution which in 1869 met Princeton in America's first game of intercollegiate football and won 6 goals to 4. One thinks of a fine faculty built up from generation to generation, of a great and growing library, of classrooms and lecture halls and evening lights blinking through the trees. And one thinks of fraternity life in a sense that is real and vital, for on a campus where there is a mellowness and veneration, the basic tradition is first and always that of gracious living.

On visiting Rutgers the eye will be caught by the beauty of Old Queen's erected in 1809 and the center of campus life; but it will be attracted, too, by the sight of Chi Psi Lodge. Colonial dignity and simplicity and comfort give the building its appealing charm. Coming up College Avenue when the leaves are thick underfoot, when the snow clings to the trees or when the first burst of springtime is in the air, the lodge sheds a warm and comfortable glow over one's heart. One hopes—one can know—that great dreams are ists, and a little group of these strong characters—of great worth and outstanding ability—decided that they wanted some bond other than that offered by the fraternities then on the campus. Alpha Theta thus was born. With fourteen members, eleven of whom were members of Phi Beta Kappa, a movement toward national affiliation was begun, and after considering and rejecting two societies, they were led to an interest in Chi Psi through the presence in the Theological Seminary of A. Dewitt Mason, X'77. Alpha Theta's petition for a charter was granted in 1879, and on March 14 of that year Alpha Rho was born when nine of the fourteen men were initiated in the lodge room of Alpha Theta, 19 Peace Street at the foot of Church Street, through Brothers Mason, X'77, Rockwell, Θ'78, and Halsey, Θ'77. The five remaining charter members of Alpha Rho became Chi Psis a week later in the lodge rooms of the Masonic Club when Brothers Silvernail, '74, Mills, '77, and Parsons, '78, of Phi; Dike, '78, Fuller, '78, and Mason, '77, of Chi; and Spann, '76, of Tau all attended to aid in starting Alpha Rho on her career.

Alpha Rho exerted an early leadership on the campus by establishing the first fraternity house at Rutgers, but it is doubtful if this goal would have been so quickly achieved without the formation in 1883 of an alumni association of which Brother made here. One feels that youth and America are stronger for the life within these walls of white brick. One thinks of other traditions—the traditions of Alpha Rho—for behind its story also there is romance, high adventure and a cheerful attitude toward adversity.

Fraternity life at Rutgers began as early as 1845 and by the late 70's seven national fraternities occupied the field. Even in those days there were rugged individual-

Wilber, '79, was the first president, and which in 1887 was incorporated as "The Alpha Rho Alumni Association of Chi Psi." For the sacrifices of these first young alumni the alpha must always be grateful, since it was largely through their wisdom and effort that on September 7, 1887, a lodge was purchased at 114 College Avenue, a location which in those days was far from the center of college life. In a building which formerly had been a girls' school, Alpha Rho began its long tenancy; and today, after several remodelings, this house is still the home of Chi Psi at Rutgers while, with the growth of the university, the lodge has come to occupy an enviable position in the very heart of all campus activity. Directly across College Avenue is Bishop Campus with its beautifully shaded walks, Bishop House where history classes are taught, and a dormitory quadrangle. One block west is Old College Field, scene of the Rutgers-Princeton game in '69 and now the site of a magnificent gymnasium built in 1931, while within three blocks to the east are the buildings of the main campuses.

During the sixty years of Alpha Rho—years in which Rutgers has grown from a small private college to a large state university—many changes have come into the life of the Fraternity. In the old days initiations were informal and might occur after any Tuesday night meeting. The ceremonies would be topped off with a general exodus to "Mammy Bradley's," "Bates" or "Wikoff's" for ice cream and cake, and the chances were always good that some other fraternity group would be embarked upon a similar mission. Later, initiations were held a month or so after college opened and an effort was made to initiate the freshmen as a group while the alumni attended the ceremonies and lingered at the lodge for a somewhat formal dinner. Today the initiations come after mid-year examinations have proved that the pledged freshmen are of college aptitude, and the ceremony, well attended by alumni, is an occasion for formal dress.

Over a span of six decades there are initiations which hold a special place in memory. A notable moment came during the World War when the lodge was used for a barracks and the brothers held their meeting in Brother Watson's office at 43 Paterson Street. The war had brought grave repercussions to fraternity life, and whether or not Alpha Rho would survive was sometimes a moot question. The initiation that evening was held against this grim background, while brothers who stood in uniform brought sober thoughts into the minds of the older men. For these reasons there seemed a special solemnity in the ceremonies, a greater depth to the Bonds, a sense of fellowship which in war or in peace could give to the hearts of men so joined a strength that would never permit of spiritual compromise. Again, there was the initiation in the fall of 1926 when Brother Thomas, M'90, then recently appointed president of Rutgers, was present with his two sons. This ceremony was held in the new lodge then not quite completed.

The golden jubilee of Alpha Rho brought to the lodge on March 16, 1929, the largest and most enthusiastic gathering in its history! Before the active brothers were awake for breakfast, one of the founders, Brother Norris, '82, appeared at the lodge, and his eagerness was symptomatic of the spirit that pervaded the celebration. Back for the anniversary came four of the then six surviving founders—Brothers Scarlet, '79, Dumont, '80, Conklin, '81, and Norris, '82—and they were soon the center of attraction. With the spirit of festivity there was still a sense of reverence, and at sundown the brothers were called into the lounge for a short memorial service conducted by Brother Talmage, '86, in honor of two brothers who had died during the year just past (Gowen, '79, and Boocock, '85). Every man present was touched by the ceremony, for Brother Gowen was the first member of Alpha Theta to have been initiated into Alpha Rho of Chi Psi, and he was known and loved by a large number of the alumni of the alpha. The annual memorial service was instituted June 13, 1921, by Brother Talmage and has become an institution at Alpha Rho.

Since the reunion dinner was too large to be served in the lodge, the group adjourned to the nearby building of the Second Reformed Church where one hundred and twenty brothers took part in the banquet. Brother Blunt, '29, presided as toastmaster, and Brother Williamson, '29, welcomed the guests. Brother Thomas, M'90, mixed recollections of his college days with a report on present-day Rutgers, and Founders Scarlet, '79, and Dumont, '80, spoke of the beginnings of Alpha Rho. Others who spoke were Brothers Houghtaling, '03, Watson, '07, Piper, '05, the Fraternity Auditor, who told why he had placed Alpha Rho on his honor roll; Norris, '82, Conklin, '81, Bevier, '82, Florence, '85, and Bard, X'88, a past president of the national Fraternity and always a helpful friend of Rho. It was midnight when the golden jubilee ended, and it was a proud moment which will always linger in the heart of every man who attended.

With increasing numbers of Rho alumni there has been need for regularized means to tell Fraternity news of the day. At first letters were written twice a year by the actives to each of the graduates and these personal messages formed a real and lasting bond between undergraduates and alumni. Next came small printed circular letters, more formal in tone, more expanded in subject. Finally, launched on October 15, 1925, by Brothers Galbraith, '24, and Wharton, '25, came the happy periodical voyages of Rhoboat, a publication of which Alpha Rho has justifiably been proud.

The manner in which times and conditions in the fraternity world have altered may be illustrated by contrasting two meetings of Alpha Rho, one in the '90's, the other in 1940. At the earlier meeting perhaps a dozen of the alumni gathered at commencement and if each was flattered in being greeted by name it was only because the freshmen had been made to study the pictures of Rho men by classes for this worthy purpose. Decked in ribbons of purple and gold to distinguish them from members of other fraternity groups, the brothers strolled the campus and fellowshipped until the wee small hours, while the hardier souls among the younger alumni ended the reunion with a daybreak swim in the canal. At a meeting of Alpha Rho Alumni Association early in 1940 there were more than one hundred alumni present, the dinner was served with greater dignity and the speakers were heard with more appropriate respect. Highlights of the gathering were an address by Brother Charles Wilber, who showed the baby's silver mug that had been presented to him soon after his birth as the first child of a member of the young alpha; the donation to the lodge of a picture from a sister of Brother Sharp, '24, a beloved member of the alpha who had died and in whose memory the gift was made; and announcement of the establishment by the delegation of 1931 of the "Strieder Memorial Fund," the first tangible step toward permanent endow-

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY, NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (View of "Old Queens Campus.") Founded in 1766. One of the nine original colonial colleges, Rutgers University was founded as Queen's College in 1766 by charter granted by King George III. In 1799 years this institution has built up a glorious record of service and achievement. Today the university comprises: the college of arts and sciences (with ten different curricula), the college of engineering, the school of chemistry, the department of ceramics, the college of agriculture, the summer session, New Jersey College for Women, New Jersey College of Pharmacy, the school of education, the university extension division, the university college (night courses), and Rutgers Preparatory School. In the regular college for men Rutgers has an enrollment of some 1,300. Athletics and other extra-curricular activities are abundantly provided for. Twenty fraternities and clubs are centers of social life and important in upholding tradition. The original Queen's campus is still the heart of the university. Owing to great age Rutgers has many old buildings, as well as fine new structures completed in recent years. Thus the university has a personality of honorable tradition as well as far-sighted modernity. With this ancient tradition built upon many years of worthy endeavor, and with a present of constant growth and enlargement, the college "On the Banks of the Old Raritan" has a great deal to be proud of and much to look forward to.—DANIEL S. KAUFHOLD, P'39.

ment for Rho, which it is hoped may grow and lend future power to better serve young Chi Psi at Rutgers.

Brother Francis Wilber, a founder, gave Rho its first legacies when his two sons, Charles and Ned, were initiated. Since then more than twenty sons of alumni have become members of Rho and the roots of the alpha promise to spread and so insure a continuing growth! The greatest Alpha Rho family has been that of Brother Thomson, '84, the first member initiated after the founders, who has had three sons in the Bonds. Old Timers in Alpha Rho will recall how the parsonage of the Middlebush Reformed Church became a notable center of Chi Psi influence, and how, with the founders, the LeFevre brothers took their place on the honor roll and the interest of the family extended to all Chi Psi during the days when Dr. LeFevre occupied the parsonage. Many a rushee was taken to Middlebush to hear the good Chi Psi talk that could always be heard in the LeFevre home. Dominic LeFevre came as near to being an honorary Chi Psi as the rules allow, and, appropriately, he was succeeded in the Middlebush Church by Brother Thomson, whose three sons followed him into Chi Psi.

Alpha Rho has served the Fraternity at large by having charge of four conventions. These came in 1883 with Brother Brandow, '83, in charge at New York; in 1898 with Brother Nuttman, '96, in charge at Philadelphia; in 1907 with Brother Ned Wilber, '05, in charge at New York; and in 1926 with Brother Russell Watson, '07, in charge at Rutgers. This last convention was especially memorable since it came just after the inauguration of Brother Thomas as president of the university. All those who were present will remember the feeling of pride that it engendered in the alpha, the college and the Fraternity. The convention was held in Ballantine Gymnasium, and there was a meeting of the convention in Kirkpatrick Chapel for a service at which Brother Thomas presided. Brother Talmage, '86, and Brother Tremper, '96, have served on the Executive Council of the national Fraternity. Brother Florance, '85, was one of the first editors of The Purple and Gold and all of Volume 10 was issued while Brother Dayton, '92, was editor. Brother Bradbury, '30, served as Fraternity Visitor for two years following his graduation.

Alpha Rho has been actively interested in its sister alphas by means of visits and exchanges of courtesies. Two years after its beginning it was instrumental in the founding of Xi at Stevens, and in 1894 in the founding of Beta Delta at Lehigh. In the revival of Pi at Union, Rho was keenly interested through its friendship with Brother Cooper, II '93, who spent a year at Rutgers learning of Chi Psi. Also Brother Talmage, '86, who was located at Schenectady for a number of years as pastor in the Reformed Church, was helpful to Pi in its early years. In the founding of Psi Delta at Colorado, Brother Dayton, '89, was active, and Brother VanLeuven, '00, was active in the revival of Sigma. In the establishment of Kappa Delta at Yale, Brother Lull, '93, was influential.

It is of interest to note that Rho was prominent in the founding of The Purple and Gold and was represented on its first editorial staff. Members of the alpha always have been leaders in various forms of college activity and founded Cap and Skull, the senior honorary society. Also in matters concerning the university Alpha Rho has done its share by having Brother Florance, '85, and Brother Blakeley, '84, on the board of trustees. On the college faculty Brother Wilber, '79, was a power for all that was good and scholarly.

On scanning the years one finds much that might be recited. The Roll of Honor, established in 1925, suggests many an interesting incident. Those names include Brother Drake, '32, a Rhodes Scholar, who made an enviable record, and others, each of whom has added his bit to Rho history. The annual father and son banquets commenced by Brother Kelly, '20, on November 27, 1933, provide occasions for the fathers to hear a three-sided program in talks by the father of a senior, an alumnus, and a member of the faculty. The writer vividly recalls one of these banquets when Brother Watson, '07, delivered a ringing speech on the subject of "packing" the Supreme Court that brought both fathers and sons to their feet in wild applause. Statements by members of the faculty about what they expect of fraternities have enlisted a little more help by fathers in efforts to meet that high expectation.

The continued improvement of the lodge, the mother's auxiliary, the service to the university by use of the lodge during summer sessions of the Graduate School of Banking, sending alumni association financial reports to parents, and many other items suggest stories that might be told.

A history of Alpha Rho would be incomplete without mention of finances. It was in 1921 that the alumni association minute book recorded an effort "to promote an efficient administration of the financial affairs of Alpha Rho," and the effort persisted. At that time the lodge property was owned by "Alpha Rho of the Chi Psi Lodge," that had been incorporated in 1903 when the bonds issued by the original company were retired, and this corporation continued to hold title

MEMORIES OF ALPHA RHO. "Tonight a furious storm is raging without," in 1930 wrote John H. Scarlet, P'79, from Newtonville, N. Y. "The blustering wind catches up the snow, whisking it hither and yon, and piling it in great heaps everywhere. Reclining in the big armchair by the cheerful fireside, my mind turned back to days and events now so far behind. Faces of dear companions passed before my mind, each associated with a memory all its own. Of these faces one seems more prominent because it is associated with an event which not only gave color to my own life but also laid a principle which reflected itself upon the Fraternity to which we both belonged. We both became members of Alpha Rho of Chi Psi, at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N. J., though at the time of the occurrence we had not yet entered the Chi Psi family. Perhaps this incident will be of little use to you or of interest to any one, but as Chi Psi bore a name of honor and honesty both on the campus and in the classroom and as this incident seemed to have such an influence in this direction, I am minded to write it.

"I fancy the whole Fraternity, as do the members of Alpha Rho, know of the Rev. I. W. Gowen, who passed away from us a short time before the fiftieth anniversary of the alpha in March last. He was a brother who rose to prominent positions in his own denomination, had D.D. and LL.D. bestowed upon him, and was so successful in his life's work that a vast multitude gathered to add their tribute at the last. 'Billy' was my classmate and Fraternity brother. He was easily the leader of the class in every department of study during the entire collegiate course. The class was proud of him, and very justly, for through him the reputation of the class rose high.

"One day at a recitation in mathematics his name was drawn, and he was sent up to the board to work out one of the lesson problems. They were not easy ones, but as he usually made such quick work we expected the same this time. Judge then of our wonder when he spent such a long time there, and of our feeling when we saw that he had made a grave error in the statement of the problem, which could not lead to a correct solution. One of the fellows, seeing the error, quickly wrote out the correct statement and had it passed from hand to hand to him at the board. Our professor was a martinet; a sharp black-eyed man, exceedingly strict in anything like giving or receiving assistance during a recitation. He saw that paper on the way, but for once said nothing. I think, like all the rest of us, he did not want to see Gowen fail. For myself, I watched that paper. I saw it pass into Billy's hand. I thought, will he use it? Is the temptation stronger than the man? And then I saw him take the paper, crumple it in his hand, stand for a moment at the board and turn to his own chair, saying, 'I cannot solve the problem, Professor.' Up to this time his class standing was absolutely perfect! That failure marred that standing. Yes, it marred a standing but it did something far better. It stamped the seal of honor which grew with the years. 'I had rather,' he told me afterward, 'I had rather have an honorable failure than a dozen dishonorable successes.' That spirit was communicated to the alpha; it was a principle upon which that fraternal life was founded; it was handed down as an inheritance, and so fixed did it become, that Chi Psi stood upon the campus or in the classroom as a pledge of honesty and honor. Other fraternities might equal it in scholarship or at times excel it in scholastic standing, but that principle stood in Chi Psi in our day as a rock, unyielding and unsurpassed. Years have passed since then; the dark locks of twenty-five have changed into the gray of eighty, but the heart throbs, and the pulses beat quicker when memory turns back the flight of years and there pass in review those turning points of human character. Through the thin veil we catch glimpses of those dear ones whose lives and acts inspired and strengthened. I would that other men could feel the same incentive and take as theirs the words of my beloved brother, 'I had rather an honorable failure than a dozen dishonorable successes' either in college or in life.

"That night of our first solemn ritual was to us a memorable one, ending in the first Chi Psi banquet, at a fashionable restaurant long since forgotten. Personally, after a somewhat extended experience with rituals, nothing to my mind compares in dignity and language with that of Chi Psi, nor can any of later years be compared with the friendships then begun."

REV. M. T. CONKLIN, P'81, was a charter member of Alpha Rho and a member of the Rutgers chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Throughout his life Brother Conklin retained an interest in college and Fraternity affairs, and his figure was a familiar one on the campus at reunions.

to the lodge property until the present Alpha Rho Alumni Association was organized on December 30, 1926. It had been customary to recognize gifts by the issue of shares of stock, some of which had passed by inheritance to persons not members of the Fraternity. The treasurer undertook to have all shares donated back to the corporation and at a meeting on April 21, 1923, reported that every outstanding share had been secured, some of them from estates, without payment of any consideration of any sort. Such was the Chi Psi spirit. A building program to enlarge and improve the lodge was launched the same year. The lavish spirit of the roaring twenties, with some urging by the national Fraternity to provide more housing, overcame Rho as it did institutions in every line of endeavor. A new wing was built that balanced the colonial setting of the large white brick structure opposite Bishop Campus, and the interior was rebuilt to provide study rooms on the second and dormitories on the third floors. Rho moved into the reconstructed lodge in 1926.

The finance committee under the chairmanship of Brother Smalley, '06, worked valiantly and the building program was a great success but it was costly. Brother Anderson, E'90, then president of the national Fraternity, made a liberal contribution to the program, but on completion Rho had a heavy debt, covered in part by pledges of alumni maturing over a period of years. Of this, $35,000 was funded as a mortgage on the property and nineteen of the alumni endorsed a note, also secured by unpaid pledges, to cover the balance. The following financial depression made it impossible for a few alumni to meet their pledges but to Rho's credit be it said, that through the difficult years every financial obligation was met when due and in each year debt was reduced.

The final payment on the note was made in December, 1933, and on February 3 following, the brothers who had pledged their credit to make the new lodge possible burned the paid note on the banquet table with mixed feelings of relief and worthy pride. The mortgage then became the object of attack and since 1933 has been whittled away as funds permitted, by amounts ranging from $500 to $2,500 in each year.

The first serious plan for future financing was born in April, 1925, when Rho undertook to have each active buy a twenty-year $500 endowment insurance policy naming Rho as the sole beneficiary. This did not prove to have sufficient appeal to be continued and a plan for the purchase of building and loan shares was substituted which in turn was abandoned because of a high percentage of lapses. After careful study by an alumni committee, on November 1, 1933, Rho returned to insurance as a means to future financial security. The new plan, providing fifteen-year $500 policies under which Rho and a person named by the insured are each beneficiaries for $250, has proven acceptable for seven years and every undergraduate is required to take out such a policy. On September 1, 1940, the cash value to Rho of 113 policies then in force was $8,288.

Payments on the mortgage principal are already in excess of the required amortization until 1945 when the earliest insurance policies will mature. As all proceeds from insurance are dedicated to mortgage payments until Rho is free of debt, the alumni look forward to another banquet when the big bad wolf now wrapped in that mortgage will be thankfully sacrificed on a flaming pyre. The present plan is to treat all insurance proceeds as capital funds, so ultimately Rho may boast a large endowment instead of a large mortgage. Rho is proud of its financial record during the past difficult decade.

Reference already has been made to the grave repercussions which came with the regimentation of campus life during the war years of 1914-1918; another grave period was faced following the economic collapse of 1929. Rho did not suffer seriously in membership during the depression, although the total fraternity membership on the Rutgers campus declined sharply and the times were difficult for all fraternities. However, Alpha Rho sustained the battle through the depression years and stands today a stronger, more useful unit as a result of its efforts.

Financial soundness was necessary but there were other essentials. Where once

Taylor and Banks kept the lodge in some sort of order, catered to the boarders and were truly interested in the welfare of the changing groups who came to dwell at 114 College Avenue, today a resident house-mother supervises the routine of the lodge. Mrs. Reuben Corry, the first to serve in this capacity, was one of the earliest directresses, among the fraternity houses at Rutgers. For seven years, until forced by ill health to retire in June, 1938, Mrs. Corry was the friend and confidant of students and parents while she skillfully ruled the kitchen, acted as a chaperon and presided when parents, sisters and sweethearts visited the lodge. She succeeded in giving the lodge an atmosphere of a home rather than of a boarding house by attending to the thousand little things that only a woman knows and her influence was always directed to that practice of gentlemanly living which should characterize any fraternity house. The experience was so satisfactory to undergraduates, parents and alumni that a competent house-mother has since been deemed a necessity.

Another important step toward a better fraternity life was taken in the fall of 1937 when Neal Skillings, H'34, was installed as a resident preceptor. Brother Skillings served two years while attending the Rutgers graduate school of education and the venture was so satisfactory that he was succeeded by Brother John Ludlum, '39, to serve while a student at the nearby

DR. GEORGE E. TALMAGE, P'86, rector-emeritus of Christ Church, Oyster Bay, N. Y., was chaplain of the 95th Convention. At the opening session he pronounced the following invocation:

"Almighty God, we thank Thee this day for all the fellowship and inspiration we have found in our beloved Fraternity; and we beseech Thee to be with and bless this Convention, that its members may consider and make wise plans for the increasing of our efficiency, and for the melioring of our fellowship, so that we may continue to be an inspiration for the generations of college students yet to come within our circle. This we ask for Thy Name's sake. Amen."

Theological Seminary. The preceptor serves as a liaison with the faculty and has been able to avoid some academic deficiencies by early and vigorous attention. He has successfully dealt with parents when occasion required. He tutors under-classes as necessary and serves as a confidential and helpful adviser on various matters including some far removed from the curricula. Each month the preceptor sends a detailed report to the alumni officers covering rushing, scholarship and extra-curricular activities. Poor work is made the subject of special explanation.

The house-mother and the preceptor have proven material aids in the effort to make life in the lodge an ever stronger influence for the formation of sound living and working habits.

But house-mothers, preceptors and financial stability cannot of themselves insure attaining the real purpose of a fraternity. In the final analysis these are but important aids. The broader fraternity goal will be achieved only through an appreciation of possible material, social and spiritual values that are within reach and through constant support of loyal alumni who recognize these values and the real utility of a fraternity on the campus.

The position occupied by fraternities at Rutgers has changed greatly since college days of the older alumni—not because the fraternity way-of-life became worse but because the way-of-life of the whole student body became better—and the gap between the two became so narrowed that fraternities had a less essential place in campus life. Rho frankly recognized and accepted this challenge and during recent years has been restoring the gap that serves as a measure of the worth of fraternity life. Steady progress is being made and shoulder to shoulder with other fraternities at Rutgers that have an understanding interest in the situation and fine traditions, the former position of fraternities at Rutgers is being fully restored. It is believed at Rho that those fraternities which do not march in this progress must die.

Progress at Rho will continue while there is a strong alumni interest. From the days of Brother Skellenger, who in his early years as pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Dunellen drove through a beating rain with the offer of his small savings to clinch the buying of the first lodge, (and whose widow, on her death and at his request, left a fund for the alumni association), Alpha Rho has found staunch friends among the graduates. To the present board of trustees—Brothers Fisher, Atwater, Florance, Lundberg, Wharton and others, to whom must be added Brother Davis, Φ'04, supervising principal of the Bound Brook schools—is due much of the present success of Alpha Rho of Chi Psi. Despite the many calls upon their time, each has given unselfishly of his energy to the work of the lodge. From their wise and patient counsel has come much of present-day progress; and from their appreciation of Fraternity values has come a spiritual strength which nobody can evaluate, but each one cherishes.

REGINALD B. ALLEN, P'93, for 32 years one of the most vital forces of the Kenyon teaching staff, was one of the college's best loved professors. Known to three decades of Kenyon students as "Gummy" Allen, he was a man of seemingly boundless energy. In addition to his distinguished service as professor of mathematics, Dr. Allen served for many years on numerous student-faculty committees and was instrumental in developing student government bodies in the college.

DR. RICHARD SWANN LULL, P'93, for thirty years a member of the Yale faculty and for nine years Sterling Professor of Paleontology, retired from active teaching in 1936. He continued as Curator of the Peabody Museum, which post he had held since 1922. Professor Lull is the editor of the American Journal of Science, the author of many scientific and several theological books, and a member of various learned societies. In the picture he stands at the left beneath the giant lizard, the reconstruction of which was a notable achievement of the Peabody Museum under Brother Lull's direction. Brontosaurus, the giant lizard, is nearly seventy feet long and sixteen feet high. The skeleton, excavated in Wyoming many years ago, weighs six and one-half tons. It is estimated that this dinosaur when alive, some 120,000,000 years ago, weighed upwards of forty tons. Reconstruction of the giant lizard was completed in 1931, under the supervision of Mr. Hugh Gibb, chief preparator of the Museum, who stands at the right in the picture. Alpha Kappa Delta had Brother Lull as honored guest at the "Birthday Dinner" at New Haven on May 20, 1936.

J. PROVOST STOUT, P'95, was born in Nagasaki, Japan, on January 26, 1870, the son of Henry Stout, D.D., Rutgers '65, a pioneer missionary of the Reformed Church in America in the South Japan Mission. One of Brother Stout's cherished possessions is a huge camphor wood panel carving depicting the goddess of thunder which came from the old living quarters of the Buddhist temple where his parents were staying at the time he was born. In their later mission compound Brother Stout has the memory of the pleasing fiction of being rushed for Chi Psi by G. E. Talmage, P'86, and in turn rushing the two Brothers Rapalje, P'00, all the sons of Reformed missionaries at the Amoy station in China and visitors at the hospitable home of his parents on their trips to and from America. Brother Stout's two crossings of the Pacific and his trip finally to America to secure his education by way of the China coast, the Indian Ocean, through part of Europe and across the Atlantic are treasured memories.

ALPHA XI, established on February 14, 1883, at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N. J., by Frank VanVleck, North McLean, Charles Walter Thomas, William Norris Stevens, Simeon Martinez, Daniel Curtis Williams, Jesse Homer Sanford and John Austen McCulloch.

STEVENS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY at Hoboken, N. J., was founded in 1870 by Edwin A. Stevens, a man at that time preëminent in engineering. It was the first college in the United States to graduate men trained as mechanical engineers and soon gained recognition from the engineering world. Shortly after its founding four fraternities were established, Delta Tau Delta, Beta Theta Pi, Theta Xi and Alpha Tau Omega. Later a local society called Alpha Psi was founded. Some of the members of Alpha Psi knew Chi Psi at Rutgers and approved heartily of the spirit of the Fraternity. They decided to apply for a charter which, after a wait of two years, was granted.

Frank VanVleck, '84, was initiated at Alpha Rho, and on February 14, 1883, the seven other charter members, McLean, Thomas, Stevens, Martinez, Williams, Sanford and McCulloch, were initiated at Hoboken. In this way Alpha Xi of Chi Psi began its career. The brothers, from the first, not only ranked high in scholarship but held numerous college honors. The alpha prospered and became highly respected by both faculty and students. During the first two college years meetings were held in a room at 1 Washington Street, other rooms being rented for initiations. On returning to college in the fall of 1884 the alpha rented a small apartment at Ninth and Hudson Streets in which not only meetings and initiations were held but, the brothers living there together, Xi thus became the first fraternity at Stevens to have a home of its own. The various members, both active and alumni, helped to make it attractive by contributing furniture, pictures, etc. Prosperity followed and though for the next few years the membership would sometimes become small due to graduation yet the alpha always secured sufficient new men in the fall to make up for the loss and continue in flourishing condition.

That the alpha continued to prosper is evidenced by the fact that in the spring of 1891 it supported a successful baseball team of its own. Early in 1892 a committee, representing the alpha, was formed to visit the professors at their homes and this, while doing much to promote the standing of the alpha and its members with the professors and instructors, also tended to promote a more genial spirit between the faculty and fraternities generally. During this period Xi was in excellent condition, being represented in every college organization and having the captaincies or leading positions of several. During the college year 1896-97 the 25th anniversary of the founding of Stevens was celebrated, Xi taking part and assisting in the celebration; a number of its alumni exhibiting models, machinery or scientific apparatus or instruments which they had made or invented. Although in 1899 the membership roll decreased and for one reason or another stayed small for two or three years thereafter, the spirit and standing of the alpha continued good. In 1891 and 1900 the 50th and 59th Conventions, respectively, were held in New York under Xi's auspices.

During the winter of 1902 the death of Dr. Henry Morton, president of Stevens, occurred and as all social functions were given up for the balance of the year it was a quiet and uneventful one for Xi. In February of 1903, Alexander C. Humphreys, Stevens '81, was inaugurated as president of the institute. Xi, though still small in numbers, went through the winter term with a higher scholastic standing than any other fraternity in college. In the fall of 1906 the membership rose to seventeen, the largest in twenty years, in spite of the fact that considerable feeling was then developing between the fraternity and non-fraternity students. At this time the "honor system" was tried at Stevens, the results of the first tests proving so satisfactory that the faculty decided to continue the system. A year later the new Stevens athletic field, strikingly located on account of its elevation above the lease in advance, which prevented living at a fraternity house that year.

The entrance of the United States into the World War in 1917 was soon felt by Alpha Xi. The opening of college in the fall of that year found several of the active brothers in the country's service and others left college from time to time to serve the government in one way or another. Altogether about sixty-five actives or alumni of Xi were in the army, navy or other government service during that war. In 1918 the lodge was given over to the government as quarters for army officers stationed in Hoboken. Although twelve active brothers started college in the fall of 1918, it was necessary for them all to live "in quarters" which had been built at the institute for housing the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps of which all were members and all "non coms" but one. This continued until the Armistice, after which, with the brothers returning and the resumption of activities in the lodge, the alpha in 1919-20 began its recovery, which was happily and quickly accomplished.

The efforts at rebuilding the alpha, made in 1920, were carried on and showed results in 1921, the membership rising to surrounding parts of Hoboken, was dedicated and opened, this marking the new era for the institute. Four years later, in 1911, Stevens Castle, which with its grounds had been acquired by the institute, was opened as the first dormitory for Stevens. While it accommodated but a small number, nevertheless it did affect the fraternity houses, especially as to the freshmen. Those intending to live at college were obliged to sign a year's room eighteen. All the brothers were active in college affairs, five being awarded varsity letters during the collegiate year. For the college year 1921-22 the alpha, having the highest academic standing of all the fraternities at Stevens, was awarded the interfraternity council scholarship trophy. In the fall of 1922, Xi was very successful in securing new men, causing considerable jealousy among the other fraternities. These, using the interfraternity council in a very irregular manner, decided, without Xi's knowledge, to take disciplinary steps but on account of the unfairness of the proceeding the matter was soon dropped and amicably settled.

During 1924 and 1925 the prosperity of the alpha continued, the brothers being very active in all college affairs and the alpha doing her part in the social and collegiate life of the institute. At the close of the football season in the fall of 1924 it was decided by the college authorities that football as a varsity sport should be abolished and up to the present writing it has not been resumed. During this period co-operation with the faculty as to the brothers' standing, work, etc., was sought and proved of value. Attempts were made, by inviting the parents of the actives to dinner or a reception, to interest the boys' families in the alpha. It was felt that these functions were beneficial.

With the Commencement exercises of 1927, Dr. Humphreys retired after twenty-five years of service as president of Stevens. Dr. Frank L. Sevenoak, who at the time was professor of English literature, was made acting president and served as such until Dr. Harvey N. Davis assumed the presidency with the opening of college in the fall of 1928. With the new president came new ideas, steps were taken to increase the enrollment and to attract students from all parts of the country. A new and larger Stevens was planned and a beginning has been made. Tuition was increased but a system of rebates for excellence in scholarship and college activity was also instituted, the idea being to reward the more worthy.

About this time, however, Xi's membership began to diminish and recovery was rather slow. The alumni were partially organized and began to help financially. In 1930 with the assistance of the Visitor, "Billy" Rock, the membership noticeably picked up and prosperity again appeared on the horizon. By 1932 the lodge was full and Xi was holding most of the important college offices again. For six years this continued when suddenly signs of slipping again appeared. The 1937 "recession" was partly responsible, some of the brothers having to become inactive or leave college altogether, thus making the 1938-39 year a hard one financially. But again the alumni rallied, especially the younger classes, and as this history is written the alpha is staging a decided comeback. Opening the 1939-40 college year with ten actives, four more were initiated in the early fall and there are ten pledges, most of whom will run the scholarship gauntlet and be initiated in the near future. It is expected that the active membership will reach twenty by midwinter.

Practically ever since the alpha was founded Xi has had a lodge. At first it provided only for alpha meetings but in about three years more commodious quarters were secured to serve also as a home for the brothers wishing to live there. In a few years a strong desire developed to have meals served in the lodge, so a larger house was secured and meals in the lodge soon became an accomplished fact, much to the satisfaction of all.

Shortly after the opening of the athletic field it was announced that the Institute would allow the fraternities at Stevens to purchase building sites along the two outer sides of the field for fraternity house purposes. Several of them, including Xi, purchased lots for the purpose but only one house was built. The "lay of the land" on the other lots proved a considerable obstacle to building desirable houses and a year or two later the Institute decided to buy back the property, which it did.

During this time Xi had always occupied a rented house but the idea of owning her own lodge was strong and on February 1, 1909, steps were taken to insure it. The Xi Land Co. was incorporated with some of the more active alumni as incorporators, all of them subscribing liberally to the stock. The Land Co. was to seek further subscriptions and act as the holding company for any property secured. In 1916 the house at 829 Hudson Street was purchased and the actives moved into a lodge of their own, which still serves as the Alpha Xi Lodge. Realizing that it has become obsolete, a change is under consideration. It is hoped that the time when Xi will have more adequate quarters is not far distant.

STEVENS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY. (View of new dormitory.) Founded in 1870. In 1871 Stevens Institute of Technology was opened, due to the generosity of Edwin A. Stevens, member of one of America's greatest engineering families, who gave his Castle Point estate at Hoboken, N. J., and $650,000 to found an institute of mechanical engineering. That was a day when all engineering was civil or military, and mechanical engineering was but a new and promising branch of civil engineering. To the 4,000 whom it has graduated, Stevens has consistently given training for the practice of engineering in its several branches through one basic course of fundamentals. Stevens graduates have practiced mechanical, chemical, electrical, civil and industrial engineering, but the Institute gives only one degree, that of M.E., in mechanical engineering. It is aimed for Stevens to surround its students with the social background and extracurricular activities of a country college, while taking full advantage of surrounding industrial districts for observation of engineering practice. Progress toward this ideal has already been marked by the building of two new dormitories and other steps toward increasing the number of resident students and cutting down the number of commuters. In the summer every class at the end of its first year attends the civil engineering camp, on a tract of 375 acres of woodland in northern New Jersey acquired by the institute in 1930. In the fall every senior devotes a week to a tour of inspection of manufacturing plants in the eastern states. These two periods of living together cement the classes as units and build up friendships that last through life.—Lisso S. Mims, '39.

FRANK VANVLECK, '84. Writing in May, 1936, from Tucson, Ariz., to the Cornell chapter of Sigma Xi, the honorary engineering fraternity, Frank VanVleck, '84, who was one of the founders of Sigma Xi in 1886 as well as a founder of Alpha Xi of Chi Psi, gives this interesting account of his activities:

"During the last twenty years my official duties at the War Department have kept me very busy at Washington, and I have not been able to follow up my various interests as I should. I was a graduate of Stevens Institute of Technology, a postgraduate at Johns Hopkins, an instructor and then assistant professor in Mechanical Engineering at Cornell, a postgraduate at George Washington University, where I took my Ph.D. degree, and then professor of M.E. at the same university. In Washington have been for these twenty years the supervising marine engineer, and marine adviser to the Quartermaster General, charged with general Naval administrative details of the ships of the U. S. Army Transport Service and U. S. Harbor Boats. During the World War was a Major, QMC, and assistant to the General in charge of the U.S.A. Embarkation Service, and later became a Lieutenant Colonel, QMC, on passing to the Reserves. Have been on continuous duty in the War Department since under my civilian title. Hence, it can be inferred, perhaps, that my work has been of a class to uphold the traditions of the great Sigma Xi.

"On reaching the age of seventy, three years ago, I was due for Civil Service retirement, but President Hoover, at request of the then Quartermaster General, reappointed me for an additional period of two years. This two years being up, I was thereupon retired a year ago, but I still maintain my official residence in Washington, as the Quartermaster General desired to have me at hand in connection with certain ships' plans for the War Department which the Government had under consideration.

"For the last three months I have been enjoying a real vacation in Arizona and thus have escaped much of the Eastern rigors of cold and floods. In a week or two will proceed to the Pacific Coast and meet some of my old time friends of California, and then return to Washington, D. C., where, after May 15, I may be addressed at the office of the Quartermaster General, War Department."
